Any Old Thing.

that wouldn't show dirt, and that would outlast the average life of man was the standard for 'first-class' ready-made clothing in Philadelphia, prior to the Centennial.

It was dingy brown, and the other colors which the farmers love, that went into the half-made, and ready-made suits and overcoats, even at the stiffest kind of prices, and it was Hob-on's choice all of the time.

Any old thing, in the way of black iron building hardware had to go, and did go, before the Russell & Erwin Manufacturing Co., opened shop in Philadelphia.

Its goods were a revelation, as well as an object lesson to local manufacturers. It was the difference between sunshine and shade. The crude work of the country blacksmith, and the sculptors art in bronze. The idea of poetry and sentiment expressed in door knobs and knobs was an inspiration, a passion. It was just the difference between the manners of a long-shore man and a Chesterfield, or a Bayard, or the learning of a Orlington and a plantation slave.

Is it any wonder that the Russell & Erwin hardware is preferred over all other makes?

PHILADELPHIA, WED'Y, MAY 8, 1899.

ONE of the most striking hives of industry at the present time is the Holmesburg Granite Company's quarries, now running day and night in order to fill their listed orders. This is one of the peculiarly fine and varied stones used for general building, as well as decorative purposes, and is known all over the country for its merits in durability, power of resistance in crushing test, its beautiful color, either cut or uncut, susceptibility to polish, and it is impervious to water and absolutely free from stain which in many other solid geological formations present themselves when brought into practical uses as building material. The agents, Messrs. Vollmer & Register Harrison Building, in this city, say that the output will be largely increased by added drills and channel cutters, as well as other general facilities, in order to supply the demands made upon them for this valuable material.

Architect Notes.

William B. Tubby, 81 Fulton street, N. Y., is the architect for a brick and stone office addition to be built for P. M. Dingee & Sons, foot of East Seventh street. It will have tin roof and steam heat, and cost about $5000.

A modern ten-story mercantile building is to be erected by Andrew J. Connick, 229 Fifth avenue, after plans by Robert Maynick, 725 Broadway, N. Y. Construction of light brick and stone, iron and steel, asphalt roof, concrete floors, electric light, elevators, steam heat, etc.

J. D. Engel, contractor, has the contract for the Memorial Church of St. Paul, to be erected at Overbrook and Lancaster avenue, from plans by F. M. Mann architect, 3 S. Chestnut street. It will be 60x102 feet, stone and brick, one story high, and cost about $30,000. Fully noted in this journal during the year 1898.

Wm. McCauley, architect, 730 Chestnut street, has made plans for an operation of seventeen houses, to be erected at Ridge avenue and Dauphin street, by Charles D. Land, of 1545 Seybert street. These are to be of fancy brick and stone trimmings, interior to have tile work, hot air heat, electric work and best conveniences.

J. F. Stuckert & Son, architects, 49 North Thirtieth street, has plans on boards for a large machine shop, 80x250 feet, two stories high, to be erected in the northeastern section of this city. It will be of brick, and furnished with all appliances. Estimates to be asked at once. Same architects are busy on sketches for other work, which will be noted soon.

Plans are being prepared by John De Hart, architect, 1637 Fox street, N. Y., for eight brick and stone trimmed flat buildings, to be erected for D. McNivin, care architect. The work includes iron beams, tin roofs, skylights, patent plaster, mosaic tiling, stained glass, wood mantels, grille work, marble washstands bathroom outfits, dumb waiters and steam heat; cost, $200,000.

W. Frisby Smith, architect, 1345 Arch street, has made plans for four dwellings for Henry L. Brown, to be erected at Thirtieth and Spruce streets. These are to be ornamental fronts of Pompeian brick and limestone trimmings, interior to have tile work, electrical work, hot air heaters, ranges and boilers of the most approved patterns and all modern conveniences.

N. C. Mellen, architect, 28 West Thirtieth street, N. Y., has completed plans and specifications, and Contractors Marc Eidlitz & Son, 489 Fifth avenue, have the general contract for the handsome town houses, to be built at 284 and 286 Madison avenue, for Mr. Clarence M. Hyde. The construction will be of stone and brick, with all modern improvements. Estimated to cost about $136,000.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

William R. Dougherty, 1604 Sansom street, is asking bids for alterations and additions to Joseph S. Vetterlein's residence, at 4212 Spruce street. He also wants bids for iron work to construct two English traveling ovens for J. Henry Mitchell.

Contractor William R. Dougherty will commence work on improvements at S. F. Nixon's residence and stable, to cost $18,000, at once. The work will consist of a three-story rear addition, 16 x 17 feet, an additional story on the present rear building, 16 x 25 feet, a three-story side addition, 15 x 14 feet and interior alterations at 842 North Broad street, and alterations to the stable at 843 Carlisle street, previously noted.

George C. Thomas, of Twenty-first and Spruce streets, has awarded a contract to George Watson & Sons, Contractors, 905-7 Marshall street, to build a handsome dwelling at the northwest corner of Seventeenth street and De Lancey Place, to cost about $20,000. The building will be practically four stories high, and 23x73 feet in dimensions. The plans have been approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection, and work will be started at once.

The property on the southeast corner of Sixteenth and Spring Garden streets, belonging to James Moore, has been sold to the Baldwin Locomotive Works for the sum of $185,000. The purchase comprises over 64,000 square feet, the lot of ground being 207.8 x 223.9 1/4 feet, and extends from Spring Garden street to Buttonwood street, and from Sixteenth half way to Seventeenth street. Shops will be erected in the place of the buildings now occupying the ground, the first one now being built being a large flange shop employing many workmen.

During the current week Charles McCaul, contractor, 10 North Eleventh street, has started preliminary work on quite a number of operations, among which may be noted the new Bell Telephone structure, at Seventeenth and Filbert streets, the parish school and rectory of St. John's Roman Catholic Church, and a roof garden for Children's Hospital, Twenty-second below Walnut street. The entire cost of this work will aggregate $235,000, and has been fully noted previously in this journal.

The Globe Artificial Stone Paving Company, Jno. F. Galbraith, proprietor, 1125 Betz Building, has been awarded the following contracts: Cement work on forty-two and three-story dwellings for Hiram Miller, at Sixteenth street and Erie avenue; twenty-eight two-story dwellings for Wm. Morris, at Fifty-third and Jefferson streets; cement paving and curbing for Chas. D. Murtha, at Martin street and Ridge avenue, Roxborough, and two dwellings for Mr. Erb, at Eighteenth and Berks streets.

W. T. B. Roberts, the well-known builders whose offices are in the Land Title and Trust Building, Broad and Chestnut streets, is pushing his Spring operations at Ogontz Park and Glenside Farms, and will erect a large number of fine houses at both places, after plans by various architects. The materials used embrace the entire list of stone, brick and framework, and the interior will be perfect models of comfort and convenience, with heat and light to please the most fastidious tastes. The decorative art on interior and exterior are realistic dreams of the beautiful, every feature being brought into play to make attractive homes.

Building Inspectors Myhertz, Bourse and Payne made a thorough examination on last Friday, of all the buildings in the vicinity of the explosion at Fler's factory, and as a result issued the following condemnation notices in addition to those already sent out: Northeast corner of Twenty-fourth and Callowhill streets, H. Muller, owner, east parting wall, front wall on Callowhill street, and Twenty-fourth street side wall are in a dangerous condition; also the first floor beams and joists are dangerous; No 2340 Callowhill street, Mrs. James J. Donnelly, owner, front wall dangerous; No 2335 Callowhill street, front wall and roof dangerous, Matthias Cassidy, owner. In all these cases the inspectors order the dangerous portions of the structures to be either torn down or made safe at once. There are a number of other buildings damaged to a more or less extent, but they are not in such condition as to need a condemnation, as they can be repaired.

Architect Notes.

M. B. Bean, Lansdale, Pa., has drawn plans for enlarging and remodeling the dwelling of Judge Aaron S. Swartz, at Norristown, Pa. Also plans for an addition to the Collegeville Hotel.

Plans have been made by Lawrence Vischer Boyd, architect, Harrison Building, Fifteenth and Market streets, for a very large fine residence to be erected at "Glenside Farms," Glenside Station, Pa., and are now at 1604 Sansom street for estimates. The house will be three-stories high, of frame and stucco work, red shingle work, fancy brick work for base and chimneys, small glass for windows, interior will contain all improvements and comforts, electric work, hot-air heat, range and boilers, bath, etc.

Francis G. Caldwell, architect, 1110 Walnut street, has completed plans for a house to be erected on the east side of Forty ninth street, between Chester avenue and Regent street, for J. Howard Brown. The structure will be of red brick, stone trimmings, hot water heat, tin roofing and all modern conveniences. The same architect has awarded the contract for a bath-house, at Manayunk, to the Stewart Bros., who have started work. Same architect has made plans for a small house to be erected at Saturday Cove, Waldo Co., Maine.

C. L. W. Eidlitz, architect, 1125 Broadway, N. Y., has designed plans, which have been filed by R. S. Callaway, president of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, for the construction of a three-story brick clubhouse, 40.4x90 feet, at the foot of West Seventy-second street. The building will be erected by the railroad company for the Young Men's Christian Association railroad employees, and will be known as the Seventy-second street branch. Part of the new clubhouse will be occupied by the railroad for offices. It is estimated to cost about $25,000.

On boards of Doyle & Duak, contractors, 1599 Sansom street, for estimates, are the plans for the large store building of William Warner, at 1228 Market street plans as noted last week by Charles V. Bolton & Company, architects. Also drawings by Wilson Bros. & Company, architects and engineers, Drexel Building, for a large reformatory house, for the Twenty fifth Ward Gas Works, for the U. G. I. Co. This structure will be two stories and basement, of brick, stone and terra cotta work, iron truss and slate roof, cement pavement and floors, also Belgian block paving, ventilators, lumber, carpenter and mill work, painting and glazing, hard ware, etc., are among the specifications.

Plans are on the boards of Neville & Bagge, architects, 217 West 125th street, for six light brick and limestone front flat buildings to be put up for Henry Beer, 317 East 125th street. The work includes stained glass, concrete cellars, wood mantels, grille work, bathroom outfits, dumb waiters, mosaic tiling, and steam heat, also tin roofs, iron beams and skylights. Cost $120,000. The same architects have plans for a brick and stone apartment building for William Drought, 216 West 104th street. Construction will include structural iron, tin roof skylights, interior marble, mosaic tiling, stained glass, cabinet mantels, mirrors, grille work, nickel-plated plumbing, bathroom outfits, electric wiring and steam heat. Cost $75,000.

In a competition of designs between architects for the new Bryn Mawr Grammar School Building, Schermerhorn & Reinhold architects, 430 Walnut street, were retained by the school board of Lower Merion township, Montgomery county, to prepare plans. The building will contain ten school rooms, besides play rooms, bicycle room, teachers' apartments, etc., and will be constructed of local stone. The interior furnishing will be oak, with maple floors, cement plaster modern plumbing, and the most approved system of heating and ventilating. Plans will be completed for estimates within a few days. The cost will be about $30,000. The same architects have awarded the contract for the erection of a brick and-frame residence at Cynwyd, Montgomery county, for Walter F. March, of this city, to Albert L. Fretz, of Bala. The work will be commenced at once. The cost will be about $7500.

Assistant Secretary Taylor of the Treasury Department will at once send out invitations to twenty leading architects in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago to submit competitive plans for the new custom house building to be erected on the Bowling Green site in New York City. The Government in a few days will furnish such architects as accept the invitation an outline of what will be required in the way of materials, floor spaces, height of building, etc., but will reserve the right to reject any or all of the plans submitted. Under the law the successful architect will receive as compensation for plans and specifications and general supervision of the work of construction 5 per cent. of the cost of the building. Great care has been used in the selection of the twenty architects who have been asked to compete, and it is authoritatively stated that, under no circumstances will the number be increased.

Seymour Davis, architect, 907 Walnut street, is now taking estimates on the new high school, to be erected by the Board of Education, at Norristown, Pa. The bids will include at present, all except that of heating, plumbing and gas fitting, and must be in by May 17th, when the contract will be awarded. The structure is to be three stories high, material of red brick, terra cotta and cut stone work, and highly ornamental in design. The roof will be of slate a tower 126 feet high, in centre and of sand material. The main doorway will be massive, in cut stone and terra cotta work, also rubble stone will be used in construction. The specifications call for interior hard wood work, copper and galvanized work, tin work, blackboards, considerable iron work, painting and glazing, leaded glass windows and electric work. All the latest and best improvements will be introduced eventually in this structure. The same architect will prepare plans for the great Horse Show, which is to take place during the month of June, at Atlantic City, N. J. The work will include grading for ring, stables, fencing, sheds for shelter, seating or auditorium, quarters for riders and stablemen, electric work and all arrangements for the general exhibition. Also plans will be made by Mr. Davis for a school-house to be erected at Bridgton, N. J., and another at Everett, Pa., each to be of brick and stone construction, and all late improvements introduced. Other work for which the architect is retained, will be noted as the drawings develop.

At present Cope & Stewardson, architects, 321-324 Walnut street, are engaged in preparation of drawings for what will prove one of the largest and finest apartment houses in this part of the country, and especially in this city. The structure will occupy the site of the old St. Mary's Roman Catholic Cemetery, Thirteenth street, below Spruce, and will when erected be a ten-story building of brick, stone, and terra cotta and steel skeleton, as well as absolutely fire-proof material on interior. There will also be every convenience for permanent and transient patrons. The main entrance being on Thirteenth street, will be massive, and lead to a large hallway, in which will be located the elevators and offices upon the first floor; also reception parlors, cafes, music room and general conversation rooms. These will be ornamented in various ways, and with the main hallway contain mosaic and tile work wainscoting in stone and wood work, iron, fancy grille work, an electric plant, steam heat and power plant; also, freight lift, will be introduced upon the most improved systems; ventilation and light will be given attention in the construction; also, the preparation of rooms, en suite and single, with every home comfort; considerable cement work in paving and flooring; also, hollowware. Partitions of mastic or other material will be used, plate and leaded glass, and the furnishing will be upon an extended scale, embracing only the best lines and kinds of domestic comforts. The building will be erected by Mr. Clifford Pemberton & Co., and operated under their control. No time can be at present indicated when the start will be made towards building except the excavation which is at present being made.

"Just as Good."

Of all the aggravating sentences known in the English language, "just as good" to the average American in quest of honest worth and willing to pay for it is the worst.

There is something about the phrase in itself which is particularly nagging as well as insulting to a man, who has so thoroughly investigated the merit of the article he desires to purchase, as to leave no room for argument.

It is an assault upon the intelligence, his person, his nationality, his liberty, his rights as a citizen, his individuality, and, if it included his wife and children, it would not be more aggravated.

Russell & Erwin
Mfg. Co.'s Hardware

is the result of natural causes. There are no phenomena nor mystic enchantments about the proposition from the beginning to the end.

Careful painstaking effort in every detail, from the selection of the base metal to the finishing, is the secret and the only secret of this "wonderful" process, which turns out the best building hardware in the world.

"Just as good" may capture a few of the credulous, who live on Easy street, but it don't go with those who know the difference.

PHILADELPHIA, WED'Y, MAY 10, 1899.

THE recent destruction by fire of the building known as the Triangle, bounded by Ridge avenue, Thirteenth and Green streets, will afford City Councils an opportunity for carrying out the small park idea to perfection.

A small park at this point would greatly improve the neighborhood, enhance the value of property in the vicinity, besides making one more breathing spot for the people where it is most needed.

How much the business men of this city, and in fact the entire community, are indebted to the Trades' League, will never be fully understood. Quietly, and without ostentation, a bit of clever work is accomplished through the indefatigable efforts of committees, and the workers resume their daily plodding in their own business affairs, seemingly unconscious of the great service they have rendered every one, for the influence for good is so far reaching that its limits are beyond estimate.

Of course there is much individually, both self-assertive and tenacious in the Trades' League, as there is in every body of business men, and, while it is possible to name such active factors in this organization as Mahlon D. Kline, Howard B. French, W. W. Foulkrod and Thomas Martindale, it is not possible to name all in a limited space to whom our citizens are greatly indebted for the many good things that have been accomplished through the different committees of this organization, the last of which the stop-over privileges just granted by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, is of as much importance as any.

This concession was granted through the efforts of Mr. W. W. Foulkrod, representing the Trades' League, as its president, and Mr. Thomas Martindale, representing the passenger committee of the same organization.

While congratulations are in order over this important concession on the part of the B. & O., there is something humiliating, in the fact that such privileges were ever denied the patrons of this or any other railroad entering this great manufacturing centre.

Does the B. & O. pay taxes upon its real estate devoted to public use? We do know that the Philadelphia & Reading does not and it is fair to infer that they are treated alike.

Why do the railroads continue to treat this city as if it were a country village? Why do councils tolerate such treatment? Why is it that the righting of wrongs must devolve upon the Trades' League? Why is it that the laws regulating the issue of railroad passes are ignored? Echo answers, why?

GOVERNOR STONE has signed bills repealing the act entitled "An act amending clause 10 of section 1. of an act authorizing the ascertainment, levy, assessment and collection of the costs, damages and expenses of municipal improvements, including the grading, paving, macadamizing, or otherwise improving of any street, lane or alley or parts thereof completed or now in process of completion, and also the costs, damages and expenses of the construction of any sewer completed or now in process of completion and authorizing the completion of any such improvement, approved the 16th of May, 1891, enlarging the time which the proceedings shall include," approved the 31st of May, 1897.

Repealing an act authorizing the ascertainment of damages to property taken, injured or destroyed in opening, widening, straightening or extending of streets and alleys, in cases where municipalities have heretofore entered upon private property or filed bonds, under laws subsequently decided to be unconstitutional, or which are invalid, and providing for the ascertainment, levy and collection of benefits therefor and constituting such benefits a lien upon the properties upon which they are respectfully assessed, approved June 7, 1897.

Foerderer, of Frankford, has awarded contracts to Contractor George Kessler to build a two-story brick stable, 18x32 feet, on the south side of Mill street, east of Paul, and also for the erection of a two-story lime house, 60x120 feet at Frankford road and Luzerne street. This work will cost $11,500.

Contractor A. Raymond Raff has taken out a permit to tear down and rebuild walls and strengthen the floors at the northeast corner of Twenty-fourth and Callowhill streets, for H. Mullen, owner. The work will cost $900. The building was condemned by Building Inspector F. G. M. Hertz and reported in last issue of this journal.

Councils' committee on city property have reported the following ordinances favorably to councils: Appropriating $15,000 for the improvement of John Dickinson Square; $10,000 for Millin Square, $1500 for fixing the walks in Norris Square and appropriating $2500 for adding a second story to the Twenty-ninth district police station.

The United Gas Improvement Company propose to put an iron fence, with granite base, a round their property at Ninth and Diamond streets, lay granolithic pavements and granite curbs, pave the enclosure with Belgian blacks and put up a number of iron hitching posts for teams. Estimates for the work are now being made by contractors.

Plans have been submitted to the bureau of building inspection for a proposed roof garden to be constructed on top of the Belz Building, Broad and South Penn Square. The plans make provision for a band stand at one corner of the roof and the elevators will be extended to a height sufficient to carry passengers all the way to the roof. This work was noted several days ago.

Director of Public Works Haddock recently awarded the contract for the two pumping engines, to be installed at the Roxborough station, at Shawmont, to the Worthington Pumping Engine Company. The price is $60,000 for both engines, and they are to be in place and in running order in from eight to ten months. The capacity is to be 5,000,000 gallons each.

An additional structure will be erected during the summer months for the Home for Epileptics, at Oakbourne, P. We understand plans are being made and when developed we shall note more fully. The new structure will be of brick, two stories high, and basement. It will be a sort of a work shop and winter quarters combined, and fitted with all modern conveniences.

John Wanamaker has asked for plans and estimates from Charles McCaul, William

Steele & Sons, and Doyle & Doak for the erection of a new building at No. 1226 Market street, to replace the one destroyed by flames in the great fire of February last. The proposed building is to be twelve stories high, and of thoroughly fireproof construction. It is to be used for laundry and light manufacturing purposes.

At the annual meeting of the T Square Club, in the club rooms, No. 1204 Chancellor street on Wednesday evening last, the season of 1898-1899 was closed. The following new officers were elected: Adin B. Lacey, president; Warren P. Laird, vice-president; Arthur S. Brooke, secretary; Horace H. Burrell, treasurer. With E. V. Seeler L. C. Hickman, D. K. Boyd, the officers will form the executive committee.

Italian Marble Mosaic Co., 431 Spruce street, were awarded the contracts for Mosaic floor work on the following: Epiphany Chapel, Seventeenth and Cherry streets; George Y. Wood's drug store, Tenth and Spruce streets; Dobson Building, Eighth and Chestnut streets; First Presbyterian Church, at Hazleton, Pa.; Hospital at Allentown, Pa., and floor and pulpit work at Church of Holy Nativity, at Rockledge, Pa.

Now that the indebtedness of Bethany Presbyterian Church has been met by the congregation, the $20,000 check presented by John Wanamaker, contingent thereon, becomes available for the purpose of making many alterations and additions to the structure. It is understood a building committee will at once be appointed, plans be prepared, and contracts awarded, so as to have the work done during the summer months.

Contractors William Steele & Son, 508 Walnut street, will begin work at Druehdig Bros.' manufacturing establishment, at the northwest corner of Master and Lawrence streets. The work will consist of a six-story addition, 18x88 feet, on the west of the present manufactory, adding fifth and sixth floors to the building, and a one-story addition, 18x88 feet, in the rear. The same contractors will make alterations and construct a bay window in the dining room at Charles J. Miller's residence, at 2114 Hancock street, and make interior and exterior alterations to McCurdy Bros.' store, at 2205 North Front street.

Doyle & Doak are said to be practically assured of the contract for the erection of the balance of the Real Estate Trust Building adjoining the present structure to the east of Broad and Chestnut streets. These contractors erected the other building and have the contract for the one to go up adjoining it on Broad street for J. Wallace Hatlowell. All that is being waited for now is the completion of a few details in the working plans and specifications. The dimensions of the Trust Company's extension will be 60 x 120 feet, and the same height as the building recently completed. The Hallowell Building will be 35 x about 90 feet. All noted previously in these columns.

The Women's Christian Association Building, of Germantown, will be improved by extensive addition, which will be executed by Ashton S. Tourison, contractor. The new building will be modern in all its appointments, and its capacity will be doubled. It is intended to allow the front portion of the building to remain but the roof will be raised and a mansard added. The new building, three stories in height, will be erected in the rear, communicating with the larger building, and will provide for additional bed chambers. Plans for the proposed new building for the First Baptist Church were formally accepted last week at a meeting held in the old church at Broad and Spruce streets. The new building will be located on the East side of Seventeenth street, below Sanson. Work is to begin at once. After paying about $150,000 for the ground and $100,000 for the new building, the church puts aside $150,000 for an endowment fund. The roofs are to be of red tile. The auditorium is in the form of a Greek cross, the arms of the cross being arched over by barrel vaults fifty feet in diameter. From the crown of these vaults springs a circular dome, covering the entire central portion of the auditorium and corresponding to the exterior lantern in that it is divided into twelve parts by ribs, the spaces between the ribs being filled with stained glass. The architect is Edgar V. Seeler, whose offices are in the Real Estate Trust Building, Broad and Chestnut streets.

"Just as Good."

Of all the aggravating sentences known in the English language, "just as good" to the average American in quest of honest worth and willing to pay for it is the worst.

There is something about the phrase in itself which is particularly nagging as well as insulting to a man, who has so thoroughly investigated the merit of the article he desires to purchase, as to leave no room for argument.

It is an assault upon the intelligence, his person, his nationality, his liberty, his rights as a citizen, his individuality, and, if it included his wife and children, it would not be more aggravated.

The popularity of the

Russell & Erwin
Mfg. Co.'s Hardware

is the result of natural causes. There are no phenomena nor mystic enchantments about the proposition from the beginning to the end.

Careful painstaking effort in every detail, from the selection of the base metal to the finishing, is the secret and the only secret of this "wonderful" process, which turns out the best building hardware in the world.

"Just as good" may capture a few of the credulous, who live on Easy street, but it don't go with those who know the difference.

The idea is entertained by not a few close observers of real estate that we are entering into an era of speculation, more particularly in land.

One gentleman, having the control of a large estate, assures us that he has had more inquiries for this kind of property during the last four weeks than he had for the four preceding years.

He also stated that he was satisfied, from the nature of the inquiries, that the parties desired the land for speculative purposes.

THE TEXAS STATE REAL ESTATE ASSOCIATION will hold a State Convention at Waco, on June 13th and 14th next.

The commercial and railroad interests of the State will be largely represented. Able thinkers and speakers have been invited and the aim is to have all lines of business as well as real estate represented. The organization is very strong in numbers who do not hesitate to assert themselves in all matters pertaining to the best interests of Texas.

The severe criticism which has been bestowed upon the management of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway seems fully justified, and there is little surprise that it has culminated in the most serious railroad disaster that has occurred in the State for

General inefficiency, it is stated, prevails among the officials in high and low places, and complaints as to the incompetency and brusqueness of station masters along the line have become a matter of street gossip.

It is claimed that the entire road is dominated by the New York faction, known as the Voting Trust, and that the officers of the company, even including those who came from the New York Central are sadly incompetent to handle a road of the size and extent of the Reading.

If the management is half as bad as it is represented to be it is certain that the great loss of life as well as the injury to its passengers are but a natural sequence of a sad state of inefficiency among those who are unfit for the positions they fill.

The science of railroadng is now something more than an abstract question, and, with such an object lesson as the Pennsylvania Railroad as its neighbor, it would seem that the Reading officials might at least profit by the example.

Of course hundreds of thousands of dollars will have to be spent for the killing and maiming of the innocents, but this is not a cure for the worst managed steam railroad in the country.

Architect Notes.

Architect C. E. Rahn, 410 Walnut street, made the plans for alterations and additions, at 1901 South street, for Daniel J. Kopp.
Work has j st been started.

G. A. Schellenger, architect, 123 Broadway,
New York has plans on the boards for a seven story stone and brick flat building, 45x19 feet to be built on Eleventh street near Sixth avenue, for Paul B. Pugh & Co., 874 Columbus avenue. The work calls for passenger elevator, dumb waiters, electric and gas light, ornamental plastering and steam-heat; also brick and cut stone; cost, $90 000.

Gladstone Hohn, architect, Bryn Mawr, Pa., has made plans for the completion of the audience room and vestibules of the Eden
M. E. Church, Lehigh avenue and Lawrence street. The specifications call for truss work, plastering, carpentering, chancel work, ventilators, brass work and other general detail.
Estimates being made in office of John R.
Wiggins, 1215-17 Filbert street.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

Geo. D. Mills, owner and builder, 58 North Fourth street, will at once begin the erection of eighteen two-story dwellings at Twelfth and Westmoreland streets, all to be brick, stone trimmings, slag roofs, galvanized cor-

An ordinance is again about to be offered in City Councils repealing the one now in force allowing property owners the privilege of paving streets in front of their property. The special sub-committee on hygiene of the Board of Education met last week and decided to advertise at once for bids on the filters to be placed in the public schools. The specifications must be according to the restrictions included in councils ordinance appropriating the money. Dr. Dixon said that he understood, according to law, the advertisement must be for general bids and cannot be restricted to the three types of filters already recommended by the committee as being 95 per cent. germ proof. Of course, in receiving the bids the committee will have authority to reject any not coming up to the standard required, regardless of price. Dr. Dixon stated there were 237 schools where storage tanks will be necessary. The city will be divided into ten sections, so as to enable the bidders to make closer estimates on their work. As the proposals must be left open for ten days, the filters cannot possibly be gotten into the schools before early in June.

Architect Notes.

J. E. & A. L. Pennock are asking bids for a one-story addition 53 by 24 feet, to the boiler house of the Home of Incurables, at Forty-eighth street and Woodland avenue, from plans by Architect J. C. M. Schirk, 421 Chestnut street.

Plans have been prepared for a store, dwelling and slaughter house, to be built at Front and Thompson streets, by Architect Joseph F. Bradley, 40 West Thirty-eighth street, for Owner William G. Fellmeth, Esq., who is receiving bids for same at 21 West Thompson street.

A. A. Ritcher, architect, Lebanon, Pa., has completed plans for a colonial house, 31x46 feet, at Hathaway Park, Lebanon, Pa. Buff Roman brick and frame, stone trimmings, slate roof, hard-water finish and floors, brick mantels, hot-water heat, best plumbing, laundry fixtures, electric bells and lighting, cost $5,000. Owner, John Ruth.

T. Frank Miller, architect, Lippincott Building, Twelfth and Filbert streets, has completed plans for a house on his own account, at Oak Lane and Thirteenth street. It will be of brick and stone, three stories high, hardwood interior, electric work and all modern comforts and conveniences. Mr. Miller will erect during the coming summer, a number of same class houses in that vicinity, for which he will make his own drawings.

Architect Frank R. Watson, 1208 Chestnut street, has completed plans and invited bids for the reconstruction of St. John the Evangelist's Catholic Church, on Thirteenth street above Chestnut street, which was damaged by fire. The work practically amounts to a new edifice. It is to be made fire-proof, and will undergo extensive improvements, the interior decorations being a striking new feature, and have been noted in these columns previously.

Charles McCaul is taking estimates for erecting a fine three-story frame residence for Percival Roberts, Jr., at Pencoyd, from plans by Architects Peabody & Stearns, of Boston. It will be fitted up in handsome style, and will have piazzas, terraced gardens, fountains, etc. Material will be stone and brick, tile roof, plate and leaded glass windows and doors, porte cochers of stone, interior in hardwoods, hot-air furnace, cement work, electric work, range and boiler of the best pattern, etc.

Field & Medary architects, 1414 South Penn Square, are about completing the drawings for the interior wood work and decorations for the handsome residence of Mr. Geo. Brinton Roberts, at Bala. This work will be quite elaborate in varied hardwoods and equally ornate in design, a specialty by the above-named architects.

These gentlemen may possibly prepare additional drawings for the new Summerfield M. E. Church, which will be erected under their supervision, and for which, as noted before, plans had been made.

Architect William L. Price, 731 Walnut street, has completed drawings for a handsome three-story stone and half-timbered house, with porches and terraces, which M. H. McLanahan proposes to have built for himself at St. David's. The plans are on the boards at the offices of Contractor M. W. Young, of Overbrook; Frank S. Riggs, of this city and J. S. Rogers, of Stanwick, N. J. The drawings show a beautiful structure, which will be fitted up with hardwoods, the latest plumbing, electric lights and other improvements and conveniences. The first floor will contain a large music hall with a library attached. These two rooms will have carved ceilings, and be finished in oak. There will also be a dining room, kitchen, pantry and laundry on this floor. The second floor will contain five chambers, a dressing room and two bath rooms, while on the third floor will be two bed rooms and an attic. The contract for the work will include the laying out and building of roads, and other general outside work. Previously noted.

A move is being made by a syndicate, who are, at interest, represented by Winfield S. Thorp, architect, 650 North Tenth street, to erect a hotel, to cost about $300,000, in the vicinity of Franklin Square, an option on ground having been secured in that vicinity. Mr. Thorp also prepared the drawings for the proposed structure, which is to be for the entertainment of poor tradesmen and transient patrons or working people. The new hotel will be seven stories high, built in the style of the plainest Italian Renaissance. It will be constructed of white front brick and fire-proof throughout. It will be built upon a corner lot 60x120, and every room above the third floor will be flooded with light. There will be two elevators, and the entire building will be lighted by electricity and heated by steam from its own plants. The basement floor will contain a large restaurant; on this floor will also be the kitchen, pantry, laundry, etc. On the ground will be the cafe and lobby. There will also be a newstand, elevators, office parlors, card room, reading rooms, etc. The matter has not as yet assumed definite hope, but it is understood, will be pushed to completion at an early day if a good site can be secured.

Some time ago we noted the fact that Messrs. Hales & Ballinger, architects and engineers, 1200 Chestnut street, were preparing plans for a large leather factory for J. P. Mathieu & Company. These drawings are now complete, and during the current week, will be placed for estimates by the contractors of the city. The structure will be erected on grounds, bounded by Ninth, Tenth, Westmoreland and Ontario streets, and the present work to cost about $100,000, exclusive of the machinery to be introduced and when the additional work of boiler house, vats, artesian wells and other paraphernalia are completed, the whole will approximate a cost of $500,000. The structures on the street fronts will be thirty-six feet wide and extend the whole length of each block, except the Tenth street building, which will be 75 feet wide and 420 feet long. The office building will be two stories high, and 36 by 81 feet. It will be ornate in design, having a granite base, with pressed brick superstructure, trimmed with Indiana limestone. The entrance will be on Westmoreland street, through an imposing doorway of granite. Partial or three quarter high partitions of quartered oak, with rich brass grille work, will be erected on the lower floor, dividing the room into the necessary apartments for the transaction of business. The private offices of the firm will be in the rear of the general offices, and a plan is in contemplation to utilize the second floor as a dining-room for the office assistants. A large fireproof vault will be constructed in the general offices for the storage of books and papers. This is to be covered with tiles, while the interior facing of the walls will be of enamelled brick. Mosaic floors will be laid in the corridors of the office building, while the floors of the general office will be polished maple. There will be 308 vats located in the Ontario street buildings and the two adjoining one-story buildings to the south. All floors will be of the best quality of cement and graded so that all surplus water will flow freely into large ducts that lead to the sewers. An artesian well is to be sunk on the Westmoreland street side of the site, where a large reservoir is to be built for the reception of the water. On the roof of each one-story building there will be a 10,000-gallon tank, in addition to the tanks upon the towers in the two-story buildings. All the plumbing in the lavatories and dressing rooms, as well as throughout the entire plant, will be of the most approved sanitary patterns. In addition to the building now planned, they contemplate erecting a new warehouse, railroad sidings, electric power plant and warehouses for the storage of coal, etc.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

Architect Robert Maynicke, 725 Broadway, New York, is at work on plans and specifications, from which Andrew J. Connick will erect an eleven-story building on the lot 243 Fifth avenue, 31.4 x 100 feet, recently purchased by him. It will be of skeleton construction and contain all modern improvements.

"Just as Good."

Of all the aggravating sentences known in the English language, "just as good" to the average American in quest of honest worth and willing to pay for it is the worst.

There is something about the phrase in itself which is particularly nagging as well as insulting to a man, who has so thoroughly investigated the merit of the article he desires to purchase, as to leave no room for argument.

It is an assault upon the intelligence, his person, his nationality, his liberty, his rights as a citizen, his individuality, and, if it included his wife and children, it would not be more aggravating.

The popularity of the

Russell & Erwin
Mfg. Co.'s Hardware

is the result of natural causes. There are no phenomena nor mystic enchantments about the proposition from the beginning to the end.

Careful painstaking effort in every detail, from the selection of the base metal to the finishing, is the secret and the only secret of this "wonderful" process, which turns out the best building hardware in the world.

"Just as good" may capture a few of the credulous, who live on Easy street, but it don't go with those who know the difference. Buy it try it, and you will use no other.

The building will be of iron construction, with freight and passenger elevators, etc. Architect William Macauley made the plans.

Contractors Appleton & Burrell, 1204 Chancellor street, who were the successful bidders for the erection of the $8500 residence, which Frederick Aschenback will have constructed on the north side of School Lane, east of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in Germantown, yesterday secured the necessary permit for the work. Contractor Charles P. Nesbitt, who has been awarded the contract to build the granite church at the southeast corner of Eighth and Daily streets, for the congregation of the Mizpah Presbyterian Church, submitted the drawings to the Bureau of Building Inspection yesterday for approval. The work will cost $10,500. The basement will contain social, entertainment and a secondary class room, and a heating apparatus. Under the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania the Loan Bill has been made valid and the money appropriated by Councils to each department of the city is now accessible for improvements. These are to be at once carried into effect and will involve expenditures and contracts as follows: Improving water supply, $3,700,000; repaving small streets, $1,000,000; free library site and

On Monday, the 22d inst, fire entirely destroyed the large hall at Twentieth and Oxford streets, known as Oxford Hall, a so the stables adjoining and which were known as the Oxford Stables. The property itself belonged to the J. B. Conrow estate, the principal heir to which is Joseph Conrow of this city. The building to the immediate west of the burned structure is a newly-erected one and belongs to the M. Carey Lea Cold Storage Company. It was considerably damaged by water and smoke. Other buildings more or less damaged include the oyster shop of Bartholomew Oliver, at 1901 Oxford street; the paint establishment of Mrs. C. W. Billman, at 1903 Oxford street; the fruit store of B. W. Frederick Snyder has awarded a contract to Contractor A. S. Tourison to make extensive alterations to his residence on Norwood avenue, Chestnut Hill, according to drawings prepared by Architect George T. Pearson, 427 Walnut street. The work will include large terraces, porches, bay windows on the front and sides, new plumbing, heating, electric work and general renovating. The interior will be finished in hard woods, with oak floors, tile work and open fire places. It is estimated that the work will cost $20,000. Mr. Tourison has also been awarded the contract for alterations and an addition at 35 South Eighteenth street, for Charles M. Sweeney. The addition will be one third the size of the present building, and the work will consist of general remodeling, putting in a new hot water heater, tile work and hardwood finishings. All previously noted.

There is no longer any doubt of the New York Shipbuilding Company locating its proposed big shipyard in Camden. H. D. Morse, President of the Company, was in Camden on the 20th inst, and inspected the site offered by the Manufacturers' Land and Improvement Company, on the river front south of Kaighn's Point. The purchase of the site will be completed as soon as the company secures concessions from Camden City Council, which have been promised by the city officials. It is understood that on Thursday night an ordinance will be introduced in Council making a contract between the city and the New York Shipbuilding Company, in which the former will agree, in consideration of the latter locating in Camden, that the assessed valuation of the plant shall not be increased for twenty years. This ordinance is now being prepared under the supervision of representatives of both the New York Shipbuilding Company and the city.

Owing to the number of extensive government contract on hand and the increased demands upon the capacity of its works, the Midvale Steel Company will make extensive additions to its plant, expending nearly a million dollars on the proposed improvements. In order to build these additional shops the company will utilize a fourteen-acre tract, bounded by Roberts avenue, the Richmond branch of the Reading Railroad and Wissahickon avenue. The new shops are to be four in number, though the additions embrace two storage houses and an extensive track system. The main buildings are the forging and open hearth shops, two immense structures, each over six hundred feet in length and half as wide. They will range side by side, running east and west on the fourteen-acre tract. As they are now planned these shops will intersect Schuyler street. Two machine shops are already under way at the east end of the tract.

The plans and specifications prepared by the Bureau of Water for the new West Philadelphia reservoir were recently placed in the hands of Director Haddock, who after a consultation with the Mayor, was directed to consult the experts recently appointed and have them go over the entire plans and specifications, and receive such suggestions as they might have to make. In view of the fact that the experts have already been at work, and have started out with such entire confidence upon the part of the community, the Mayor deemed it expedient to consult them as to the West Philadelphia project, believing that in this way the benefit of the highest engineering skill would be advantageously secured for the important work across the Schuylkill. Mayor Ashbridge also held another conference with Director Haddock and Chief Brooks, of the Bureau of Highways, last week in reference to the repaving of the 600 streets of the city as provided by the ordinance, the expense of which will come out of the $2,000,000 item in the big loan. Before any work under this item can be commenced it will be necessary to prepare plans and specifications provided for the resetting of the curbs and laying water and gas conduits and other underground work. These plans are now being prepared by the different bureaus, and when the same are completed and approved bids will be asked for, contracts executed, and the work of repaving commenced.

Of all the aggravating sentences known in the English language, "just as good" to the average American in quest of honest worth and willing to pay for it is the worst.

There is something about the phrase in itself which is particularly nagging as well as insulting to a man, who has so thoroughly investigated the merit of the article he desires to purchase, as to leave no room for argument.

It is an assault upon the intelligence, his person, his nationality, his liberty, his rights as a citizen, his individuality, and, if it included his wife and children, it would not be more aggravated.

The popularity of the

is the result of natural causes. There are no phenomena nor mystic enchantments about the proposition from the beginning to the end.

Careful painstaking effort in every detail, from the selection of the base metal to the finishing, is the secret and the only secret of this "wonderful" process, which turns out the best building hardware in the world.

A Pointer for Architects and Engineers.

THERE is perhaps no city in America that possesses the same number of old successful business concerns as our own, and, while the wholesale end of this statement will probably largely outnumber the retail, there is sufficient of the latter to make them a prominent feature in its business interests.

It would be a difficult matter to classify these old business landmarks, and their perpetuity it is hoped, will be prolonged indefinitely.

It is a long way back to eighteen hundred and fifty-five, and yet it was in that year that the present house of F. Weber & Co., now at 1125 Chestnut street, was established. Of course the firm name was different, as these changes are made in the course of time, but the system of fair and honorable dealing, promptness in delivery, and a full and comprehensive assortment of all kinds of mechanical and other devices required by architects, engineers and draughtsmen in their business, as well as all kinds of artists supplies is still the dominating influence, which controls the spirit of the business in 1899, even more than it did forty-four years ago.

Scholz & Janentzky, the founders of the present house of F. Weber & Co., continued up to 1868, when, through the retirement of Mr. Scholz, the firm name was changed to Janentzky & Co., while in 1887 Mr. Janentzky retired, and the firm name was again changed to F. Weber & Co.

Mr. F. Weber, the head of the present firm, became identified with the business in 1866, hence he won his spurs as a prominent factor in Philadelphia business interest, while many of us were boys.

We are thus specific in our statement of the history of this single concern, because of its great popularity throughout the entire country, indeed, it would be difficult to mention a section from which orders do not come for architects', engineers' and artists' supplies.

If those who are compelled to purchase from time to time such wares as are sold by this concern could fully comprehend the size and resources of F. Weber & Co.'s establishment, it is certain that they would realize that it would be to their interest to patronize this concern, both on the score of economy, as well as obtaining the best of the kind, whether of foreign or domestic make, for their ware-rooms are filled to an extent which places the house as the leader in its line in this city and State.

Architect Notes.

David Knickerbocker Boyd, architect, has completed preliminary drawings, and taken approximate estimates on a large six-story warehouse and mill of slow burning construction. Owner's name and location not given. Also additions to residence of R. C. Waer, Esq., at Wayne, Delaware county, Pa., consisting of porch, porte-cochere, driveway entrance, stone posts, etc.

Stewart & Smith will also begin work next week on the large dwelling they are to build for Adolph Oppenheim on Riverside Drive, between 107th and 108th streets.

Estimates are being asked in the offices of contractors generally and the architects for a factory at Musgrove street and Frankford avenue. Drawings by Collins & Antsenreith architects, 410 Walnut street. Brick and stone and iron construction, steam heat and power, electric work, etc. Also on the plans by W. Bleyden Powell, architect, for interior alterations to 1718 Walnut street. The house will be fitted up with hard woods, tile and marble work, electric work, steam or hot water heating, etc. The same architects are also at work on plans for a brick church with a slate roof, for the colored congregation at Ardmore. The church will have a seating capacity for about 800 people.

Gretna sandstone, hardwood interior, wood and brick mantles, gas and electric wiring, best of plumbing, plate glass, etc.

Oather Newsum, 1001 Chestnut street, of this city, made the drawings, and they show a veranda on the front and side of the house. The first floor will contain a vestibule, library, reception hall, parlor, etc; second, five chambers, hall, two bathrooms, hall balcony in the rear; attic, two rooms and a bath, and there will be a laundry in the basement.

Crosier, of Pennsylvania, was elected president of the Publication Society.

PHILADELPHIA

The Church Extension Committee of the African American M. E. Church are talking of establishing a home for unemployed colored women, and the annual conference has decided to consider the matter. No definite action has as yet been taken.

Maconaghys Bros., builders, will at once begin the erection of twenty-one dwellings on the southwest side of Paschal avenue south of Sixty-ninth street. All to be of press brick, stone trimmings, hot air furnaces, and best comforts on interior.

Archbishop Ryan has purchased from Michael O'Rourke a plot of ground, 180 x 500 feet, at the northwest corner of "G" and Westmoreland street, for $20,000. The site will soon be improved with a chapel and ultimately with a fine stone edifice. The new parish will relieve the overflow of surrounding congregations.

On the east side of Twenty-ninth street, between Cumberland and Huntingdon streets, owner George W. Kelly has started to build thirty two story brick dwellings, and two stores and dwellings, each 16 x 47 feet. This work will cost $39,000. Mr. Kelly is now erecting a row on the west side of the same thoroughfare.

Contractors T. S. Tuft & Son are taking estimates for the erection of forty houses on Wensley street, between American and Third streets, below Ontario street, in the Thirty-third ward.

Contractors R. C. Ballinger & Co, 218 North Thirtieth street have the contract for the erection of St. John Chrysostom's Church, at the southeast corner of Twenty-eighth street and Susquehanna avenue. The drawings for this work were made by Architects Bally & Truscott, and the edifice was noted in these columns. The work will cost $40,000.

In the office of Philip Anns Co., Bourse Building, are plans for a two-story brick addition to the Atlantic County N. J. Insane Asylum, to be erected in Egg Harbor township. It will be of brick and stone, and contain eight general rooms, besides smaller ones, closets, store room, etc. The plans are by S. Hudson Vaughn, architect.

Contractor and Builder A. Raymond Raff will build the five-story brick and brown stone front light manufacturing building, 186 x 80 feet, at the northwest corner of Thirtieth and Willow streets, for David Stewart, previously noted. It will cost $90,000, and contain steam power and heat, electric work, elevator lift and general conveniences.

Stacy Reeves & Sons, and other contractors, are estimating on the proposed work of annexing the Sharpless stores east of Gimble's to the latter. This will be done by cutting walls and remodeling of the interior, introduction of electric work, heat, plumbing, and all general improvements so as to be in keeping with their present plant.

Doyle & Doak, contractors 1509 Sansom street, have started active work upon the site for the erection of the new First Baptist Church at Seventeenth and Sansom streets. We have fully described this great structure after plans by the architect Edgar V. Seeler. The cost of construction will be $150,000, and will be a very beautiful edifice when completed.

William Christy & Sons, contractors, 2202 South Broad street, have a contract to make alterations and additions to a school house at Forty-fourth and Aspen streets, and another one Fifth street below Washington avenue. The former will cost $3000 and the latter $2000. The work consists of new floors, partitions, fire escapes and new building. Previously noted.

George L. Sipps has the contract for extensive improvements at A. F. Bornot's establishment at the southeast corner of Seventeenth street and Fairmount avenue, consisting of the erection of a flat for drying purposes on the roof of the stable, extending the elevator through the roof, building a corrugated iron covered elevator house and tank support on the oil house.

The plans of Architect T. P. Lonsdale for the two-story stone edifice for the congregation of the Mizpah Presbyterian Church, at the southeast corner of Eighth and Daily streets, have been approved, and Contractor Charles P. Nesbitt was granted the necessary permit for the work. It is estimated that the work will cost $10,500. A description of the church has already been given in this journal.

An ordinance has been introduced into City Councils to make an appropriation of $25,000 to introduce improvements in the City Treasurer's office; to guard the funds and remodel entirely the interior in accordance with plans to be prepared by the architects of the Public Buildings, W. Bleyden Powell. Of course the work will include vaults and iron work of a special character, as well as counters, partitions, etc.

Another dwelling house operation, which is to be started at once, consisting of a row of eleven two-story houses on Knorr street, between Torresdale avenue and Vandike street. P. E. Costello will build them at an expense of about $1500 per house, exclusive of the price of the ground. Each house will be 15 x 43 feet in dimensions, on lots 84 feet deep. All will be of press brick, stone trimmings, hot air furnaces, ranges, boilers etc.

A movement is on foot in both chambers of City Councils to erect a new iron bridge over the Schuylkill river at the intersection of Passyunk avenue. Up to the present time the Finance Committee did not think the money could be spared for the purpose, but under the action of the loan bill it now becomes feasible. A view of the site has been taken by members of both branches and it is likely the matter will be pushed at once.

The test will now come whether a new hotel is to be erected or not on the site of the old Girard House, at Ninth and Chestnut streets. Under the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, on the 24th inst., it was decreed that unless John J. McDevitt in sixty days from that date make good his offer of funds to complete the proposed structure as agreed upon by himself and the late Andrew M. Moore the proposition fails and the property will again revert to the heirs of the aforesaid Andrew M. Moore, who died in January 1895, and remain at their disposal, or that of the executors.

Contractor Charles McCaul has the contract for alterations and additions at Fourth and Library streets for C. D. Barney & Co. The work will consist of alterations and a four-story addition, 14x62 feet, to be built at 124 South Fourth street, and at 46 Library street alterations will be made, consisting of general remodeling, and a four-story rear building will also be built. Mr. McCaul has the plans of Architect Kurt W. Peuckert for the construction of a vault under the sidewalk in the rear of 901 Filbert street, for Carl F. Lauber & Co., on the boards at his office for estimates.

Contractor George C. Dietrich has been awarded the contract for the erection of a two-story addition to the general store house at the Myvale Steel Company's plant, at Nicetown. The addition will measure 33 x 115 feet and be constructed of brick, stone and iron, with a slate roof. The work will cost $5000. Contractor Harry Brocklehurst submitted plans to the Bureau of Building Inspection for the erection of a two-story brick and stone addition, 45 x 90.6 feet, to the pattern store house for the same company. The addition will be of fireproof construction and cost $2000.

Builder Charles D. Land has broken ground for the erection of the seventeen houses in the Twenty-eighth ward. Fifteen of the dwellings will be built on the east side of Ridge avenue, southeast of Dauphin street, and on Dauphin street near Thirty-second. Ten of the houses will measure 15.6 x irregular depth and five will measure 16 x 39 feet. A house to measure 26.8 x 48 feet will be put up at the southeast corner of Ridge avenue and Dauphin street, and another 27.9 x 46 feet on the south side of Dauphin street, 47 feet west of Thirty-second street. All the houses will be three stories high.

Owner Terence Smart, Seventy-second and Elmwood avenue, has secured the necessary permits to build 132 two-story porch front dwellings and four two-story stores and dwellings in the Thirty-sixth ward, at a cost of $198,410. The operation was noted some time ago. The houses will be as follows: Forty-eight seven-room, on the north and south sides of Ritner street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets; eighty-four six-room, on the north and south sides of Gladstone and the north side of Roseberry street, between Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Porter and Ritner streets, and the stores and dwellings will be built at the northwest and southwest corners of Eighteenth and Ritner streets and the northwest and southwest corners of Nineteenth and Ritner streets. Contractor William M. Wyatt will do the work.

The contract for the erection of the stone church and Sunday-school building at the northeast corner of Twelfth street and Lehigh avenue, for the congregation of the Lehigh Avenue Baptist Church, has been awarded to Contractor Burd P. Evans. The plans were made by Architect Isaac Purcell and they show that the building will measure 92 x 100.3 feet. The first floor will contain the main church and Sunday-school rooms, the intermediate room, two primary rooms, two vestibules and halls, a library and six class rooms; second, church gallery, men's and women's parlors, eight class rooms, pastor's study and two stair halls. Previously noted in full in this Journal.

Builder William Fleming, of Germantown, has plans on the boards at his office for four three-story Colonial style houses, which will be erected on Boyer street above Mt. Airy avenue. The fronts of the houses will be constructed of stone and press bricks. They will contain eight rooms and be fitted up with hardwoods, tile work, open fire places, and other conveniences and comforts, including front porches. Mr. Brown is at work on drawings for two three-story Colonial style houses, which will be built on Cresheim road, near Mt. Pleasant. The two houses which he is constructing on the north side of Maplewood avenue, near Wayne avenue, are ready for the third floor joists. These houses will be fitted up with hardwoods, tile work, open fire places etc.

Councils' committee on schools, and Board of Education committee on property met jointly last week at the board rooms, and the property committee accepted the famous and much-talked-of school lot at Twenty-eighth and Huntingdon streets before adjournment. At the same time they passed a resolution recommending to the Board of Education that it reconsider its former action favoring the purchase of the Thirty-third and Huntingdon streets site, and eventually rescinded that action. The Councils' committee indorsed a resolution of the property committee to ask Councils to transfer out of the loan bill item for completing the Boys' High School the sum of $21,700, for furnishing the main building. Numerous contracts for school repairs were awarded by the committee, together with the work of hauling ashes away from the schools.

It is the intention of the Director of Public Works Haddock and Mayor Ashbridge to push the work of repairing the streets of the city out of the $2,000,000 item of the big loan, so that operations can be commenced and as much work accomplished this summer as possible. The specifications have been completed and proposals invited, and in a few weeks time we expect to see the work actually started. Of course there are a number of streets in which the underground work has not been completed, but there are many in which no underground work will be necessary and it is in these thoroughfares that the work of improving the surface will be started. The proposals for this improvement will be opened by Director Haddock on June 2, the whole number of streets being 496, of which 378 will be repaved with sheet asphaltum, 91 slag blocks, 17 Belgian blocks, and 10 vitrified bricks.

A brisk movement in suburban property out along the Reading Railroad is being experienced at the present time; the number of transfers that have occurred lately at Ogontz Park are especially notable.

VOL. XIV.—No. 23.

PHILADELPHIA, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 7, 1899.

$5.00 PER YEAR.

Architect Notes.

Contractors J. E. & A. L. Pennock, 305 Walnut street, and Appleton & Burrell, 1204 Chancellor street, have plans on the boards at their offices for alterations and additions at 1012 Spruce street, for Silas W. Pettit. The drawings were made by Architect L. C. Hickman, 328 Chestnut street.

Plans have been filed by Architects Schneider & Herter, Bible House, N. Y., for four tenement buildings, with stores, to be erected for Weil & Meyer, 35 Nassau street. Construction is of brick and stone, and includes iron beams, tin roofs, tiling, plate glass and dumb waiters; cost $100,000.

Architects Yarnall & Goforth, 14 South Broad street, have filed plans for the new club house for the Delta Phi Fraternity, at Thirty-sixth street and Woodland avenue. The building will be of brick, three stories, 42 x 80. On the first floor there will be a loggia, reception hall, sitting and billiard rooms. On the second floor two large study rooms and several bed rooms, and on the third floor the chapter room and more bed rooms. Previously noted in full.

Horenburger & Straub, architects, 122 Bowery, N. Y., have plans under way for two six-story brick and stone tenement and store buildings, to be erected at Third and Manhattan streets for Sam. Michelson, 180 Avenue B, to cost about $60,000. Owner will take estimates. The same firm also reported plans for a six-story brick and stone store and apartment house, 39x90 feet, to be built at 420 and 422 Grand street. P. Horwitz and S. Parnari 29 Canal street, are the owners.

Judges Woodward, Lynch & Halsey, at a meeting held in Judge Woodward's office, Wilkesbarre, Pa., on the 23d inst., approved the plans for the new court-house, as prepared by Architect F. J. Osterling, of Pitsburg, Pa., and which was chosen from the competition of thirty-six architects by County Commissioners Hay and Jones. This settles the long-voiced question as to plans and specifications and detailed drawings will now be prepared and contracts awarded at an early day. The cost will approximate $450,000.

H. D. Dagit, architect, 435 Chestnut street, has made complete plans for alterations and additions to the R. C. Church of St. Malachy's, on Eleventh above Master street, in this city, Rev. Edward Prendergraft, rector in charge. The specifications call for brick and masonry work, carpenter work, hardware, iron work, plastering, mosaic floors, imitation marble work, plumbing and gas fitting, painting and plaster work. Three new Carrara marble altars will be erected, the front will be of granite work. Estimates now being made in office of William H. Dougherty, 1604 Sansom street.

Architect Thomas Bennett, 1022 Walnut street, is at work on drawings for 150 houses to be built in the northwest section of the city. He declines to give the location, because negotiations are now being perfected for the purchase of the lot on which the dwellings will be erected. He is also at work on drawings for fifty houses to be built at Ardmore; a large number of houses to be at Media, for the Methodist congregation at that place, and for an apartment house to be centrally located in this city. The owner's name and location of the apartment house are withheld for the present.

Bunting & Shrigley, architects, 1420 Chestnut street, have completed the drawings for alteration to the store, for Samuel S. Pennock, at 1612-18 Ludlow street. These contemplate chiefly interior work, and are on boards of W. R. Dougherty, 1604 Sansom street, for estimates. Also in same office are plans by Furness Evan & Company architects, for a house for Jno. F. Lewis, to be erected at Zermat, Chester county Pa. It will be of stone, three stories high, slate roof, plate glass windows, brick and cement work, tile work, hardwood, electric work and all modern conveniences. The plumbing, heating and fireplaces are not to be in the present estimate.

The plans of Architect E. V. Seeler, Real Estate Trust Building, Broad and Chestnut streets, for the new fire house, to be built at 1523 and 1530 Sansom street, have been completed. The building will contain tracks for the steamer and combination wagon, five stalls, stable, harness closet, etc., on the first floor, foreman's room, sitting room, matron's closet, locker room, shower bath, dormitory and lavatory on the second floor; and drying room, store room, hay loft and grain bin on the third floor. The new building will be properly equipped with a hose tower and sliding pole running from the roof to the first floor. Previously noted in this journal.

The National Convention of Architectural Clubs of the country closed its session on the 2d inst., with a banquet at the Century Club, at Cleveland, Ohio. A permanent organization was formed to include in its membership all the architects' club of merit, to be known as the Architectural League of America. Its purpose, as set forth in the constitution, is to encourage the promotion of American architecture and allied fine arts, and to encourage an indigenous and inventive architecture and to lead architecture thought to modern sources of inspiration. The league will next meet in Chicago, on June 7, 8, 9, 1900. The officers are:—President, Albert Kelsey, Philadelphia; first vice president, William B. Irter, St. Louis; second vice president, J. W. Case, Detroit; secretary, H. W. Tomlinson, Chicago; treasurer, H. B. Briggs, Cleveland.

Jacobs & Sansbury, architects, Cumberland, Maryland, have completed plans for a three-story store and lodge building, to be erected at Keyser, W. Va., by the Knights of Pythias. The building to be of brick, 28 x 59 feet, store room on first floor, offices on second, and lodge room with ante-rooms, closets, toilets, etc., on third floor. The building to be fitted up in modern style, metal ceiling, metal cornices, and belt courses, steam heat and the best of sanitary fixtures. Estimated cost about $5000. The same architects have just completed plans for the remodelling and additions to residence of J. V. Bell, Keyser, W. Va., which will include new plumbing fixtures, cathedral glass, etc., estimated cost, $2500. They now have on their boards plans for a two-story and attic residence for W. M. Lannan, to be erected at Frostling, Md. Estimated cost $5000.

We previously noted the fact that Hales & Ballinger, architects, 1200 Chestnut street, had made plans for a factory for the National Biscuit Company in conjunction with those for an immense stable, for which Messrs. Roydhouse, Arrey & Co. had the contract. The same gentlemen have also been given the contract to build the new factory structure, which is the largest in this country, and will cost when complete $225,000, exclusive of power plant. All are to be erected at Park and Glenwood avenues. The main building will be erected in the form of a trapezoid, with a frontage of 240 feet on Glenwood avenue, 150 feet on Park avenue, 183 feet deep and 150 feet long in the rear. It will be constructed of brick, with light stone trimmings, five stories high, with basement, and will have a floor space of 188,000 square feet. The framework will be a combination of steel and slow burning materials, while supporting the front and rear walls will be heavy steel columns encased in brick. In the basement will be received and stored the raw materials, while the machinery for lighting, heating and hoisting will also be in the basement. All the machinery will be operated by electric motors driven by dynamos. Features of the building will be two brick towers, rising three stories above the roof on the Glenwood avenue side, and enclosing stairways so arranged as to communicate with the different floors by brick vestibules, providing avenues of escape in case of fire. In these towers will be tanks, supplying water for automatic fire extinguishers, for baking, and sanitary purposes. By a system of chutes and elevators, all materials in the different stages of completion will be sent from floor to floor until they reach the first, ready for shipment. The interior of the building, with the exception of the offices, will not be plastered, and the floors will be of maple, laid upon heavy timber. The building will be heated by steam and lighted by electricity.

Without Labor, What?

Did you ever give a thought to the fact that labor is the all in all of everything tangible?

The grandest structure on the earth, typifying in the highest possible degree, man's mental genius and mechanical skill, enchanting the eye and pleasing to the senses, is simply a monument to labor in a concise form.

Reason as you please, you have only to relegate the material back to nature to furnish the answer.

As an example, take the Fidelity Insurance Company's massive building, on Broad street above Arch—and we use it as an illustration, because every ounce of its hardware was made by us—relegate the beautiful woods back to the forest; the marble to the quarry; the massive iron girders as well as our own handsome hardware back to the ore in the earth, wherein it had rested for ages, and so on until you have transformed every article or thing used in its construction back to its primitive or natural condition, and what have you? Without labor what can be made of them?

Now our point is in the fact, that, while nature contributes the basic material, on which the meritorious goodness and enchanting beauty of the RUSSELL & ERWIN hardware is founded, it is the genius skill and careful labor of our trained and experienced workman, that makes it worthy of confidence and preference over all other makes.

Isn't this evolution in the highest possible degree? If not, why not?
Buy it! Try it! and you will want no other.

PHILADELPHIA, WED'Y, JUNE 7, 1899.

Young folks and old alike will enjoy the new booklet now being distributed by the United Gas Improvement Company. "Twentieth Century Wisdom for Busy Housewives" is the legend on the title page. But it's sugar-coated wisdom, as a glance at the attractive illustrations and stories will show.

The beautifully colored cover tells the purpose of the book at a glance. A fat little cook, twin brother to the chef who adorns the U. G. I. Co.'s calendar this year, stands behind a gas range, holding aloft the tempting dishes he has cooked on it and looking immensely pleased at the results of his labor.

The back cover shows another desirable result of gas range cooking,—namely the leisure it gives. It is only by economizing time and labor that housewives can get leisure to rest and enjoy some reading.

Inside, six full-page illustrations—dashing pen sketches—enliven the text of "Jack Robinson's Lesson," the bright little story that opens the book. Following it are "Esop's Fable Down to Date," a cleverly illustrated series of tales that set people wondering how that ancient gentleman knew so much about gas ranges.

The last page contains some "Don'ts" that every housekeeper, who uses or ever expects to use a gas range, will want to paste up in her kitchen.

Altogether, the book is a bright, pretty, entertaining little pamphlet, and the latest edition issued by the United Gas Improvement Company will not be too many to supply consumers who will want it. The booklets can be had, free, at any of the Company's offices.

Contractors M. P. Wells & Co. have taken out a permit to build the seven-story iron and terra cotta front store building at 1224 Market street, for John H. Hallahan, owner. The building will measure 21 x 90 feet and it will take the place of the one destroyed by fire some time ago. The work will cost $20,000.

Doyle & Doak, contractor, 1509 Sansom street, have signed contract for the erection of the new wings of the Real Estate Trust Office structure to be erected at Broad and Chestnut streets, and fully described in this journal in previous issues. Seeler & Roberts, in the present building on the site, are the architects.

Contractor Charles McCaul has been awarded the contract for the erection of the large manufactory at Ninth and Westmoreland streets, for J. P. Mathieu & Co. He also has the contracts for the erection of the Suburban Electric Company's power house at Tacony, and for alterations and additions at Fourth and Library streets, for C. D. Barney & Co. Work will be commenced during the present week.

John C. Trautwine, Chief of the Water Bureau, has completed all plans and specifications for a new engine and boiler house for the Roxborough pumping station, and estimates will be asked on the work at once. The structure will be one story high, stone, brick and iron, as well as cement and concrete work, plumbing, hardware, galvanized iron, an electric crane, painting and glazing are among the specifications.

The Pennsylvania Company for Insurance on Lives and Granting Annuities has awarded a contract to John Duncan for extensive alterations to the property on the southwest corner of Seventh and Cherry streets. This work includes new concrete footings in the cellar, new yellow pine posts in the basement, first, second, and third floors, new steel girders below the ceiling line of the fifth floor, and a general strengthening of the whole interior.

The Tom Reed Republican Club, of this city, have closed its offer for the purchase of the handsome brownstone mansion of ex-Councilman R. Cortlandt Horr, on North Broad street, just above Germantown avenue. They paid for the place the sum of $15,000, of which $5000 has already been provided for.

Within the next week or two alterations will be made to accommodate the building to club uses, and before the end of the month they will give a grand opening.

Contractors Armstrong & Printzenhoff, 309 Land Title Building, are erecting a frame freight shed, 50 x 225 feet, at Walnut street wharf, Delaware River, for Warner's Steamship Company, and a car repair shop, 118 x 45 and 18.6 x 34 feet, for the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, at the southwest corner of Richmond and William streets. The freight shed will be covered with corrugated iron, and the work will cost $10,000; the car repair shop will be constructed of brick with a slag roof, and cost $5300.

The Newport News Abattoir Company has been organized with a capital of $1,500,000. It will transact a general abattoir business at Newport News, Va. Works and cold storage plant with capacity for slaughtering 3000 hogs, sheep and cattle per day. A tract of land on the line of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad has been secured and works will be constructed as soon as the capital has been subscribed. Subscriptions to this stock is now being received by the City Trust Company, 927 Chestnut street. The office of the company is at 545 Drexel Building.

Postmaster Hicks, while in Washington last week, took occasion to stir up the officials of the Postoffice Department to the urgent need of improving the space west of the Postoffice Building intended to be used as a driveway for postal wagons and for the tracks upon which to run the trolley mail cars. The improvements will cost about $700, and, when completed, will be of great benefit to the service. Plans for the improvements are now in the hands of the Supervising Architect at Washington, but the money to perform the work may not be secured until Congress meets again.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Mechanics Trades School of the Master Builders' Exchange a resolution was adopted suspending the sessions of the school for the next two years. This action was taken owing to the failure to secure an appropriation, and the directors finding it impossible to raise the necessary funds from private subscription. During the suspension of the sessions the interest from the endowment fund will be applied to the paying off the indebtedness. A resolution was also adopted expressing the appreciation of the board for the faithful services of George Watson, president of the school, and W. A.

H. Allen, its superintendent.

A site for the new church, to be erected at Harrowgate, has been secured by Archbishop Ryan. The lot, which is valued at $20,000, is 180 x 580 feet, and is located at the northwest corner of G and Westmoreland streets. It is large enough for the erection of a handsome church edifice, a pastoral residence and commodious parish school house. A new parish will be composed of a portion of the present parishes of Our Lady of the Visitation, the Nativity and possibly St. Joachim's, Frankford. As yet there has not been a priest appointed to the rectorship of the proposed parish, but it is expected that the Archbishop will do so in the near future, after which the question of an architect's plans will be settled upon.

Alexander Van Rensselaer has accepted the plans drawn by G. W. and W. D. Hewitt, architects, Bullitt Building, for a handsomely appointed stable to be built at Nos. 1623, 1625, and 1630 Chancellor street. This is to be three stories high and 58 x 32 feet in dimensions. It will be ornate in architectural features and will be fitted with all the modern sanitary and other improvements. George F. Payne & Co. have secured the contract at a figure not yet made public. It is estimated, however, that it will cost about $25,000 for construction. The same contractors have the award to erect the William Warner store building 1238 Market street, after plans by Charles W. Bolton & Co., architects, Witherspoon Building, and which have been fully noted previously in these columns.

Residents of the northwestern section of the city are doing everything in their power to arouse Councils to the necessity for the removal of the Municipal Hospital. The committee of fifteen appointed at the recent Bourse meeting will be increased to twenty-five, and organized at the Bourse on Monday last. The ordinance introduced by Select Councilman Fourier on Thursday last covers the views of the committee completely. It provides for the purchase of the McAllister site of fifty-eight acres, at Second street and Erie avenue, for $140,000, which is less than $2500 per acre. The Fidelity Trust Company is the trustee for this property, and they would prefer to lease on a yearly rental equivalent to 3.9-10 per cent. of the price above mentioned. The site possesses many natural advantages, and affords sites for all necessary buildings.

brick, slag and granite blocks, for which $2,000,000 is provided under the general loan

David McMahon & Co. Several members of the Finance Committee looked over the bids after they were opened, and Chairman Dixon said the prices for asphalt paving would range from $2.40 to $2.50 a square yard, and for brick $1.65 a square yard; granite block, $2.30; and for slag block about $3.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has now taken ownership to all the land between Market and Federal streets, Camden, N. J. The object in securing the land is to provide for the ultimate erection of an extensive railroad and ferry terminal in Camden. The officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad have considered for several years the advisability of having the West Jersey & Seashore and the Camden & Amboy roads enter Camden on elevated tracks, the construction of a suitable station, the acquisition of double-deck ferry boats,

as are used in New York, and the elevation of the tracks of the Union Traction Company at the foot of Market street in this city to the second floor of the ferryhouse, but when the improvements will be begun cannot be said.
Plans to this effect were prepared by Chief Engineer Brown some time ago and were noted in this journal more than one year ago.
With the necessary land in the possession of the company, the subject may again be taken up, but nothing is expected to be done this year. The ironwork of the old train shed at Broad Street Station is stored in Camden, and it will be utilized when the new terminal shall be built.

INTERROGATORY AND OTHERWISE

It is a mistake for tourists to wait until the hurly-burly of getting away has commenced before ordering their liquors for the trip or summer season.

It is a sure way to open the door for deception and all the accompanying disappointments, doubly aggravating from the fact that friends are invited to partake of the hospitality of the unfortunate owner, who, until, perhaps, the minute of offering, is unaware of the true character of the cheap alcoholic compound he has purchased without a further guarantee than the word of an irresponsible dealer.

While such instances are humiliating enough they are also plenty, enough as almost every tourist can attest, and too frequently subsequent impaired health is directly traceable to the use of such stuffs which are temporarily tolerated under the stimulating influences of pure mountain or sea shore air, the serious penalty of a morbid appetite for alcoholic drinks following as a natural result.

Architect Notes.

Roydhouse, Arey & Co., are to construct a two-story addition 20x45 feet for the Home-made Bread Company's building, at 1439 North Twelfth street.

Brouse & Arend, architects, 931 Chestnut street, this city, who prepared the plans for the new golf club house, to be erected at Deal, N. J., as previously noted, have awarded the contract at a figure said to be about $20,000.

Contractors William Steele & Son, 506 Walnut street, have plans on the boards for alterations and additions to the residence of A. J. Widener, on Wayne avenue, Germantown. Architects Stanford B. Lewis, Witherspoon Building, made the drawings.

Contractor James Johnson, 1713 Sansom street, is receiving bids for erecting fifth and sixth story additions, each 50x175 feet to the flour warehouse of the Merchants' Warehouse Company, at Shackamaxon street wharf, from plans by Architects Hewitt Brothers, Bullitt Building.

The contract for improvements to the Sunday-school department of the Walnut street Presbyterian Church, Walnut street, above Thirty-ninth street, has just been awarded to Contractor P. S. Riggs, 1530 Chestnut street. Mr. Riggs is receiving estimates for the erection of a house at Long Branch, N. J., from plans by Architect J. C. Newsum, of this city, and for three dwellings to be erected at Lanerch, Pa., for the Philadelphia and West Chester Traction Company. Mr. Riggs will also build a handsome house at Overbrook for a Mr. Gilmore.

The Foulke-Long Institute for Orphan Girls, will, during the present year, be removed entirely from this city to new and commodious quarters at Langhorne, Pa. The buildings and grounds known as "Langhorne Manor" have been purchased by the managers of the above institution and will be remodelled greatly and new structures erected upon the grounds after plans by Messrs. Bailey & Truscott, well known architects of this city. Many new features will be incorporated at the suggestion of Mary R. E. Cobb, Principal and General Manager. The work to be done will include all the latest and best ideas for the care and education of the young entrusted to the keeping of this great school.

H. E. Flower, architect, Heed Building, has completed plans for the new Alexis Club Building, to be erected at the southwest corner of Broad and Jefferson streets, which property was recently purchased by the Club. The plans contemplate the entire remodeling of the old mansion now standing on the property, and the erection of a large additional building, to be three stories high and 25x110 feet in dimensions. This addition is to extend along the Jefferson street side of the lot, and will have a very ornate front, the base being of stone and the superstructure of Pompeian brick, with terra cotta trimmings. Provisions have been made in the plans for the construction ultimately of a roof garden, but this work will not be done for the present. It is estimated that the work now to be done will cost in the neighborhood of $20,000.

The long-talked-of new edifice for Summerfield Methodist Episcopal Church seems now to be in a fair way of being started. This structure is to be built at Tulip and Dauphin streets, and has been in contemplation for many months. Field & Medary, 1414 South Penn Square, the architects, who drew the plans, are now ready for estimates. The parsonage is vacant, and the sessions of the Sunday-school are being held in the old church building, all of which seems to indicate preparations on the part of the congregation to have the work started. The parsonage and Sunday-school buildings are to be torn down to make room for the new edifice on the corner lot. Ultimately it is proposed to raze the present church edifice, and erect on that site a new Sunday-school building. The plans for the church, as now prepared, contemplate a structure 58x80 feet in dimensions, to be built of granite, at an estimated cost of $23,000. Previously noted in full.

Frank R. Watson, architect, 1208 Chestnut street, has just awarded the contract for rebuilding the interior of St. John's Roman Catholic Church, Thirteenth street, above Chestnut street, to Cornelius R. Kelly, contractor, 1935 East Orleans street, who will at once begin the work. The whole interior will be renewed by introduction of a brick and stone clerestory, richly vaulted ceiling, vaulting to be carried on steel fire-proof construction, a new roof of same material, steel construction, the clerestory supported on cluster columns of Indiana stone, richly carved capitals; the windows will be in rich stone tracery. The entrances will be remodelled, including stairways, the aisles in tile work, sanctuary floored and wainscoted with Rutland marble, the railwork also of same material; the pews and wood wainscoting will be in quartered oak. Electric work will be a feature in the structure. Also, plans are on boards for a south wing, to be added to the Academy buildings at Villa Maria, West Chester, Pa. It will be 70x100 feet, three stories high, Italian style of architecture, brick, Indiana limestone trimmings, interior will contain all the rooms for school purposes, steam heat, lighted by gas and general conveniences.

Richard C. Loos, architect, Fidelity Mutual Life Building, Broad above Arch street, has completed plans for a Reformed Church at White House, near Bound Brook, N. J. It will be of stone, local quarries, and Indiana limestone trimmings, slate roof and open truss support; interior, in hardwood and stained glass work for windows and doors, organ, steam heat, etc. All the partitions will be rolling electric work, a kitchen and dining parlor in the basement, with a dumb waiter for lift purposes. Rev. Dr. H. P. Lyman Wheaton is the rector in charge. Address as above. Also, plans in course of preparation for a church to be erected at Scottsburg, Ind. It will be a brick structure with Indiana limestone trimming, to seat about 800 persons. It will have a slate roof, and the interior will contain galleries, steam heat, electric work and every modern comfort and convenience, as well as embellishment, will be introduced. Circular seating for the audience. Rev. Edward Q. LaTue is the pastor in charge. Also, plans for a large church, to be erected in Monticello, Iowa. Rev. D. I. Staibler is the rector in charge, and the church will be one somewhat similar to the two structures noted above; all in turn will require organs and general church furniture, carpets, stained glass, etc.

The plans prepared by Architects Furness, Evans & Co. for the Lucien Moss Home for incurables indicate that the building will be a fine structure. It will be located east of the present group of hospital buildings with frontage on Twelfth street, when this thoroughfare shall have been opened. The main front of the building will face Olney avenue. The dimensions will be 130x42 feet, not including a covered way connecting the new building with the central plant for furnishing cooking, heating, light and ventilation to the entire system. The structure will be four stories high. It will be built of stone, brick and terra cotta, with a slate roof. The first floor will be on a level with the ground. Patients reach to the upper floors by means of elevators. This floor will contain pneumothoracic chambers and observation rooms, a laboratory for physicians, a room for apparatus, servants' sleeping quarters, wash rooms, toilet rooms, and a room for disinfecting linen and bedding. The second, or main floor, will contain the Lucien Moss Memorial Room. On this floor will be the doctors' and matrons' rooms, patients' dining room, etc. There will also be a diet kitchen for the preparation of food for bed-room patients. At the southern end of this floor there will be a large sun parlor. The third and fourth floors will be arranged in the same manner as the second, including all the facilities and sun parlors. The fourth floor will also contain quarters for the nurses. The building will include a large sanitary tower in which will be located the toilet rooms, bath rooms, shower, vapor and needle-baths, and every modern sanitary appliance. The main stairway will be of iron, and all the corridors of fireproof construction. There will be a tower fire escape, which will be in the shape of an iron, brick enclosed structure. Previously noted.

Without Labor, What?

Did you ever give a thought to the fact that labor is the all in all of everything tangible?The grandest structure on the earth, typifying in the highest possible degree, man's mental genius and mechanical skill, enchanting the eye and pleasing to the senses, is simply a monument to labor in a concise form.Reason as you please, you have only to relegate the material back to nature to furnish the answer.As an example, take the Fidelity Insurance Company's massive building, on Broad street above Arch—and we use it as an illustration, because every ounce of its hardware was made by us—relegate the beautiful woods back to the forest; the marble to the quarry; the massive iron girders as well as our own handsome hardware back to the ore in the earth, wherein it had rested for ages, and so on until you have transformed every article or thing used in its construction back to its primitive or natural condition, and what have you?

Without labor what can be made of them?

Now our point is in the fact, that, while nature contributes the basic material, on which the meritorious goodness and enchanting beauty of the

Russell & Erwin

hardware is founded, it is the genius skill and careful labor of our trained and experienced workmen, that makes it worthy of confidence and preference over all other makes.Isn't this evolution in the highest possible degree? If not, why not?

PHILADELPHIA, WED'Y, JUNE 14, 1899

Our citizens are indebted to a committee composed of Thomas Martindale, Howard B. French, William Waterall and William M. Ayres, representing the Trades League of this city and presenting a resolution passed by its Board of Managers requesting the Public Buildings Commission to illuminate the building and tower during the Grand Army Encampment and the Commercial Museum Exposition next fall. The committee also requested the permanent illumination of Penn's statue. It also suggested that the statue illumination be made to give the correct time every evening by synchronizing with Washington, D. C.

"That House in Your Street" is the quaint title to a booklet issued by the paint and varnish manufacturers, Messrs. Felton, Sibley & Co., 130, 138 and 140 North Fourth street, which can be had for the asking.

The subject matter is one which concerns house owners, and more particularly those who are enjoying the delectable but unprofitable fancy for non-rentable properties, owing to their pitiable and inexcusable dilapidation.

The sum and substance of Felton, Sibley & Co.'s booklet cover the question of how to make houses desirable as well as rentable, through the very simple method of inexpensive painting with paints, and stains, and china gloss, and varnishes, that will last as well as beautify, and while its argument is in keeping with our own editorials from time to time, the subject is covered in such a pleasing conversational way by an author, who evidently knows whereof he writes, that the book becomes an inspiration.

Architect Notes.

Architect Louis Korn, 37 Maiden Lane, New York, has filed plans for two five-story brick flat houses, to be built for John D. Kars, Jr., at Nos. 307 to 311 West Thirty-seventh street. They will measure 25x85.3 feet each, and will contain every modern convenience. To cost about $40,000.

William Steele & Son, 506 Walnut street, are taking bids on a factory building to be erected for A. Berg & Co., from plans completed recently by Architect J. M. Cameron. The building will be three stories and basement having the usual factory facilities, fire escapes, elevator, office fixtures, etc.

Architects Sellers & Kirk, Stephen Girard Building, have plans on the board for a residence for George Stevenson, at 1921 Spruce street. It is to be stone and brick with ornamental front, containing all modern improvements, on the interior and hardwood finish.

Estimates have been made for the four-story and basement brick and stone building for the Young Woman's Union, at 422-28 Bainbridge street. Architects Baker & Dallett, 1420 Chestnut street, prepared the drawings for the work, and have been fully noted in these columns.

Architects Carrere & Hastings, 23 East Forty-first street, New York, have plans and specifications in preparation for extensive alterations and improvements to the five-story brick and stone residence, at 804 Fifth avenue, which will cost in the neighborhood of $40,000. William L. Bull, owner, premises.

Revised plans will shortly be put on boards of contractors for a ten-story addition to the Elkins residence, at Broad and Stiles streets, which is to be known as the Majestic Apartment House. Much of the proposed elaborate interior furnishings will be omitted when the next estimates are invited from contractors.

This building is to be of brick, three stories high, and will be erected at Thirty-sixth street, and Woodland avenue. It will be 42 x 30 feet in dimensions, and will be completely equipped for the purpose intended. We fully noted this work in a previous issue of this journal.

Judson Kilpatrick, One-hundred-and-fourth street and Columbus avenue. The work includes brick and stone, tin roof, marble work, tiling, plate and stained glass cabinet mantels, electric light, steam heat and elevator. To cost about $90,000.

They will be of light brick and limestone, with structural iron frame. The work also includes mosaic tiling, plate and stained glass, parquet floors, grille and cabinet work, enameled bathtubs, twenty-eight sets of nickel-plated plumbing, electric light, elevators and steam heat. To cost $125,000.

This is the second similar contract they have secured in this locality, the retaining walls and coping at Queen Lane Reservoir being Rittenhouse Stone.

Thomas M. Welsh, 758 South Broad street, is making arrangements to build seven three-story dwellings at the southeast corner of Thirteenth and Carpenter streets. This property is owned by the Williams manufacturing Company, and was formerly occupied by an old factory, which was destroyed by fire. Work on these dwellings will be started in the near future, all to be of pressed brick, stone trimmings and best comforts on interior.

R. C. Ballinger & Co., who recently secured the contract for the construction of the new edifice for the St. John Chrysostom Church, at Twenty-eighth street and Susquehanna avenue, have submitted the plans to the Bureau of Building Inspection for approval. These plans, which were drawn by Bailey & Trust, architects, contemplate a handsome structure, 72 feet square, and surmounted by a 44-foot dome. Work will be started as soon as possible.

Plans for the new building to be erected at No. 1228 Market street for William R. Warner have been submitted to the Bureau of Building Inspection for approval. This building, which is to replace the one destroyed by the big fire of February, is to be nine stories high and 21x35 feet in dimensions. It is to have a very ornate front, and will be thoroughly equipped with all modern improvements. As fully noted in previous issues of this journal, The plans were drawn by C. W. Bolton & Co., architects, and call for a structure that will cost in the neighborhood of $125,000 to erect. Geo. F. Payne & Company, 401 Junior street, are the contractors.

All arrangements have now been completed for the construction of the new Medico-Chirurgical College Hospital at the northwest corner of Seventeenth and Cherry streets.

William Steele & Sons, contractors, 506 Walnut street, have the contract at $50,000. The building will be five stories high, with a frontage on Seventeenth street of about 99 feet, and about 72 feet on Cherry street. An elaborate front of brick, trimmed with brown stone and terra cotta, will surround a steel structural skeleton. The new building will be equipped with all modern appliances, and will be of fireproof construction. Work will be begun at once. Herman Miller, architect, Witherspoon Building, drew the plans and will supervise the construction.

Charles McCaul, contractor No. 10 North Eleventh street, has as we stated last week, received the contract for the construction of the big glazed kid plant to be built at Ninth and Westmoreland streets for J. P. Mathieu & Co. Work has been started on the main buildings, and will be pushed rapidly to completion. The plans, which were drawn by Hales & Ballinger, architects, of this city, contemplate a nest of buildings covering an entire block of ground. These plans were fully described in this journal some weeks ago. In round figures the cost of construction of the buildings now under contract will be about $110,000. When these are completed several others, including an electric power house, etc., as previously noted, will be put under way.

Application has been made to Common Pleas Court by Rev. Russell H. Conwell, pastor of Grace Baptist Church; Mrs. Agnes Conwell Barker, John Lamon, Dr. Bowyer, Mrs. Conneys, Misses Smith and Hubbert, Rev. George A. Peltz, William Thrupp, W. H. Key and Frank B. Birch for the issuance of a charter for an institution, which will care for the orphans, or half orphans, of policemen, firemen, or railroadmen, and the Court has fixed as its day of action on the application June 26th. Mr. Conwell says: "We have secured a lot on North Broad street, on which we will erect a building, and we have offers of others in other parts of the city which will, in all likelihood, be accepted by the managers. There are already nearly three hundred children waiting to come under our care, and I have reason to believe that there are at least eight thousand children who desire entrance into some such institution." The corporators propose not to erect one huge building in which to centralize the children who may come under their care, but to have homes in various parts of the city's suburbs, and possibly at Atlantic City and some mountain resort.

Mr. John Birkinbine, Engineer in Chief in charge of the construction of buildings on behalf of the Philadelphia Museums, has made full recommendations as to the urgent need of funds to place the buildings and grounds in readiness for the purposes of coming exposition. Very nearly $1,000,000 will be spent upon the grounds and buildings before they are ready for exhibitors to put their goods in place. One of the items which, though smallest of any contained in the report, will perhaps be most largely instrumental in giving attractiveness to the grounds is that providing for the grading of the lot upon which stands the Archaeological Museum of the University of Pennsylvania and constructing a roadway through it, and the esplanade which is to lead from the main gateway of the Exposition grounds to the grand entrance of the principal buildings, and along the sides of which the various attractions of the amusement section of the Exposition will be located. In addition to the purely engineering work of constructing these roadways, $25,000 is to be spent upon sodding the grounds surrounding the buildings and constructing roads and pathways which will lead to every part of the tract enclosed by the fences which will surround the whole. The work of the landscape gardener will be largely in evidence, and artificial lakes, clumps of shrubbery, and flowerbeds lying near the buildings and in vacant spaces between the various walks will add to the artistic effect of the elaborate architecture of the principal structures. Extra foundations, not included in the contract first made with Allen B. Horke, will probably cost upwards of $6000. The power house will cost $42,000, aside from the cost of the draught stack, which is estimated at $65-80. Boilers, engines, generators and pumps, with pipes, shafting, electric wiring, and light required for illuminating the building, furnishing power to exhibitors, etc., are estimated to cost $175,500, but it is expected that this amount can be reduced to $109,000 or even less by portions of the plant being placed as exhibits or rented to Exposition Association at reduced rates. Gas connections will cost $5000, and fire protection equipment $12,500. There will be included in this two engines, with complete companies of skilled firemen, and fire stations will be so placed that either of the companies can get to any part of the grounds at the shortest notice. For erecting the fence surrounding the grounds and providing gateways and carriage and bicycle entrances, $7600 will be required. The Agricultural and Transportation Buildings will, together, probably, not cost less than $45,000. The Main Building will probably cost, when completed, without other than exterior ornamentation, about $573,000. The original contract for the southern and central pavilions, and the temporary main exhibition hall was $298,000. Added to this there will be the cost of the northern pavilion, estimated at $175,000, which amount includes changes in the main exhibition hall, and in the central pavilion, as well as a sewer to drain the water from the power house flues, and the cost of the auditorium and exposition wings connecting the northern and central pavilions, which is placed at $100,000. About $1,000,000 is to be provided, and many contracts yet to be awarded.

Under the money raised by advertisement for immediate subscription to the loan, the following work will be put under way at once, and the amounts expended as follows by the various bureaus: Finishing Boys' High School and purchasing of lots and erecting other schools, $900,000; abolition of grade crossings on line of Philadelphia and Trenton Railroad, $900,000; bureau of water, $1,500,000; repaving tramway streets, $250,000; squares and parks, $50,000; purchase of ground and building fire and police stations and underground and electrical conduits, $300,000; building bridges, $250,000; repairs to paved streets, $200,000; improved pavement on streets 40 feet and less in width, $350,000; commercial museums, $200,000. This will give $5,600,000, and will be sufficient to cover all the work which could be undertaken during the current year.

$5.00 PER YEAR.

Architect Notes.

Architects Schickel & Ditmars, 111 Fifth avenue, N. Y., have filed plans with the building department for a large brick orphan asylum, which the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum Association will erect on the east side of Sedgwick avenue, 100 feet north of 180th street. The building will measure 382x127x39.4 feet; four and five stories in height and will include every modern improvement and convenience for the carrying on of the work of the Association. The estimated cost is $500,000.

J. Cather Newsom, architect, 1001 Chestnut street, has completed plans for a church building for the Union Presbyterian Church, to be erected at the corner of Sixty-sixth street and Woodland avenue. It will be of granite with a slate roof, one-story high, galvanized cornice, stained glass windows, columns of iron and wood, steam heat, electric work, hard wood pews, cement work, all modern conveniences will be introduced. D. A. McClelland, 1011 South Nineteenth street, has the contract.

Architects Furness, Evans & Company, Provident Life Building, Fourth and Chestnut streets, have finished plans for a handsome club house, which W. W. Frazier proposes to build at Glenwood avenue and Old York Road, Jenkintown. The building will be constructed of brick with red terra cotta trimmings. The basement will contain three store cellars, a billiard room and bowling alley, first floor, three stores, library, reading room, vestibule and passage; second, shuffleboard room, billiard room, game room and lecture room; third, gymnasium, alcove, class room sitting room, two bed rooms, kitchen and bath room.

Hales & Ballinger, architects, 1200 Chestnut street, have completed plans and specifications for the new mill buildings to be erected at the northeast corner of Allegheny avenue and C street, for Thomas Halton's Sons. These buildings are to be used for textile manufacturing purposes and may be followed by others in the near future, on adjoining ground. The main building is to be 120 x 64 feet in dimensions, and four-story and basement high. All the buildings will be of brick, and of substantial mill construction, and contain steam heat and power electric work, lifts, and general conveniences. Estimates now being made on the work.

Sometimes since we noted in these columns plans by Herman L. Duhruig, Jr., architect, 1420 Chestnut street, for the Boys' Club House. Contractors are estimating on the plans and it is to be built at Howard and Somerset streets, from funds provided by George C. Thomas. The plans are for a building four stories high and 95½ by 108 feet in dimensions. It is to contain gymnasium, running track, auditorium, stage, game rooms, library, shop quarters, a saving bank, etc., and it is to be a model structure of its kind. It is to be of brick, white marble trimmings, steam heat, electric work and every comfort and modern conveniences introduced. The cost will approximate $40,000.

Wilson Bros., architects and engineers, Drexel Building, have completed plans for a machine shop for William Sellers, to be erected at Sixteenth and Pennsylvania avenue. It will be six-stories high, brick, stone, iron and cement work. It will contain steam power and heat, electric work, cranes, erecting apparatus, etc. Estimates are now being made by general contractors. Drawings in office of Geo. F. Payne & Company, 401 South Juniper street. Also in same office are plans for a large bay window for Carl Edelheim, 202 West Logan Square. Drawings by Guy King, architect, 431 Walnut street. Also a full set of plans for the Boys' Club House, mentioned elsewhere in these columns.

William H. Shelmardine will have a handsome $30,000 residence built at 269 West Walnut lane, Germantown, after plans by Architects Rankin & Kellogg, 1024 Walnut street. The house will be three stories high and measure 74x64 feet. It will be constructed of brick with stone trimmings. There will be large verandas on the first floor level. The first floor will contain a vestibule, large hall, dining room, pantry, kitchen, servants' hall, laundry, lavatory, two closets, reception room, private room, sitting room and vault; second floor, principal bed room, five closets, two bath rooms, guests' rooms, sewing room, three bed rooms and linen room; third floor, play room, servant's room and bath, hall, housekeeper's rooms, two bed rooms, store room, bath room and five closets. The contract for this work has been awarded to Contractor Charles P. Nesbitt. Previously noted.

James H. Windrim, architect, 1127 Walnut street, has made plans for alteration and addition to the engine room of the Suburban Electric Company's plant at Tacony. Specifications call for masonry, tiling, brick work, cut stone work, iron work, carpenter work, hardware, slag roofing, plastering, cement and concrete work, painting and glazing and plumbing, etc. Plans are in the office of Charles McCaul, 10 North Eleventh street, for estimates. Also in same office are drawings for a large car barn for the Union Traction Company, at Germantown and West View avenues, Germantown. The structure will be one story high, brick, stone and iron are the chief materials to be used, together with considerable cement work. Specifications call for skylight, slag roof, and all accommodations inside. Also in same office are plans by the Kley Engineering Company, of New York City, for packing house, for John T. Felin, of this city. The work calls for stone, brick and iron work, enclosed elevators, a smoke house and all appurtenances for the business, including cold storage, etc.

Wm. L. Plack, architect, 1403 Filbert street, has just completed plans for the remodeling of the entire system of dormitories at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa. Three additional stories will be added, one on each building, and the materials used will be of brick with terra cotta work for trimmings, the exterior style of treatment is in the French Gothic with tin roof. The whole system of heat will be by steam; also a power plant for dynamos and other purpose, sanitary work upon an elaborate scale will be introduced, with closets on all floors of most approved patterns, decorations of halls and rooms, etc. All the latest comforts and conveniences will be introduced throughout. Mr. Plack is making plans for rebuilding the Oxford National Bank, at Oxford, Pa., and putting in new vaults, steam heat, electric work, mosaic and tile work, new plumbing and other detail work. Same architect is engaged on plans for a new bank building to be erected at Kane, Pa., to be three stories high, of brick stone and terra cotta work, leaded glass windows, steam heat, electric work, new vaults, tile and mosaic work as well as all other detail bank features.

Last year we noted the fact that a school would be erected at the northeast corner of Eighth and Filzwater streets, from plans by J. D. Auschutz, architect, to the Board of Education. This work is to be consummated at once and estimates to be asked for the work. The school, will be built of red brick and terra cotta trimmings. Two stone and brick fire escapes will be erected on the outside. The sum of $35,000 has been appropriated for the erection of the new structure. It will be a twenty-seven division building, five-stories high, with a basement. It will occupy a lot 100 feet by 110 feet on which has stood since 1832 the well-known Ringgold School. The building will be torn down as soon as the contract is awarded and it is expected the new school will be completed within a year. Owing to the inability of securing additional ground in that locality it was found necessary, in lieu of "play yard" to supply accommodations for the children in the building itself. The entire fifth floor and most of the basement will be fitted up for play rooms where the children may go during recess. There will be six class rooms on the first floor and seven on each of the other floors, with a hallway running through the middle of the building on each floor. There will also be teachers' rooms on each floor. The most improved and modern system of heating and ventilating will be introduced. Steam heat, electric work and all modern conveniences introduced.

Did you ever give a thought to the fact that labor is the all in all of everything tangible?

The grandest structure on the earth, typifying in the highest possible degree, man's mental genius and mechanical skill, enchanting the eye and pleasing to the senses, is simply a monument to labor in a concise form.

Reason as you please, you have only to relegate the material back to nature to furnish the answer.

As an example, take the Fidelity Insurance Company's massive building, on Broad street above Arch—and we use it as an illustration, because every ounce of its hardware was made by us—relegate the beautiful woods back to the forest; the marble to the quarry; the massive iron girders as well as our own handsome hardware back to the ore in the earth, wherein it had rested for ages, and so on until you have transformed every article or thing used in its construction back to its primitive or natural condition, and what have you? Without labor what can be made of them?

Now our point is in the fact that, while nature contributes the basic material, on which the meritorious goodness and enchanting beauty of the hardware is founded, it is the genius skill and careful labor of our trained and experienced workmen, that makes it worthy of confidence and preference over all other makes.

Isn't this evolution in the highest possible degree? If not, why not?
Buy it! Try it! and you will want no other.

Lonsdale is the architect who made the drawings.

An entertainment was held at the Union Baptist Church, Twelfth street below Bainbridge, last week, under the direction of Rev. Simon P. W. The agitation for the purchase of a site and the erection of a new Academy of Music has been revived through the offer of a lot by a prominent real estate dealer to G. Architect Notes.

Jno. D. Allen late of 1017 Chestnut street, now John D. Allen Company, architects and engineers, have taken a fine suite of offices on the fourth floor of the Burd Building, Ninth and Chestnut streets. The new firm are engaged on plans for several large projects which will be noted in these columns when a little further advanced.

Plans and specifications have been prepared and filed with the Building Department by Architect Geo. F. Pelham, of 503 Fifth ave. N. Y., for a ten-story and basement office building to be erected on the northwest corner of Front and Broad streets. It will be of brick construction, with stores on ground floor, dimensions of building to be 24.2 x 64.8 x 66.3 feet. The improvements will include elevators and steam heat and the cost will be about $140,000.

Charles E. Rahn, architect, 410 Walnut street, has on boards plans for a very large house to be erected on the main line of the Penna R. R. location and owner's name declined for the present. It will be three stories high stone and pebble dash work, steam heat and finest plumbing introduced with all general comforts, cost will approximate $14,000 when completed. Same architect is now making plans for another house to be erected in Germantown which will cost about $5000. Owner's name and site with held for the present.

Architect Robert Maynicke, 725 Broadway, N. Y., has completed plans, which have been filed for a ten-story brick, limestone and terra cotta mercantile building, to be erected at Nos. 122 and 124 Fifth avenue, extending to No. 3 to 7 West Seventeenth street, for Henry Corn. The building which will be 148 feet in height from the curb level to the highest point of roof beams, will be T shaped, having a frontage of 71 feet on the avenue, 50 feet on Seventh street and 60 feet on Eighteenth street. The cost is estimated at $550,000.

Joseph W. Anschutz, architect, Board of Education, has placed on boards of contractors, plans for three separate school houses to be erected at Fifty fourth street and Lansdowne avenue, Eighth and Fitzwater streets and Seventieth street and Woodland avenue. All are to be of stone, brick, iron and fire proof material. Slate roofs, tin work, steam heat, electric work, plumbing, gas fitting, painting, glazing, etc., are among the details in the general specifications. All have been previously noted in these columns. Estimates are now being made by general contractors.

The contract for alterations and additions at the Episcopal Academy, southwest corner of Juniper and Locust streets, has been awarded to Contractors Jacob Myers &

Sons. At present there are two one-story wings at the Academy, each measuring 21 x 66 feet, and it is the intention to add two and one-half stories to each wing, make interior alterations to the present building, strengthen floors and remove partitions. When the work is completed, the wings will be used for class, locker and toilet rooms and a dining room. Architects Furness, Evans & Co. made the plans, which were noted previously in these columns.

The Committee on Property, of the Board of Education, reconsidered its decision to annul the contract of the H. C. Nichols Company, for the erection of a fifteen division school house on Oxford street, between Glenwood avenue and Corlies street, Twenty-ninth section, and again awarded the contract to that company for $64,900, as since the annulment of the contract the required bonds have been filed. The same committee, last week, adopted a resolution dividing the $70,000 appropriated to the Fortieth section as follows:—Erection of a new building at Fifty-first street and Greenway avenue, $50,000; additions to Bartram and Paschalville schools, $10,000 each, instead of devoting the whole amount to the new building as intended.

The plans and specifications for a truck and hose house, to be erected in Stockton, Camden, N. J., are now on the boards for estimates in City Hall. These as previously noted, are by Arnold H. Moses, architect, 419 Walnut street in this city. It will be two stories high, brick and stone, tin roof, plate glass windows, cement floors, iron work, galvanized iron cornice, hot water heat, electric work gas fitting and all improvements, for fire purposes. Outside paving also included in the specifications. Mr. Moses has also on boards plans for a large operation of auto story houses, unique in design, for Col. Wm. L. Price, of this city, whose office is in the Land Title Building, Broad and Chestnut streets. These are to be of mottled brick, terra cotta trimmings, bays and plate glass windows, eight rooms on interior and specially fitted with every convenience. The operation will be erected in the central part of Pittsburgh, Pa.

A number of new school houses are to be erected at once under the appropriations to the Board of Education and for which plans have been prepared. Among these will be have been noted previously. The drawings and estimates are soon to be asked for its erection at Frankford avenue and Somerset street, in the Twenty-fifth section. The new structure when completed will contain all the modern appliances and will have a frontage on Frankford avenue of 125 feet and a frontage of eighty feet on Somerset street. The building will be of granite and will be three stories high, containing fifteen rooms, five rooms to a floor. The structure will be built so that two wings may be added, making it a twenty-one room building. The ceiling will be made of steel and will be handsomely decorated. The building will be equipped with electric bells. The cost of the structure will be between $75,000 and $80,000.

Recently we noted the fact that Edwin F. Durang, architect, 1200 Chestnut street, was engaged on drawings for the New Trinity College, of the Sisters of Notre Dame, to be erected at Washington, D. C. These are now completed and the estimates are to be asked at an early date. The college buildings will be erected at the junction of Michigan and Lincoln avenues, will face Michigan avenue and will be known as Trinity Hall. Extending from the rear of the main building will be at one end, the Convent, at the other end, Science Hall, and in the centre, Lecture Hall. The fourth side of a quadrangle will be formed by a church, which will stand parallel with Trinity Hall, between Lecture Hall and the Convent. The two last named buildings will contain artistic cloisters overlooking the quadrangle and leading to the church. To the left of Trinity Hall it is proposed to erect a fine arts building, and to the right a residence building. The buildings will be constructed of gray granite, with rough stone trimmings. The facade of Trinity Hall, 200 feet in length, will be broken by three pavilions, those at either end being surmounted by a pediment. The main entrance will be embellished by a graceful porch, with a portico above, supported on either side by groups of Corinthian columns. The first floor of Trinity Hall will contain parlors and administration offices, with a dining hall at one end and a library at the other, each of the two latter being 44 x 70 feet. On the second floor will be located lecture and class rooms and typewriter and printing offices. The Sisters of Notre Dame have for years done much of their own printing. The third and fourth floors will be divided into living rooms for the students. Each student will have two rooms—a bed room and a room for study. Lecture Hall will contain on the first floor a hall running the length of the building, for lectures, etc. It will be 40 x 70 feet and twenty feet high. Above this will be the Assembly room, practically the same size, to be used for entertainments. It will be equipped with a stage, scenery, etc. The third floor will be used for the study of botany, and will contain a conservatory for tropical plants. Science Hall, which, however has not yet been designed in all its details, will be thoroughly equipped for the study of laboratory sciences—biology, chemistry, physics, geology, etc. The Convent will conform in external appearance to the general style of the whole pile. For the present it is proposed to build only the Convent, the church and as much of Trinity Hall as will be immediately required.

Without Labor,
What?

Did you ever give a thought to the fact that labor is the all in all of everything tangible?

The grandest structure on the earth, typifying in the highest possible degree, man's mental genius and mechanical skill, enchanting the eye and pleasing to the senses, is simply a monument to labor in a concise form.

Reason as you please, you have only to relegate the material back to nature to furnish the answer.

As an example, take the Fidelity Insurance Company's massive building, on Broad street above Arch—and we use it as an illustration, because every ounce of its hardware was made by us—relegate the beautiful woods back to the forest, the marble to the quarry; the massive iron girders as well as our own handsome hardware back to the ore in the earth, wherein it had rested for ages, and so on until you have transformed every article or thing used in its construction back to its primitive or natural condition, and what have you? Without labor what can be made of them?

Now our point is in the fact, that, while nature contributes the basic material, on which the meritorious goodness and enchanting beauty of the hardware is founded, it is the genius skill and careful labor of our trained and experienced workmen, that makes it worthy of confidence and preference over all other makes.

Isn't this evolution in the highest possible degree? If not, why not?
Buy it! Try it! and you will want no other.

The graduating exercises of the Master Builders' Mechanical School were held at the Builders' Exchange, on Seventh street, the 20th inst. Much regret was expressed at the anticipated necessity of indefinitely closing the school, which has now been in existence for the past nine years, doing important work in training young mechanics. President George Watson, in addressing the meeting said that, during the nine years of the school, for two years only had the State come to its assistance, the deficiency in its expenses having always been met by members of the Exchange and their friends. He could not, he said, justify himself in asking for further gratuitous assistance and therefore the school must close. Other speeches were made by John Atkinson, president of the Exchange; R. A. Moke, John S. Stevens and William Smith. Resolutions congratulatory were presented to President Watson and Superintendent W. A. H. Allen.

VOL. XIV.—No. 27.

PHILADELPHIA, WEDNESDAY, JULY 5, 1899.

$5.00 PER YEAR.

Architect Notes.

T. Frank Miller, Lippincott Building, Twelfth and Filbert streets, architect and builder, will erect a three-story stone and frame dwelling for Fred Kiel, on the east side of Twelfth street, south of Oak Lane, to cost $4500.

Architect M. Fielding, Jr., 110 South Fourth street, has just awarded the contract for the erection of the handsome residence, previously described, to be erected on Church lane, Germantown, for Morris R. Boekius, to Contractor Thomas M. Seeds, Jr.

Architect George Plowman, Betz Building, is inviting bids for the construction of a handsome Colonial porch at Fairmount Park Inn, Falls of Schuylkill, for John F. Betz, Jr. Also for extensive alterations to the stores and halls in the Grand Opera House, for the same owner.

Architects Duhring, Okie & Ziegler, 1420 Chestnut street, are at work on drawings for a two-story frame church for the congregation of the Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, at Riverside, N. J. The edifice will measure 35x65 feet, and a Sunday-school will be located in the basement.

The plans of Architects J. F. Stuckert & Son for the handsome residence to be built at 1327 North Broad street for E. Forrester, previously described, were submitted to the bureau of building inspection for approval yesterday. The work will cost $12,000, and George Kessler has the contract. Previously described.

Contractors Robinson & Wallace, 123 East Twenty-third street, N. Y., have awarded the contract for a twelve-story fireproof hotel, to be erected at 572 Madison avenue, for Francis S. Kinney, 62 Cedar street, after plans prepared by Howard, Cauldwell & Morgan, architects, 10 East Twenty-third street. To cost about $250,000.

William Bledwyn Powell, architect of the public Buildings Commission, has sailed for Europe, having been granted leave of absence for the remainder of the summer by the commission. Ex-Mayor Stokely, Assistant Superintendent Bunker Ex Magistrate Pole and other friends accompanied him to New York and gave him quite a send off.

Architect T. P. Lonsdale, Manhattan Life Building, has furnished plans and estimates are now being taken for the erection of a three-story stone parsonage at Fifty-third and Chestnut streets, for the congregation of St. Matthew's Methodist Episcopal Church. The building will contain about ten rooms and have a front porch and a slate roof. The style of the parsonage will conform with that of the church.

Some time ago Councils made an appropriation of $2500 for the erection of a pavilion in Rittenhouse square, and plans for the structure were drawn by Architects Hazlehurst & Huckle. The bids were opened yesterday and only one offer for the work was received. Thomas M. Seeds offered to erect the pavilion for $9185, and that sum being far in excess of the appropriation, it was rejected and a re-advertisement will be had.

Architects Shermerhorn & Reinhold, 430 Walnut street, have prepared plans for a brick pebble dashed house to be erected on Barrett avenue, Bryn Mawr, for Hugh W. Barrett, of that place. The dwelling will be finished in oak and chestnut modern opening, plumbing, hot water heating, electric lighting, bells, etc. A feature will be a large brick fire place situated in a nook, a part of the large reception hall on the first floor.

Edward Wenz, 1491 Third avenue, N. Y., is the architect for an extensive operation for which plans have been filed with the building department, aggregation in cost about $450,000, consisting of six five-story brick flats, 26x85 feet, on plot 18x200 feet, on 138th street, near Seventh avenue, running through to 139th street, and eight five-story brick and stone front apartments with stores, on the northeast corner of 138th street and Seventh avenue. They will contain all modern improvements. Dorothea Weibel, 405 East 142d street, is the owner.

Messrs. Bailey & Truscott, architects, 421 Chestnut street, have on boards plans for a fine country house for Mr. M. W. Baird, at Ardmore, Pa. It will be stone and frame, three stories high, hardwood interior, electric work, plate and fancy leaded glass, tile work, best of plumbing, and specially fitted bath rooms, of which there will be five in all, hot air heating, and all the latest and best comforts. Same architects will prepare plans for a new building for the Colored Zion Baptist Congregation, at Ardmore, Pa. It will be of brick, stone trimmings, seating about 450 persons, electric work and general conveniences, as well as church furnishings.

Plans and specifications have been prepared for the proposed massive normal school building for the Sisters of Mount St. Joseph's Catholic Academy, at Chestnut Hill, by E. F. Durang, architect, 1200 Chestnut street. Estimates are being made by various contractors. The structure will be an imposing one, four-stories high, built of local stone and topped with a mansard roof. The basement will be out of the ground, making it practically five stories in height. The edifice will have the form of a T, with a fronting of 200 feet, extending back 200 feet. The cost is estimated at $175,000. The building will be constructed of Chestnut Hill stone and granite, to correspond with the present academy buildings with which it will connect.

Architects Jacobs & Sansbury, Harrison Building, Cumberland, Md., have completed plans for a frame residence for Mr. Wm. M. Lannan, to be erected in Frostburg, Md.

The building will be a two-story and attic residence, and to be completed in all modern conveniences at a cost not to exceed $2500. The same firm have made plans for W. C. White, Cumberland, Md., for a three-story brick and stone structure which will be fitted up for lodge and apartment purposes, two store rooms on first floor. It will be finely finished throughout, electric work, ornamental and plain glass, tile work, sanitary plumbing, metal ceilings, and all modern conveniences. The building to be approximately 50 x 90 feet, and to be completed at a cost not to exceed $11,000. The above firm have plans on boards for a lodge building, 65 feet frontage, three stories, notice of which will appear.

Hales & Ballinger, architects, 1200 Chestnut street, have on boards plans for a large manufacturing plant, for the "Oldham Mills," at Allegheny avenue and Boudinot street. The main structure will be 54x113 feet and 192x113 feet, one-story b'gh, with saw-tooth roof. Also a boiler house, 35x44 feet; one-story high, engine house, 25x56 feet; machine shop, 19x26 feet, each one-story. All are to be of red brick, terra cotta and stone trimmings, slag roofing. Also a tower staircase to hold 27,000 gallon tank of water, this will be covered by a slate roof; boiler house also will have a slate roof. The interior of all will be fitted with electric work, steam power and heat, plumbing, and every modern convenience. Estimates to be asked at once on the work. The same architects have awarded the contract for the factory of Thomas Halton & Sons, recently on boards for estimates, to William Steele & Sons, of 506 Walnut street, who will at once begin work.

Wilson Bros. & Company, architects and engineers, Drexel Building, have made drawings for alterations to the ninth story windows of the Drexel Building, on Custom House Place side. These are exhibited in the offices of Doyle & Doak, 1509 Sansom street, and other contractors. Estimates are now being made on the work. Also in the latter contractor's office are drawings for completing the office in Baltimore, Md., of the Fayette Land and Construction Company, at Fayette and Paul streets. The specifications call for almost every branch of construction work and materials as well as detail work. Concrete work, vitrified brick work, stone and granite, iron work, terra cotta work, polished interior marble, floor and partition hollowware, roofing, plastering, painting and glazing, plumbing and ventilation, etc. The plans for the eight-story office and light manufacturing structure, to be built by George F. Lasher, at Juniper and Cherry streets, are still for estimate in the same office. This work has been previously noted in full.

Without Labor, What?

Did you ever give a thought to the fact that labor is the all in all of everything tangible?

The grandest structure on the earth, typifying in the highest possible degree, man's mental genius and mechanical skill, enchanting the eye and pleasing to the senses, is simply a monument to labor in a concise form.

Reason as you please, you have only to relegate the material back to nature to furnish the answer.

As an example, take the Fidelity Insurance Company's massive building, on Broad street above Arch—and we use it as an illustration, because every ounce of its hardware was made by us—relegate the beautiful woods back to the forest; the marble to the quarry; the massive iron girders as well as our own handsome hardware back to the ore in the earth, wherein it had rested for ages, and so on until you have transformed every article or thing used in its construction back to its primitive or natural condition, and what have you? Without labor what can be made of them?

Now our point is in the fact, that, while nature contributes the basic material, on which the meritorious goodness and enchanting beauty of the hardware is founded, it is the genius skill and careful labor of our trained and experienced workmen, that makes it worthy of confidence and preference over all other makes.

Isn't this evolution in the highest possible degree? If not, why not?

PHILADELPHIA, WED'Y, JULY 5, 1899

On July 12th we shall make our semi-annual report of building operations and transfers of real estate.

The value of such data when presented with the same regard for correctness and reliability as has characterized this journal, since its inception, cannot be overestimated, for it appeals to the intelligence of the citizens of the whole country whom it happens to reach, as much as it does to the members of our own community.

The homes of the people are veritable milestones, marking the road to progress, and it goes without saying, that the village, town or State, that has no yearly record of new buildings, is to be shunned as a leper spot of stagnation, where thrift and progress are as unknown as the tenets of the Koran.

It is to be regretted that more regular effort is not made in the direction of publishing reliable data, as to the progress our city is making in other important business interests, for while gossip is usually based upon exalted and egregious errors, figures and facts, when susceptible of proof, become incontrovertible history.

Two instances of seriously wrong impressions have been recently corrected by THE REAL ESTATE RECORD, in proof of the above statement, one of which was the building record of Pittsburgh and the other that of Washington, compared with Philadelphia.
In the first instance the gentleman from Pittsburgh was surprised when informed that a single ward in this city had erected a great many more buildings during the last ten years than his own town in its entirety, while the other gentleman was answered with a proposition to furnish date and data, showing that at least half a dozen wards of this city had each beaten the record of the Capital City by an overwhelming majority.

Scarcely a week passes without requests from remote sections of the country for "sample copies," as a result of our publication of these self-same tables and reports and we mention this as evidence that "a tab" is being kept on Philadelphia by outsiders even as closely as that kept by our own citizens.

We tender our congratulations to Robert C.
Hill, the newly-appointed Chief of the Board of Building Inspectors. Mr. Hill enters upon his station fully equipped and adapted for the special work of presiding over one of the best official organizations in ability and integrity in this country. The entire board are men schooled in the several branches entering into the erection of buildings, and all are masters of their various trades or avocations. The new Chief may be assured of the loyal support of all in the execution of the law and discharge of his official duties.

Chief Hill was born in the Seventh ward, in December, 1857. He attended the public schools, and, while serving as a bricklayer apprentice to his father, took courses at the Artisans', Spring Garden and Franklin Institutes. He was a journeyman for several years in this and other cities, and was then appointed an inspector with the United States Government officials along the Atlantic coast. He then commenced business on his own account, constructing the Franklin electric light plant, Franklin, Pa.; Active Milling Co.'s plant, Millville; Brooks & Co.'s glassworks, Millville; Harte's cotton mills, Philadelphia; several churches and schoolhouses, and numerous other buildings of a minor character. He was appointed building inspector April 1, 1894, which position he has held up to the present time. He has been an active Republican all his life, and is a member of the Young Republicans, the Thirtieth Ward Republican Club, and the Fortieth Ward Republican Club. He is also an active member of the Bricklayers' Company, of Philadelphia; Covenant Lodge, No.
456, P. and A. M.; A. O. U. W., and Artists' Order of Mutual Protection. Mr. Hill resides at 2242 Catharine street, in the Thirtieth ward.

Hard on our Ancestors.

The following clipping from an exchange may prove personally interesting to many of our readers of Celtic origin because of their survival and prosperity for many generations, even under such adverse conditions as their almost unpronounceable original names would indicate:

"Connor was once written 'Connchobhair,' and had the hearty significance of the 'war-hound of help,' while Gallagher is 'Gallichohair,' the helping stranger." McGillivuddy is bad enough as it stands, but one can be thankful even for that, remembering that it was first written, 'Mac Giolla Mhachudha,' and signified 'the son of St. Mochudha's servant.' The great changes that have slipped into all the names no doubt grew out of the fact that the Gaels were wholly illiterate both in their own tongue and in English, and that the only guide which the English strangers had to the orthography of the names was the pronunciation of the owner. No doubt, 'Tordhalbhack Mac Giolla Mhoo-chudha,' came trippingly enough from the lips of the owner, but is it any wonder that from Saxon lips it grew into Terence MacGillivuddy?"

Architect Notes.

Walter Smedley, architect, Stephen Girard Building, Twelfth above Chestnut street, has been engaged to prepare plans for the alterations and additions to the Foulk-Long Institute at Langhorne, Pa. The work will consist of new building and general alterative in detail of the old hotel property and will combine when finished. All the latest and most modern comforts and conveniences for the care of the scholars intrusted to their keeping. Work will be started in the course of a week or so, or as soon as drawings are prepared and contracts can be made.

The First, Second, Twenty-sixth, Thirty-sixth and Thirty-ninth wards are now making a strong move to have the Board of Education and City Councils give favorable action looking to the erection of a high school for the benefit of that section. Several meetings have been held and resolutions adopted comprehensive of a plan.

The drawings for alterations and a four-story rear addition, 19 x 73 feet, at Silas W. Pettit's residence, 1012 Spruce street, which were prepared by Architect L. C. Hickman, Brown Brothers Building, Fourth and Chestnut streets, previously noted, were yesterday submitted to the Bureau of Building Inspectors for approval. It is estimated that the work will cost $13,700.

Owner J. Renton White has begun on the erection of a two-story local stone dwelling, 40 x 44 feet, on the lot 70 x 123.1 feet, on the east side of Twelfth street 100 feet north of sixty-eighth avenue, Twenty-second ward. He also started to build a two-story local stone dwelling, 40 x 44 feet, on the lot 70 x 172 feet, on the north side of Sixty-ninth avenue, 87.7 feet east of Lawnton avenue. The work will cost $9500.

The contract for the erection of the combination police, fire and patrol station, at Seventh and Carpenter streets, previously described in this column, has been awarded to Contractors J. E. & A. L. Pennock, 395 Walnut street. Their bid was $45,474. The amount appropriated by Councils for this work is $51,000, and the cost to complete the work including the architect's bill, will be $750 less than the amount appropriated.

Gruhlr will build a two-story local stone stable 73 x 80 feet, on the south side of Willow Grove avenue, east of the Chestnut Hill branch of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway, for Randal Morgan, owner. This work will cost $10,000, and it was previously noted. Mr. Morgan will have a green house, 18 x 100 feet, built on Willow Grove avenue, east of Germantown avenue. Thomas G. Young has the contract for this work.

Plans have been submitted to the Bureau of Building Inspection by Contractor Wm. J. During the past week a large amount of work has been bid upon, and some of which still remain on boards for estimates. Among these have been the various school houses, noted in last issue of this journal: the St. Joseph Roman Catholic Academy, plans by E. F. Durang, architect, 1200 Chestnut street; the George Lasher building, to be erected at Juniper and Cherry streets, from plans by Charles Balderston, architect, 411-13 Walnut street, also fully noted; alteration to 1524 Arch street, for Fels Company. All the above have been on boards of William R. Dougherty, contractor, 1604 Sansom street, and other contractors.

We learn that several New York capitalists have, during the last ten days in this city, been inspecting sites for the erection of a theatrical building. Among these may be noted Koster & Bial, also Harry J. Miner, of that city. Their chief inquiry was understood to be for the location between the new Art Club building and Locust street, on the south, on Broad street. These four houses, 224, 226, 228, 230, are owned by George Mc-Fadden, and left with his agent, S. King-McCay, a real estate conveyancer. No actual transaction has taken place, nor price agreed upon; indeed, it is not certain that the property can be bought for the purpose, if at all.

Contractor Charles Auchter has the contract to make alterations and additions, previously noted, at 1607 Chestnut street for the E. C. Knight estate to cost $15,000. W. S. P. Shields is the lowest bidder on several streets, which he proposes to pave with rock asphalt. This material was not in accordance with the ordinance of Councils authorizing the paving of these streets. However, contracts will be awarded to him provided he can furnish the material which the ordinance of Councils directs the streets to be paved with, and of this there is not the slightest doubt.

At Trenton, N. J., in an opinion on the 1st inst., Vice-Chancellor Reed denied the application of Charles Evans, owner of the Seaside House, Atlantic City, for an order to restrain the Auditorium Pier Company from building a pier jutting out into the ocean, near Pennsylvania avenue. The vice-chancellor says the pier will in no way injure the hotel. The government of Atlantic City also sued the Auditorium Company and secured a rule requiring the company to show cause why the building of the pier should not be restrained on the grounds of its being a nuisance and obstruction. Vice-Chancellor Reed also filed an opinion deciding against the city but granting leave to the city to apply for an injunction should the pier company make a connection with the boardwalk before the pier is completed.

T. L. Eyre Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings, says, in relation to the proposed expenditures at the Executive Mansion at Harrisburg, Pa.: "At a meeting of the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings, held recently, the question of furnishing the mansion was considered. The items—the eleator, decorating halls and stairways, raising the roof over the office and providing additional sleeping rooms, oil paintings and marble statue—were all disallowed. None of these expenses will be incurred. The board has had no intention at any time to make these expenditures. The Governor opposed the outlay. These items were in the schedule of possible things required during the coming year, like many other items that get into the schedule under the law requiring every purchase to be from the lowest public bidder, but the items scheduled and awarded to the bidders cannot be purchased except on requisition subsequently approved by the board.

At the meeting of the Board of Port Wardens last week, an application to construct a big pavilion pier at Race street wharf was received from Mayor Ashbridge. It was referred to the Committee on Improvement of the Delaware River Wharves. This application is the outcome of the amicable adjustment of all the property disputes concerning Race street wharf, and which have been pending for months past. It is now an almost assured thing that the big Chestnut street pavilion pier will have a duplicate at Race street, an ordinance of Councils having been passed authorizing its construction. Other applications were as follows: Uhler estate, to construct a pier in front of their property just above Race street wharf, from George Watkinson & Co. for permission to erect a bulkhead on the Schuylkill River, between Reed and Harmer streets, from the Terminal Land Company, for a renewal of license No. 553, granted February 1, 1897, for the extension of Pier No. 4 North Wharves, but this was refused. The Board authorized the amendment of license No. 592 to J. B. King & Co., of Chester, for the construction of a pier so as to conform to a plan dated December 15 1898. The Keystone Plaster Company applied for a license to build a temporary wharf at Chester. This was referred to a special committee.

Colonel Fleming has drawn plans for an addition to his dwelling on Massachusetts avenue and Fifteenth street. The new structure will cover the entire lot, and in architecture will be that known as the English basement style. There will be a fine entrance hall, 18x20 feet. The interior will be finely finished and all modern conveniences introduced, a laundry, sanitary plumbing, steam heat, etc. The material will be Indiana limestone and Roman brick, stone porch over main entrance.—Waddy B. Wood has prepared plans for an attractive dwelling, to be erected at the southeast corner of Eighteenth street and Columbia road, for Mrs. Mary McAllister. It will be of gray brick, with copper and stone trimmings, red tile roof, stone porch three stories high, finely finished throughout, two bathrooms, reception hall, ornamental glass, all modern conveniences. The same architect has prepared plans for three dwellings, to be erected on C street, between Sixth and Seventh streets, northeast. They will be of gray brick, red slate roofs, fine interior finish, and all modern improvements.—The cornerstone of the Gay Street Baptist Church was laid July 2, and work will now be pushed as rapidly as possible. Rev. W. S. O. Thomas, is the pastor. The plans were drawn by Frank H. Jackson, and are Romanesque in style.

PHILADELPHIA, WEDNESDAY, JULY 12, 1899.

$5.00 PER YEAR.

Architect Notes.

Mantle Fielding, architect, 110 South Fourth street, has finished plans for alteration and addition to residence of Mr. Freeman, 2034 Chestnut street. They are quite extensive and include all modern comforts, bay windows with plate glass, new rooms, etc. Estimates being made.

C. E. Rahn, architect, 410 Walnut street, has on the boards for estimates a three-story store and dwelling house for Gustave Ulrich, located at the northeast corner of Ninth and Morris streets, 16 x 61 feet, to be built of dark gray brick and granite trimmings and fitted with all modern conveniences. The general style will be of Italian Renaissance.

Robeson L. Perot, architect, 636 Bourse Building, has on boards plans for estimates for a fine country house, to be erected in Germantown, name and exact location not given. It will be of frame and pebble dash work; interior in hard wood, electric work, hot air heat, best culinary arrangements and general comforts. Other designs on boards in same office will be noted soon in these columns.

Wilson Bros., architects and engineers, Drexel Building, have completed plans for a building for Agricultural Exhibits and one Transportation building, for the Exhibition of 1899 in this city, and placed the drawings for estimate in office of Doyle & Doak, 1609 Sansom street. Specifications call for stone, brick, fire brick, concrete work, mackite and wood partitions, electric work, steam work, etc. Also the general construction work involved in both structures.

Plans have been prepared by Buchman & Deisler, 11 East Fifty-ninth street, New York city, and filed with the Building Bureau, for a large factory building to be erected at the southwest corner of Wythe avenue and Penn street. It will be of brick exterior, mill construction, and cover an area of 100 x 125 feet. Specifications include steam heat, galvanized iron cornice and gravel roof. Adler & Hedman, 155 Broadway, New York city, are the owners. The cost is estimated at $50,000.

Contractors are making estimates on plans by E. F. Durang, architect, 1200 Chestnut street, for a massive new building, to be built at Chestnut Hill, for the Roman Catholic Academy of the Sisters of Mount St. Joseph. The structure, which is to be used as a Normal School, will be built of local stone. It will be four stories and basement in height, and will be built in the form of a T, one front being 200 feet and the other 250 feet. The estimated cost of construction is about $175,000. Previously noted in full.

Plans have been designed and filed with the building department, from which Eli H.

Bishop, 647 Putnam avenue, will erect five private dwellings at the southwest corner of Stuyvesant avenue and Decatur street, Brooklyn. They will be of brick with stone trimmed fronts, each 22x48 feet, three-story and basement. Will have roofs and galvanized iron cornice, open work plumbing and steam and hot-air heat. Alexander S. Hedman, Arbuckle Building, is the architect. Estimated to cost $54,000.

Architect Chris Meyer, 361 Broadway, New York City, has prepared plans for five three-story brick store and flat buildings, 20x45 feet each, to be erected on Liberty avenue, near Crystal street, for George W. Gregory, 1377 Herkimer street. All modern conveniences. Cost, $17,500. The same architect has also filed plans for a three-story brick flat with store, 20x50 feet, to be built for the same owner, on the northeast corner of Liberty avenue and Crystal street, at a cost of $5000.

Plans drawn by James H. Windrim, architect, 1107 Walnut street, for a three-story engine and boiler house, to be built on Susquehanna avenue, between American and Philip streets, have been submitted to the bureau of building inspection for their approval. This is for the Pennsylvania Manufacturing Light and Power Company and will be 121 by 54 feet in dimensions. Charles McCaul has the contract at a figure approximately $40,000 and will start work as soon as the plans have received approval.

Dull & Coates, architects, formerly of 1110 Walnut street, have removed to 1205 Walnut street, where they have fitted up a handsome suite of offices in order to accommodate the demands of their business. These gentlemen have on boards plans for the new Gustavus Adolphus Lutheran Church to be erected at McKean and Mole streets. It will be red brick, limestone trimmings, slag and tin roofing, galvanized iron cornice, a tower at one corner of same material; structure will be two stories high, seat about 500 persons, hot air heating and all general church fixtures.

James D. Lalor, engineer, 636 Arch street, has made plans and specifications for the erection of a car barn, boiler house and engine house, for the Midland Street Railway Company, and the drawings are for estimate in office of Wm. R. Dougherty, 1604 Sansom street, and other contractors. All are to be one-story high, brick and stone, with iron truss work for roof, which will be of slag, cement and structural steel work, cut stone painting and glazing, skylight and all general conveniences will be introduced.

Architect Benjamin Driesler, 1432 Flatbush avenue, has prepared plans and specifications for eleven three-story and basement brick dwellings which Mr. William H. Reynolds, Forty-ninth street and New Utrecht avenue, will erect on the south side of Sterling place, east of Vanderbilt avenue. They are designed as private residences, each 20x45 feet, with pressed brick fronts, tin roofs and galvanized iron cornices. All modern improvements, including hot air furnaces and open sanitary plumbing. Total cost, $38,000.

The plans for alteration and addition to residence of William M. Bunn, 1718 Walnut street, by William J. Macauley, architect, 1530 Chestnut street, are on boards of Contractors Doyle & Doak for estimate. These, as noted previously, are more extensive, and include almost the entire line of household work. New building will contain every modern comfort, new rooms in the old part, decorations, glass work, mosaic and other fine art work, plumbing, gas and electric work, baths, bay windows, etc. In the same office are the plans for estimate on the office building for the Calvert Construction and Building Company, of Baltimore, Md. This work has been fully noted previously in these columns. Also drawings for erection of the commandant's office at League Island navy yard.

Thomas Stephen, architect, Masonic Temple, Camden, N. J., has on boards plans for alteration and additions to the Lincoln and Harrison school houses, of Camden. The scope of work will embrace not only additions but introduction of steam heat and ventilation electric work and other minor details. Also on boards for estimate at present are drawings for alterations and addition of a third story to the Broadway school house, and steam heat, ventilation, electric work, plumbing, etc. Same architect is preparing plans for extensive alterations and addition to the store at Fifth and Market streets, which will include every modern convenience and comfort. This, with the Lincoln and Harrison schools, will soon be for estimate by contractors.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

It is the wish of Mayor Ashbridge to place the $500,000 appropriation at the disposal of the Board of Education, so that the new building for the Boys' High School can be completed. In order to allow this operation to proceed all bills standing against this contract will be paid off. Ordinances have already passed Councils appropriating the following sums out of the big loan: West Philadelphia reservoir, $500,000; Boys' High School, $500,000; main sewers, $500,000; abolition of grade crossings, $300,000; Philadelphia Museum, $200,000; extension of Fairmount Park, $100,000; repaving streets, $2,000,000. Leaving a balance of $500,000 to be appropriated.

Wharf Rats and Gentlemen...

ARE about as far apart as human agencies can make them; they represent the extremes of human nature as well as human possibilities.

Impractical philanthropists argue that this difference is the natural result of environment, and that, under the same conditions, men would be alike as to their social and moral status.

If this assumption is correct, why are not horses alike? There is little difference as to environments in the early life of horses.

Why are not manufacturers alike? Why do some of these bring to bear upon their products the invincible stamp of honest worth and business integrity, an abso'ute and conscientious adherence to the highest possible standard of excellence?

No faltering; no quibbling; nothing for expediency's sake; no hedging or dodging; no flimsy excuse or false subterfuge. No! no! no! A thousand times no! Nothing but the best that can be made by mortal man.

These are strong phrases, but every single one of them applies to the pre-eminently good

THE principal feature of interest in the extensive exhibit of the Mannheimer Portland Cement Fabrik, at the Strassburg Exposition, was the Fountain as shown in this illustration.

It is most artistically designed and highly ornamental.

It was the largest single piece ever constructed out of Portland Cement.

The Fountain still remains as a memorial of the late Exposition and is one of the ornaments of the City of Strassburg.

That last year you neglected to provide yourself, before starting on your outing, with a stimulant that would benefit you when the necessity for its use occurred. Not having it you were compelled to accept just what they had on hand, and your experience was not all that could be desired. Now, therefore, take time by any lock and secure that which will relieve you of your ills, and make your friends bless the day you were born, by securing a supply of the Yellow Label, Bailey's Pure Rye Whiskey, at $1.50 per bottle. Without Labor,
What?

Did you ever give a thought to the fact that labor is the all in all of everything tangible?

The grandest structure on the earth, typifying in the highest possible degree, man's mental genius and mechanical skill, enchanting the eye and pleasing to the senses, is simply a monument to labor in a concise form.

Reason as you please, you have only to relegate the material back to nature to furnish the answer.

As an example, take the Fidelity Insurance Company's massive building, on Broad street above Arch—and we use it as an illustration, because every ounce of its hardware was made by us—relegate the beautiful woods back to the forest; the marble to the quarry; the massive iron girders as well as our own handsome hardware back to the ore in the earth, wherein it had rested for ages, and so on until you have transformed every article or thing used in its construction back to its primitive or natural condition, and what have you? Without labor what can be made of them?

Now our point is in the fact, that, while nature contributes the basic material, on which the meritorious goodness and enchanting beauty of the hardware is founded, it is the genius skill and careful labor of our trained and experienced workmen, that makes it worthy of confidence and preference over all other makes.

Isn't this evolution in the highest possible degree? If not, why not?

Building and Real Estate Notes.

At the corner of Meriden and Cottage streets, two two-story brick dwellings, each 16x48 feet, are to be built by Rush Taylor.

A boiler and engine house, of iron, 20x26 feet, and a frame mixing platform, 26x22 feet, and seven brick furnaces, are to be constructed for the Vulcanized Paving Company, on the east side of Torresdale avenue, south of Church street.

Contractors have received plans and specifications for estimates for the erection of a fine new building, to be occupied as the commandant's office at the League Island Navy Yard. The structure will be three stories high, 74 x 46 feet, with a granite base. The front above will be of gray Roman brick, trimmed with terra cotta and marble. Fine polished granite columns will ornament the main entrance. There will be porches in the rear, and a terra cotta balustrade will decorate the roof. The buildings will be put up on the west side of Broad street, above the present commandant's office. The building will be modern in every detail, and will be erected on the steel and iron fireproof plan.

The data for the specifications of the amount of money and time that will be required to finish the City Hall, as asked for in a resolution that passed Councils more than a month ago, has nearly all been secured by the Public Building Commission, but it is not likely that this statement will be furnished to councils before the first meeting in October. This information is now being arranged in proper form by Superintendent L. D. C. Tyler, and his assistant, John M. Bunker, in connection with their other duties, but the task is one that will require considerable time, and it is doubtful whether it can be completed before October. Architect Powell, who is now on a trip to Europe, will return the latter part of September and will assist in the work.

Councils' sub-committee on the G. A. R. Encampment met last week and considered the bids for the street decorations. It was determined to shorten the space for the principal decorations and ask the successful bidders to proportionately reduce their bids. Originally the plan was to embellish Broad street, between Locust and Race streets, but Walnut and Cherry streets are now fixed upon as the limits. The committee recommends the awards of these contracts: Staff work, Stephens, Cooper & Co., $9950; electric wiring, Sawyer, Kepler & Co., $3500; flags, bunting, garlands, etc., John Wana-maker, $2400. Only one bid was received for the frame work, amounting to $5000, and it was stated that $100 of that amount would be necessary for permits from the Bureau of Highways. No award was made because no bond accompanied the bid and the members of the committee believe that all of the material needed for this portion of the work will be contributed.

At last a move has been made in the matter of starting the work of repairing a large number of streets throughout the city by Director Haddock. During the current week the contractors in accordance with provisions of the law and the loan. The contracts for repaving 372 out of 496 streets to be improved with sheet asphaltum were awarded two weeks ago, and the various contractors are expected to commence active work on these operations on Monday next. Under the specifications the contractors are restricted to opening only two squares of any one street to be repaved at one time, but this will not interfere to any extent with pushing the work. It is the desire of Director Haddock to complete as much of this asphaltting as possible before cold weather puts in an appearance and to complete the contracts early next spring. In addition to this work, there are 124 other streets to be repaved with Belgian and slag blocks and vitrified bricks, proposals for which have been received, but the contracts have not yet been made. The awards are expected to be given out in a few days, however, and then the work will be vigorously pushed.

The site of the old base ball grounds at the northeast corner of Broad and Jackson streets is to be improved by the erection of about one hundred dwellings and ten stores, at an estimated cost of about $250,000. This operation is under the control of Thomas P. Twibill, Betz Building, who now has the plans and specifications on the boards for estimates. The entire operation will have porch fronts, excepting the stores. Three-story houses will be built on the main streets, and these will have square reception halls, bay windows, and copper trimmings. On the smaller streets the houses will be two stories high, with Pompeian brick fronts. There will be laundries in each house, and all will be fitted with hard woods in the interior, the plumbing to be of the best and subject to city regulations. On Broad street the lots are to be 13 x 100 feet in dimensions, and the rear lots 16 x 60 feet. In many respects this operation is to be similar to the one built at Thirty-third and Ridge avenue, opposite Fairmount Park, and just finished for the Girard Realty Company.

Semi-Annual Report FOR 1899 Building Construction IN PHILADELPHIA

AND
TRANSFERS OF REAL ESTATE,
From January 1st to June 30th, inclusive.
With mortgage and ground rent incumbrance on same.

Tables by wards and months for two and three-story dwellings, together with the new buildings of all kinds erected and in course of erection, with the estimated cost, exclusive of the cost of the land.

1540 alterations and additions, for which permits were granted, costing $2,310,000, a falling off of 469 in number, while the expenditure was $703,500 less.

There is little room for surprise at the falling off of building construction work this year; indeed, if full consideration is given to influences, it is encouraging that so much has been accomplished.

It is disappointing that alterations and additions have not fulfilled predictions, as the large amount of this kind of work last year suggested a still greater amount to be recorded this year.

The loss of over a thousand houses (1075) this year against the record of the first six months of last year in operation work (two and three-story dwellings) cuts a wide swath in the investment, this alone being responsible for a shortage of $2,726,000, a part of which is made up through the increase in buildings of another character.

The prominent features in operation work can be readily recognized by following our tables by wards and months of two and three-story dwellings. The falling off in many of the wards is without a precedent, while the gains are few and inconsiderable in the way of overcoming the losses.

In two-story dwellings the First ward is short of last year's record by 43; the Nineteenth, 1; the Twentieth, 23; Twenty-first, 17; Twenty-second, 1; Twenty-third, 46; Twenty-fourth, 6; Twenty-sixth, 84; Twenty-seventh, 40; Twenty-eighth, 238; Twentieth, 8; Thirty-second, 66; Thirty-third, 75; Thirty-fourth, 125; Thirty-seventh, 38; Thirty-ninth, 68. The wards showing gains are as follows: Twenty-fifth, 6; Thirty-first, 3; Thirty-fifth, 6; Thirty-sixth, 97; Thirty-eighth, 24; Fortieth, 31.

In three-story dwellings the First ward is short 2; Third, 2; Fourth, 4; Eighth, 1; Ninth, 1; Eighteenth, 5; Nineteenth, 15; Twentieth, 2; Twenty-second, 83; Twenty-fourth, 52; Twenty-fifth, 4; Twenty-sixth, 3; Twenty-seventh, 101; Thirty-first, 1; Thirty-second, 13; Thirty-third, 2; Thirty-fourth, 150; Thirty-fifth, 4.

The wards with gains are the Second, 11; Fifth, 2; Thirteenth, 1; Twenty-first, 17; Twenty-third, 4; Twenty-eighth, 24; Twenty-ninth, 6; Thirty-eighth, 60.

West Philadelphia, consisting of the Twenty-fourth, Twenty-seventh, Thirty-fourth and Fortieth wards, it will be seen, is responsible for a large share of the falling off from last year's record of operation work, as the shortage in that section amounts to 440 two and three-story dwellings. There is but one ward in West Philadelphia, the Fortieth, that shows an increase, and that only of 34 two-story dwellings over last year. The Thirty-fourth is the least active ward, with 125 two-story and 150 three-story. The Twenty-seventh is short 40 two-story and 101 three-story.

The Twenty-eighth, which for years merited its title as the banner ward for operation work, while showing an increase of 24 three-story dwellings over last year, lost 203 of its last year's record for two-story dwellings.

The building of dwellings for which buyers are desired is a purely manufacturing proposition, controlled by the self same laws of supply and demand, cost and profit, as govern the production of textiles or any other commodity. The mills shut down, throwing thousands of skilled wage earners out of employment because of over-production or unprofitable business arising from various causes. It is unreasonable to suppose that the house manufacturing business, which at all times is quite as sensitive and further removed from the purchasing ability of the masses, is unyielding to influences of the same nature, for drastic conditions are the same, however applied, and the constant grind of prolonged inactivity tests the mettle and ability of the operative builder at a greater ratio, perhaps, than any other manufacturer under the sun, and no better proof of this is needed than the history of the trials and struggles of the builders and owners represented in the 366 Sheriff's writs covering the 516 properties sold by that official on July 3d inst. This large number of houses will be finished and no doubt marketed at best price.

In other words, conditions, although improved in many ways over those of a year ago, are bad enough; in fact, so bad that, while the ascending grade has been reached, thinking and experienced men indulge in no idle fancies, but recognize that in real estate the history of the past is the history of to-day, and that the self same steps leading onward and upward to prosperity must be patiently trodden, however tedious and tiresome the journey, until the highest plane is reached. The selling of houses is dependent upon the business success of the people, and savings, whether recognized as the increment from business ventures or as the hoardings of the wage earners, is the all powerful influence that creates buyers.

The faith of the people in land and homes still exists. As a gauge of wealth, real property is no less important than years ago, and while speculation, particularly that in the industrial, may have temporarily diverted enormous sums from real estate, yet experience will furnish the heaven and it will have its inning, and a prolonged one at that.

Of course there are lots of vacant houses, but it is possible to find as profitable investment in bonds and stocks as that which owners of occupied properties realize from their holdings without even the shadow of a risk?

Values have not increased, unless, perhaps, in exceptional instances, which are rare, but the pessimistic feeling has largely abated; the way is being slowly paved for an active market and it is only a question of time, for it will surely follow as a result of improved business conditions throughout the country and a proper appreciation of the value of real property as an investment.

There is a noticeable decline in the demand for dwellings over July of last year, both for rental and purchase. There are always buyers enough for barge, but this expresses nothing as to market conditions. Small stores are not renting. The demand for stores on Chestnut and Market streets is improving. Values of Market street properties are increasing. Mortgages continue to be in great demand, and the recent city loan, taken to net about 2.86 per cent, is quoted as evidence of the plenitude of money, even outside of financial circles. It is thought that the present low interest rates have come to stay, as, no matter how great commercial necessities may increase, there is more than enough to meet all demands.

Gold exports and similar propositions are regarded as mere bluffs to influence the stock market, and even as a feature in that direction such thunder is now without effect.

It is nonsense to argue that the retrograde is liable to happen, for nothing short of foreign complications can give a setback to business.

Saving funds, and such institutions are invaluable in helping conclusions, report large increases since January 1st in both new accounts and deposits, and, while the amounts are small, they prove a greatly increased earning power among wage earners. The coming city improvements will become a strong factor in this respect, and while it is to be regretted that political animosities delayed the loan and the city was deprived of the advantages of the low prices of material and our work people of work when it was most needed, it would be interesting to our property owners to learn the total cost of the work proposed at prevailing prices compared with those of a year ago.

Philadelphia's reputation as the city of homes par excellence—and our people are largely indebted to the splendid work of the Trades League for its publicity—is making itself felt throughout the country, for we know of four instances at the present time of families who will locate here after suitable sites and residences have been secured. One of these is from Omaha and the other three from Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Any publicity which will present to non-residents the many advantages of this city over all others for home life should be encouraged. Titles to property in this city are practically indisputable, and a case involving the question of title in our courts is a rarity. This enhances the investment value and is worthy of consideration under all circumstances.

The building laws should be made to apply to plumbing material as well as the workmanship of plumbers, for buyers have learned to discount the cost of new plumbing from the purchasing price of homes, as the material in many instances is regarded as worthless. Sanitary plumbing, based upon the cheapest and poorest apology for material, is but a travesty upon common sense, and the troubles it causes unfortunate purchasers are almost endless.

There is some demand for manufacturing sites, but these are mainly for adjoining properties to extensive plants and are valued for extensions.

It is extremely gratifying to be able to report a decided increase in both the number of industrials and their cost this year compared with those erected during the first six months of last year.

There are 11 more and the investment is $635,300 greater. Warehouses are 8 against 4 last year and the cost is $124,000 greater. Factories are 1 less, but the cost of the 25 is $379,200 more than that of the 26 erected last year. Engine and boiler houses are 1 more, but the investment is $30,000 greater. Breweries and bottling houses are 3, while our last report gave none; the cost of the 3 erected this year is $32,600. Foundries the record of last year by 5 and the investment is $148,800 greater. Stores (not stores and dwellings) are the same in number, yet the cost this year is $73,000 less than the cost of those erected last year.

It will be noticed that there are 13 four-story dwellings this year, costing $142,000. This is an increase of 3 and $84,000 increase over last year.

The three school houses this year cost $100,000. Last report gave but 2, costing $140,535.

There are 36 stables this year against 37 for last year, but the handsome increase of $104,700 in the cost of those built this year is a considerable item in the total investment. The figures for this year's stables are the actual cost.

One more church building, but the cost of those erected is $130,200 greater.

Miscellaneous buildings are 27 against 33 last year, and the investment is smaller by $123,175.

There is a wide difference between this year's transfers of real estate and the sales of property at auction when comparisons are made with our July report of last year. In number they are 477 less, while in value a decrease of $10,091,578.82 is shown, while auction sales this year amount in the value of the property sold to $10,611.55 less than that of last year.

The following table of transfers will afford comparisons. They are for the first six months of each year, as follows:

Transfers.	Value.
1880—$160.....	42,083,784.01
1891—7416.....	38,947,091.71
1892—6864.....	1,093,063.08
1893—6882.....	40,384,104.36
1894—6187.....	31,381,253.02
1895—6274.....	42,040,081.05
1896—7350.....	41,768,126.75
1897—6508.....	41,465,275.42
1899—6065.....	32,308,875.92

The mortgage incumbrance on the transfers is $12,284,828.06, or 38 per cent. In 1898 it was 36.8 per cent; 1897, 39 per cent; 1896, 34.5 per cent; 1895, 30 per cent; 1894, 27.3 per cent; 1893, 22.1 per cent; 1892, 70 per cent; 1891, 23 per cent; 1890, 20.5 per cent; 1889, 21.4 per cent; 1888, 19.2 per cent.

The ground rents amount to $318,102.96; this shows that on a six per cent basis the properties transferred bear a further incumbrance of $6,801,716.00.

Expectations, in the way of contract work, have not been realized, and, while the architects have a fair amount of work in hand, there is much disappointment as to results thus far. The consensus of opinion, however, among both architects and builders, is that a tendency towards a gradual increase in the volume of new and important work is already apparent; in fact a large number of new buildings, plans for which are made, or only partially made, are held in abeyance. That the hardening of the prices of building material has much to do with this there is no doubt. An advance of pig iron of 100 per cent. (and Bessemer pig sold at Pittsburgh on June 27th last at $37.75 per ton), indicates the situation in a nutshell. It is truly a serious question with those contemplating the erection of large buildings whether to go on at present prices or await a consideration reaction, which, from present indications, is not likely to happen.

There seems to exist an increased estimate as to the future value of vacant land, both in the city and suburbs, and pieces are being picked up, not because they are needed for building purposes, but because they possess a speculative value.

Preferences are openly expressed in favor of land, even against well built and well rented houses in desirable localities. The vagaries of the crop reports, while interesting to follow as an example of the wonderful nature of those who seek to work upon the credulity of those owning railroad stocks, have little effect upon the business of the country; for a failure or a success is the last thing thought of, and the superabundance of both grain and cotton is always forthcoming when wanted.

The following table shows the building operations for the first six months of 1898. It is important to make comparisons:

Harry T. Saunders has submitted plans to the Building Inspectors for alterations to the Barnes & Erb Laundry, Thirty-eighth and Lancaster avenues, 32 feet front and 200 feet deep, together with additional floor space and improve its to their old buildings.

John A. McCuen has made contracts for thirteen dwellings in the vicinity of Fifty-ninth and Race streets, to cost about $1800 each. Nine are to be erected on Race street, between Wanamaker and Hobart streets, and the four on Race street, just east of Fifty-ninth.

Wendell & Smith have given the contract to erect a dwelling, to cost $7000, to Milton W. Young, at the northwest side of Pelham road, north of Quincy street, Germantown. The house will be 39½ x 52½ feet in dimensions, and three stories high. Previously noted.

Harry B. Shoemaker & Co. have a contract to build an addition, five stories high, and 26x36 feet in dimensions, in the rear of No. 114 Market street, fronting on Leifolia street for the Cokes Candy Company. This work will be begun at once, and will cost about $3400.

Jacob Myers & Sons, Juniper and Sansom streets, are asking bids for erecting a two-story-and-attic frame residence, 63.9 x 52.10 feet, for Mrs. A. Loudon Snowden, at Haverford. The plans are by a New York firm of architects. They also want estimates for repairing the fire-damaged building, No. 1108 Columbia avenue.

Collorn & Anderson will begin work at once on the construction of a cloth mill for J. & J. Dobson, at the northeast corner of Stenton avenue and Godfrey street, to cost $12,000. The structure will be of brick, three stories, the columns and girders to be of yellow pine. The building will have a frontage of 125 feet by 55 feet deep.

B. Ketcham's Sons have a contract to make extensive interior alterations to Nos. 814 and 816 Marke street, consisting of the removal of party walls, etc. This work is done under contract with the Pennsylvania Life and Trust Company and William Weightman, and, when completed, the buildings will be occupied by Gimbel Brothers. The work will cost abt. $35,000.

John W. Fritzingher has a contract to build, for R. B. Wallace, a two-story stone dwelling, 34x34 feet, at the southeast corner Ridge avenue and Martin street; also to build for Charles Klaunder two three-story brick dwellings, each 16x40 feet, on the north side of Green lane, west of Webster street. Mr. Fritzingher is also to make extensive alterations to the Roxborough Poorhouse.

Plans have been filed with the Bureau of Building Inspection for a large addition to be made on the irregularly shaped lot, at Belmont and Lancaster avenues, for William Powers. The new building is to be three stories high, and will have frontages on all four streets, ranging from 25 to 38 feet on each. It is to be devoted to store and lodge room purposes. James C. Ferrald, architect, 4303 Fairmount avenue, made the drawings.

Stacy Reeves & Sons have filed plans for interior alterations and a back building addition to the residence of Hampton L. Carson, at 1033 Spruce street. The back building will be four stories, 18x55 feet. The basement floor will contain men's dressing room, servant's dining room, kitchen and laundry; the first floor a lavatory, breakfast room, pantry and dining room; second floor, bath and bedrooms, third floor, bath rooms, sewing room and print-room; fourth floor, five bedrooms, and a trunk room.

Permits were taken out in Camden by the New York Ship Building Company for the erection of nine buildings on the ground recently secured by them for a new plant in that city. The buildings aggregate 2949 feet—over half a mile—in length and 1170 feet in width. They will be begun as soon as possible, and will all be constructed of brick and iron. The three largest are of the following dimensions: 90 x 412, 567 x 156 and 557 x 184 feet. The erection of a high fence around the extensive grounds was begun.

The Secretary of the Treasury opened bids last week on the New York Custom House property, of which there were three. He awarded the property to the National City Bank, of New York, on its bid of $3,265,000, this being the highest proposal made. The bid of the City Bank was made in the name of its President, James Stillwell, who was present. He enclosed a check for $15,000 as part payment, and stated in his letter of transmittal that he preferred paying a large portion of the purchase price in cash.

William Steele & Sons, 506 Walnut street, have been awarded the contract for the erection of three buildings to be used for manufacturing purposes by the American Puller Company, at a cost of $42,000. The site is located at the northeast corner of Twenty-ninth and Bristol streets. Each building will be constructed of steel columns, steel trusses, brick curtain walls thirteen inches thick, slag roof and mostly incombustible flooring. The dimensions are 50 x 60 feet; 150 x 150 feet and 100 x 150 feet, to be of one story each. The work has been started.

A report from the jury of award for the condemnation of property for Hancock Square brings the cost of this piece of ground up to over $140,000. The square is bounded by Hancock, Jefferson Master and Mascher streets and measures 400 feet in length by 160 feet. A little over one-half of the site was secured several years ago. There were also awards made to twenty-three tenants, but the city solicitor has entered an objection to them. The cost of the site is merely for the land. Many thousands of dollars will be necessary to put it into proper condition, for which there is no provision at present.

James J. Harnett, North Penn Plumbing Works, 2340 North Twenty-ninth street, has the contracts for all the plumbing work on the following:—23 three-story dwellings at Fifteenth and Glenwood avenue, for Wm. G. Serrill; 30 three-story dwellings at Twenty-fifth and Diamond streets, for same party; 23 two-story dwellings for J. L. Michelsen & Son, at Fifty-second and Westminster avenue; 60 two-story dwellings at Fifty-third and Parkside avenue, for Col. Wm. G. Price; 40 two-and-three-story dwellings, for T. P. Twibill, at Thirty-third and Ridge avenue; 29 two-and-three-story dwellings, for J. M. Holmes, at Thirtieth street, Cumberland and Huntingdon streets.

The Greatest Man On Earth

As well as the smallest mental and physical midget fully understands that the Roof of a House is only second in importance to the foundation. A Durable and Reliable Roof can only be obtained by use of good material and careful workmanship.

T. S. JOHNSON, Roofer

16 North Seventh Street, - Philadelphia.

Will give you an estimate, stipulating the quality of the roofing to be used, the workmanship to be first-class and the durability of the roof to be guaranteed. Particular attention given to repairing, and positively no deception either in old or new work.

You pay the Premium! We pay the Loss!! No possible litigation after you are dead!!!
On and after March 8, 1899, all policies issued by the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company bear this endorsement:

"This policy is absolutely incontestable from date of issue for any cause, except non-payment of premium, anything in this contract to the contrary notwithstanding."

No increase in premiums! No reduction in privileges! Cash or loan values, paid-up or extended insurance in event of lapse, everything guaranteed. For full information concerning the safest—the most liberal—the best forms of Life Insurance policies issued by any company in the world, write or apply to Penn Mutual Life, 921-3-5 Chestnut Street.

Architect Notes.

The contract for rebuilding the morocco factory of Charles J. Matthews, of Third and Willow streets, which was destroyed by fire some time ago, has been awarded to Contractor J. F. McCloskey. The work will cost about $5000. Architects Hales & Ballinger made the plans.

Architects Cope and Stewardson, 320 Walnut street, have completed plans for the large City Hall building, to be erected at Atlantic City, N. J., for the City Hall Commission. The drawings show a four story building, of granite, stone and steel frame, with a tower 150 feet high, containing every modern improvement in heating, lighting and ventilation. It is to be located at Tennessee and Atlantic avenues, and in the rear a new jail and police and patrol station will be constructed.

Architect Mantle Fielding 110 South Fourth street, has made plans for alterations and additions to be made at the residence of C. H. Clark, Jr., at 4200 Spruce street, consisting of the addition of a brick building, new plumbing and heating, and interior cabinet work. He also has made drawings for alterations and additions to a house on Church lane, Germantown, for Charles E. Morgan, Jr., and for a stable to be erected at Chestnut Hill, for Samuel Welsh. Contractors are now estimating on the above-mentioned work.

Thomas Bennett, architect and engineer 1023 Walnut street, is engaged on plans for a ten-story apartment house, to be erected in this city, location and owner's name withheld for the present. The structure will be of granite and Roman brick, fire proof interior, three elevators, electric work, steam heat, mosaic and marble work, forty-eight bath rooms, specially fitted with all late sanitary plumbing, etc. Also plans for a large operation of dwellings to be erected in Washington, D. C. Details noted later on.

Ex-Representative Hicks, of the Altoona dis riot was at the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., on the 10th inst., and had a conference with Secretary Gage and the Treasury officials concerning the public building at Altoona. The site recommended by Mr. Hicks has been accepted, and immediate steps will be taken to commence the construction of the new building. The architects of the Treasury Department at Washington, D. C., are engaged in preparing the plans, and the contract for the excavation and stone work will be advertised at an early day.

Architect Addison Hutton, 400 Chestnut street, has finished plans and is taking estimates for alterations and improvements to be made at Blair Hall, of the Blair Presbyterian Academy, at Blairstown, N. J. The work will consist of the construction of a fourth story interior alterations and a new roof on the centre building. The specifications provide for water pipes and fixtures and interior joining work in the basement, second, third and fourth floors of the hall. The lockers in the basement, dormer window, skylights, sashes, hinges, locks, bolts, transoms, lifters, window casings, trims in the second and third floors, new work in the first story and painting and glazing will not be estimated on at present.

Doyle & Doak, contractors, 1509 Sansom street, have the contract to rebuild the house of Hon. Wm. M. Bunn, 1718 Walnut street, and which have been fully noted in this journal previously. Plans by William J. Macauley, architect, 1539 Chestnut street. The same architect has on boards plans for improvement of the factory building, at Twenty-first street and Glenwood avenue, for the Commonwealth Trust Company, as owners. These include a three story addition, 50 x 55 feet, with basement, brick, stone and slow burning construction, with steam heat and power and electric work, elevator lift, and general conveniences, etc.

Walter Smedley, architect, Stephen Girard Building, has placed the drawings on board of contractors for estimate, the drawings for alteration and additions to the new Foulke-Long Institute building, at Langhorne, Pa. The plans show a three story structure, 72x52 feet, connected with the former hotel by a covered porch. The basement and first floor of the new building will be of stone, and the second and third stories of shingle, with granite and flagstone trimmings. Interior will contain all the latest and best comforts for the care of children and general convenience of those in charge. Stacey Reeves & Sons, 1811 Filbert street, are figuring. Previously noted in fine.

The plans submitted on the 11th inst., to Commissioner Thomas J. Brady, president of the Board of Buildings, by the officials of the New York Central Railroad, contemplate an entire remodeling of the interior construction of the famous Terminal. Chief Engineer W. T. Wilgis and Architect Samuel Huckel, Jr., of Philadelphia, will make plans for in an associate capacity, the improvements about to be made. The main building will be extended on the Vanderbilt avenue and Depue place side and the annex shed will be raised three stories. This section will be roofed over with trusses, so as to make one grand shed. The cost of the whole work will probably exceed one-half million dollars. When finished it will be the finest and most practicable structure of its kind in the world. The work will be begun at once.

Contractors have been given plans for estimates for constructing three modern public schoolhouses for the city. They will be built of stone, granite, brick and steel, with steel ceilings, electric work, etc., and will be located as follows: North side of Thompson street, extending from Thirteenth street to Park avenue, 124.2x120 feet; at the southeast corner of Twelfth street and Allegheny avenue, 164x52 feet, and on Frankford avenue, from Rush street to Somerset, 124.2x185 feet. A two story addition, 27x67 feet, will also be built at the Bartram school, at Greenway and Cemetery avenues. The drawings are by Architect Joseph W. Anshutz and the buildings will be erected under his supervision. Mr. Anshutz has on boards other detail plans for schools to be erected under provision of the loan bill, as well as the drawings for alterations and additions to others in different parts of the city.

Bethany Presbyterian Church, at Twenty-second and Bainbridge streets, is to undergo entire remodeling throughout the interior, and plans are now being made by Mr. Thomas P. Lonsdale architect, Manhattan Life Building, Fourth and Walnut streets. The work will include new clere-story style of roof, new galleries, flooring and seating, decorations and upholstery, tile and mosaic work, plate and leaded glasswork, steam heat work, plumbing and ventilation upon sanitary principles; also, rearrangement of many of the departments and rooms for the work of the Church; also much detail work not yet considered. The drawings are being pushed to completion, and the work will be undertaken as soon as John Wanamaker shall have returned from his European trip, which is expected next month. Mr. Lonsdale will at an early day, prepare plans for a memorial church, to be erected at Twenty-eighth and Morris streets, the general details of which will be announced in these columns when completed.

Robeson Lea Perot, A. chitect, 619 Philadelphia Bourse, has awarded the contract to erect a residence on Wissahickon avenue near Clapier street, Germantown to Messrs. Mowbray Brothers, of Philadelphia. This will be three stories high, of brick, pebble dashed, shingle roof, and will include hot air heating, best plumbing, open fireplaces, mantels, gas fixtures, electric lighting and bell work, tile work grading and walks, plate glass, leaded and stained glass—first class hardware, hardwood finish and floors, etc., and will be complete in all respects. Plans by same architect for extensive alterations and additions to farm house near Greenville, Del., have been prepared and are now being submitted for estimates. Alterations and additions to district school building, near Mintons, Delaware, including enlargement to present building, and addition of another story, shingle roof, mill work, painting, plastering, heating, etc., will be required in this work also. Contract lately awarded to I. M. Smyth, of Delaware, for erection of a gate-keeper's lodge, near Greenville, Del. Previously mentioned. Also, plans for proposed new Baptist Church, in this city. Name and location withheld at present.

Without Labor, What?

Did you ever give a thought to the fact that labor is the all in all of everything tangible?

The grandest structure on the earth, typifying in the highest possible degree, man's mental genius and mechanical skill, enchanting the eye and pleasing to the senses, is simply a monument to labor in a concise form.

Reason as you please, you have only to relegate the material back to nature to furnish the answer.

As an example, take the Fidelity Insurance Company's massive building, on Broad street above Arch—and we use it as an illustration, because every ounce of its hardware was made by us—relegate the beautiful woods back to the forest; the marble to the quarry; the massive iron girders as well as our own handsome hardware back to the ore in the earth, wherein it had rested for ages, and so on until you have transformed every article or thing used in its construction back to its primitive or natural condition, and what have you? Without labor what can be made of them?

Now our point is in the fact, that, while nature contributes the basic material, on which the meritorious goodness and enchanting beauty of the hardware is founded, it is the genius skill and careful labor of our trained and experienced workmen, that makes it worthy of confidence and preference over all other makes.

Isn't this evolution in the highest possible degree? If not, why not?

Buy it! Try it! and you will want no other.

In addition to the above there is a tax on horses and cattle valued at $117,180, and money

Our Exports.

Manufacturers are now forming more than one-third of our total domestic exports. During the last month they were 33.77 per cent.
of the total domestic exports, during the three months ending with May they were 35.50 per cent., and during the fiscal year just ending they will form a larger percentage of our total domestic exports than in any preceding year. And exceed by many millions the total exports of manufacturers in any preceding year. The fiscal year 1898 showed the largest exports of manufacturers in our history, $290,997,354, and in the eleven months of the fiscal year 1899 the increase over the corresponding months of the preceding year has been $45,164,000, so that it is now apparent that the exports of manufacturers in the fiscal year now ending will be about $333,000,000, as against the high water mark $290,997,354 in the fiscal year 1898.

Iron and steel continue to form the most important or at least by far the largest item of value in the exports of manufacturers. In the month of May, 1899, the exports of iron and steel, and manufacturers thereof amounted to $8,601,114, making the total for the eleven months, $84,873,842, against $63,- 235,029 in the corresponding months of last year, a gain in the eleven months of over $21,- 600,000. The recent advances in prices of iron and steel caused the belief that a reduction in the exports of iron and steel would follow, but certainly this has not been realized up to the present time, since the exportations of iron and steel in the month of May are 20 per cent. in excess of those of May of last year, while those of April are nearly 50 per cent. in excess of April, 1898.—"Architecture

Chief Brooks, of the Bureau of Highways, has awarded contracts for paving twenty-five streets with vitrified brick and eight streets with Belgian blocks. These awards were made under the ordinance of April 1, 1899, and it will involve an expenditure of about $75,000. The major portion of the vitrified brick work was awarded to Aaron Neill, and some to Edward T. Bennis. The prices for this work range from $1.35 to $1.39 a square yard. The contract for the Belgian block work was given to Thomas Cunningham. His bid was $2.45 a square yard.

Work will soon be begun on the great $500,000 Smith Memorial, on the concourse, near Memorial Hall, in West Park, and the foundations will be completed and ready for the superstructure by next fall. A fac-simile in staff of one half the memorial is being erected by Doyle & Dock, and will be used as a guide for the work on the memorial itself. The contracts for the granite work on the memorial have been awarded to Hugh Copeland & Sons, and to the Maine and New Hampshire Granite Company, the total cost amounting to about $350,000.

Contractors Ryan & Kelley, 8 South Broad str et, of this city, have been awarded the contract for the erection of a bridge across Newtown creek, grading and excavating along the line of the Camden Gloucester and Mt. Ephraim Railroad. This work is being done by the Philadelphia and Reading Railway for the New York Shipbuilding Company. The same contractors have plans on the boards for a boiler and power house to be erected at Baltimore, Md., for the United Railway and Electric Company. Architects Baldwin & Pennington made the drawings.

Mrs. Adelaide K. Bispham has accepted plans drawn by Frank Miles Day & Bro., architects, 925 and 927 Chestnut street, for extensive exterior and interior alterations and additions to her residence, No. 1508 Walnut street. These plans have been approved by the Bureau of Building Inspection, and a permit for the work granted to Thomas M. Seeds, Jr., who secured the contract at a figure said to be in the neighborhood of $25,000. The house when completed will be practically fireproof, the new work, including the front, to be of modern skeleton steel construction. Previously noted.

In a short time work will be commenced on the erection of 140 houses in the Twenty-eighth ward. They will be erected by Builders Bowman S. Sterling, 318 Market street, and Joshua M. Holmes, 1233 Girard avenue, who have erected quite a number of houses in that ward. Mr. Sterling's operation will consist of seventy houses to be erected on the east and west sides of Newkirk street, between Cumberland and Huntingdon streets, and Mr. Holmes' seventy houses will be put up on the east and west sides of Dover street, between the same thoroughfares.

Contractors A. D. Spencer & Co. have been awarded contracts for painting the following new work: National Biscuit Company's building, Park and Glenwood avenues; addition to the Parkside Apartment House, Forlieth street and Girard avenue; Philadelphia bakery, 1437 and 1439 North Twelfth street; Seller's machine shop addition, Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue; Union Presbyterian Church, Sixty-sixth street and Woodland avenue, and the addition to Mr. Sparks' residence, 4100 Walnut street. This work was fully noted in this column when permits were granted by the Bureau of Building Inspection.

The trustees of Bethany College, one of the most important adjuncts to Bethany Presbyterian Church, have been quietly acquiring properties in the block bounded by Twenty-third, Twenty-fourth, Walnut and Locust streets, and it is now announced that practically all needed have been secured. The latest property secured is the Stratford stables, at No. 214 South Twenty-third street. For some time past the present quarters of the college, at the northeast corner of Twenty-second and Pine streets, has been considered too small, and the new purchases are understood to be for the purpose of making enlargements. No plans have yet been made for the new buildings, but it is hoped that work may be started next year.

Owner W. S. Kimball will build two four-story houses, to cost $16,000 at 4232 and 4234 Spruce street, similar to the houses which he has erected in that locality in the past. These houses will each measure 20.4 x 62 feet, and they will be built on lots measuring 24.8 x 120 feet. Each house will contain a vestibule, hall, parlor reception hall, dining-room, pantry, kitchen and laundry on the first floor, sitting-room, bath and two bedrooms on the second floor and three bedrooms, bath room, store room and servants' room on the third floor. There will be porches and copper bay windows on the second and third floors, and the residences will be heated by hot air, be fitted up with hard woods, tile work, etc., and have slate mansard roofs.

Upon a visit to the United States Navy Yard, at League Island, we find active preparations being made for the general improvement of this great naval depot, and for the contemplated erection of a commandant's office, which we previously noted. Dredging and grading is being done previous to the erection of a wall around the reserve basin, to be constructed; a new railroad, to be laid around the entire island, to connect with main commercial lines; also, new officers' quarters, to be erected on the river front; this and other detail work is being carried on under the new appropriations, which have become available on July 1st of current year, which means an expenditure of more than $800,000. Contractors and material men can best analyze just what may be needed for this great work.

Mr. W. J. Gilmore, manager of the Auditorium, said last week that the Auditorium had not been sold to a syndicate, as has been published, but that negotiations for the sale of the theatre were on foot. "I have been negotiating with a company wanting to purchase the theatre for more than one year. The trouble has been the State law of Pennsylvania, which provides that a corporation shall not run a theatre. It was our purpose to have this law amended last winter, but the Legislature had so much on its hands that we could not gain its attention." Mr. Gilmore stated that the price to be paid for the Auditorium, in case the deal went through, was about $350,000. Should the deal go through, it is proposed to purchase the old Traction power house, to the west of the Auditorium, and to erect an addition to the present theatre building. The present stage would probably be enlarged, and a concert hall and roof garden are under consideration. All this, however, is still in embryo, and nothing definite, according to Mr. Gilmore, has been decided upon.

The official apportionment of the $5,600,000, recently borrowed on account of the $11,200,000 loan, has been sent to Controller Walton by Mayor Ashbridge. In making the apportionment the Mayor selected those items which he considered most necessary to the city's progress and welfare. The improvements contemplated in the loan bill, which are permitted to entirely hold over until the second half of the $11,200,000 loan is negotiated, include the building of an art gallery for $200,000, the purchase of a free library site and building, $1,000,000; the building of a new almshouse $200,000, and extensions to Fairmount Park, $100,000. Now available: For completion of Boys' High School, $900,000; for building main sewers, $300,000; for abolition of the grade crossings on the line of Philadelphia and Trenton railroad, $900,000; for equipment and building of Philadelphia Museum, $200,000; for the extension, improvement and filtration of the water supply, $1,500,000; for repaving of streets, tramway streets, intersections and underground work incident thereto $400,000; for building bridges, $200,000; for the improvements of public parks or squares, $50,000; for the purchase of ground and building of fire and police stations, and electrical underground construction, $300,000; for grading and repairs to paved streets, curved curbing, resurfacing asphalt streets, repairs to bridges, and repairs to sidewalks, and repairs to ditches and sluices, $200,000. For repaving with an improved pavement small streets, 40 feet or less in width from house line to house line, and underground work incidental thereto, $650,000; total, $5,600,000.

Architect Notes.

Architects Duhring, Okie & Ziegler will award the contract for a new stage and digging out the cellar at the Chestnut Street Opera House, Chestnut street, below Eleventh, in a few days.

The plans by Architects J. Franklin Stuckert & Son, 49 North Thirteenth street, for alterations to the building adjoining the Twenty-seventh district police station, at Tacony, are on the boards for estimates at the office of Chief Pierle, of the bureau of city property, at City Hall.

With pleasure we note the return from abroad of Mr. Joseph M. Huston, the well-known architect of this city. Mr. Huston has combined pleasure and professional knowledge in his travels, and will at once resume his practice with renewed vigor at his offices in the Witherspoon Building.

Architect Henry J. Crump, 419 Walnut street, is making drawings for the erection of a church and a Sunday-school at Cynwyd. The buildings will be constructed of granite and limestone, and will be one and one-half stories in height. The size of the church will be 45 feet by 80 feet. The cost will be about $16,000.

Architect David B. Provoost, Elizabeth, N. J., is preparing plans for a $300,000 factory building to be erected at that place. It will be 54 x 360 feet, five stories, basement and three wings, steel construction, brick, heavy masonry and three elevators. Bids will be wanted after August 1st until August 20th. Location, Elizabeth, N. J.

The permit for the new front and interior alterations at St. Malachy's Roman Catholic Church, on the east side of Eleventh street, above Master street, has been granted to Contractor Thomas A. Lynch. Architect H. D. Dagitt, 455 Chestnut street, made the plans, and the work was noted in this column some time ago. The estimated cost is $15,000.

John F. Betz, Jr., has awarded the contract for the erection of an ornamental porch on the river side of his road house, 4241 Ridge avenue, to Thomas Gamon. The porch will measure 14 x 48 feet, and be built on a stone foundation, with piers and wooden posts, a tin roof and galvanized iron cornice, according to plans by Architect George Plowman. Previously noted in full.

Architect Albert E. Yarnall, 14 South Broad street, has prepared drawings for a three-story Colonial style house, to measure about 25 x 60 feet, which will be built at Glenside, by William T. B. Roberts. The structure will contain about thirteen rooms. Mr. Yarnall is at work on drawings for alterations and an addition to the residence of Charles Adamson, formerly of this city, but who now resides at Cedar town, Ga.

Edwin F. Bertolette, architect, 1213-15 Filbert street, has given the contract to Jos. M. Rolph, of Germantown, for a three-story addition to the residence of Emily W. Beebe, of that place. Included are all the latest and best comforts and conveniences. Same architect has made plans for a three-story residence, to be built at Phoenixville, Pa., for W. B. Oberholzer. It will be of brick, Colonial in style, located on Main street. Also plans on boards for sanitary and decorative improvements to the Peddie Institute, at Hightstown, N. J.

Architects Hales & Ballinger, 1200 Chestnut street, have finished plans and are ready for estimates on extensive improvements at Hoyle, Harrison & Kaye mill, on Filmore street, between Indiana avenue and Tuscon street. The work will include the construction of a fifth story, 429 feet long and 62.4 feet wide, on the present mill, with a division wall in the centre, and the erection of a five-story office building addition, 60 x 62.4 feet. The addition be properly fitted up and there will be fire sprinklers, etc., and other precautions and conveniences.

Messrs. Bolton & Savage, architects, Witherspoon Building, are engaged on plans for a new Sabbath School addition to the South Presbyterian Church, on Third street, below Federal. The structure will be one story high, of brick and stone, and located on Titan street, south of the church structure. Also, by same architects, plans are being made for extensive interior alteration to the Presbyterian Church at Eighteenth and Arch streets, which will consist chiefly of interior work, new girders, columns, floors, heating, and general overhauling. Other drawings in course of preparation, which will be noted later.

Architects Schermerhorn & Reinhold, 480 Walnut street, have prepared plans and specifications for large Colonial stone house, to be erected at Bala, Pa., for Miss Jane B. Reichner. It will measure 55x67 feet, be three stories high and built of gray granite. The house will contain twenty rooms. The two bath rooms will be tiled and fitted up with improved plumbing. The kitchen and laundry will be fitted up with all conveniences. The house will be heated by hot air (two furnaces), lighted by gas, with an electric gas lighting and burglar alarm system to all windows and doors. Sash to have French plate glass, roof to be slate, cement floor in cellar, leaded glass windows and all modern improvements.

Historic old Chambers-Wylie Presbyterian Church, at the northeast corner of Broad and Sansom streets, is now being stripped of its furnishings and will soon be razed to the ground. The property was recently acquired by Thomas E. Wanamaker, who will have constructed on the site a modern newspaper publication building. He will take formal possession on August 1, and it is expected that the demolition of the building will be begun shortly after. Plans for the new structure are now under way. The proposed structure will, it is said, be six stories high. Architects are making competitive designs for a modern new edifice for the congregations of the Chambers-Wylie Churches.

Plans have been submitted to the bureau of building inspection for approval for the handsome new normal school building, to be erected for the Sisters of St. Joseph, at Mt. St. Joseph, Chestnut Hill. The building will be five stories high, with a basement, and it will have an imposing entrance. The materials to be used in constructing the interior walls are polished granite, Indiana limestone, Bedford, Indiana, dressed stone, and the cornices, roofs and windows and the balconies, extending the entire height of the building in front, will be of copper. The main front vestibule and hall will have marble floors, and the building throughout will be equipped with a tower fire escape and the latest plumbing appliances. E. F. Durang, 1200 Chestnut street, drew the plans. Previously noted in full.

The contract for the erection of a handsome residence at Wissahickon avenue and Clapier street, Germantown, according to drawings by Architect R. L. Perot, 619 Bourse Building, for Nelson Z. Graves, has been awarded to Mowbray Bros. The house will be a three-story colonial style structure, and it will be constructed of brick pebble dash, with stone trimmings. There will be porches on the front, side and rear. The first floor will contain a large hall, with an open stairway, den, parlor, dining room, kitchen, pantry and laundry; second floor, three chambers, hall, dressing room, bath room and a balcony on the front, and an open porch in the rear; third floor, three chambers, hall, store room, linen closet and shelving. All in hardwood and modern comforts.

Alexander H. Engstrom, engineer, 573 Bullitt Building, has made complete plans for a power station and car barn for the Philadelphia, Morton and Swarthmore Street Railway Company, Folson, Delaware county, Pa. The structures are to be of brick, stone and iron construction, one story high, cement work, steam and other appliances will be introduced. Estimates are being taken in office of Wm. R. Dougherty, 1694 Sansom street, and other contractors. Also plans by Furness Evans & Co., architects, for a ventilating plant under sanitary tower of the Jewish Hospital. General mason work, iron and cement work are indicated by drawings. Also in same office are plans for estimate by David Knickerbacker Boyd, architect, Harrison Building, 15th and Market streets, for alterations and additions to property at 36th and Sansom streets. This work is general in character, plate glass work, leaded glass, wood work, masonry, cut stone, etc.

Wharf Rats and Gentlemen

them; they represent the extremes of human nature as well as human possibilities.

Impractical philanthropists argue that this difference is the natural result of environment, and that, under the same conditions, men would be alike as to their social and moral status.

If this assumption is correct, why are not horses alike?
There is little difference as to environments in the early life of horses.

these bring to bear upon their products the in-icible stamp of honest worth and business integrity, an abso-
standard of excellence.

No flattery; no quibbling; nothing for expediency's sake; no hedging or dodging; no flimsy excuse or false subterfuge. No! No! A thousand times no!

These are strong phrases, but every single one of them

of Seventeenth street and Indiana avenue, for John Adams, owner. The estimated cost of the addition is $5000.

The future supply of hard woods for both building and other mechanical purposes will be greatly impaired. The Wisconsin, as well as other hard wood section, have been seriously depleted, and while prices have already advanced, it is probable that higher prices will be reached as a result of scarcity in the market.

The William J. McCahan Sugar Refining Company will commence work at once on the erection of a $4000 boiler-house on the west side of Otsego street, north of Morris street, in the First ward. The building will measure 35x54 feet, and be constructed with iron columns, with roof trusses of wood supported on columns.

Work has been started by Contractor Chas.
J. W. Platt on the erection of a one-story iron pipe building 45x50 feet, to be covered with corrugated iron and have a slag roof, at the southwest corner of Tioga and Carlton streets. The work will be done for J. Wilbur, and the building will be used for grinding paint materials.

W. W. Rea & Son have been awarded the contract for the erection of the Lasher building at the southwest corner Juniper and Cherry streets. The building will be 60x100 feet, eight stories high, with two basements, and it will be of unusually heavy construction, for manufacturing purposes. The estimated cost will be over $10,000.

The partitions and stairway at 1611 Walnut street will be altered, new sliding doors will be laid, and the interior will be newly finished by Contractor William Henderson. Frank Hess owns the property. Mr. Henderson is at work tearing down and he will rebuild the bulging walls at the northeast corner of

Lewis Havens, Girard Buildings, has started to strengthen the floors at 617 Commerce street, for the Girard Trust Company, owner, and to build an extension, 14x114 feet, and put a copper bay to the first story window, at Henry Tatnall's residence, 123 South Forty-first street.

Contractor Lewis Havens will erect a new department building at the corner Appletree and Cherry streets, for the Curtis Publishing Company, at a cost of $125,000. The building will be eight stories high, and measure 140.103 x 51.104 feet. It will be thoroughly fire-proof.
This work was noted some time ago.

Work will be started by Francis Bros. & Jelliet, incorporated, recently, installing a high pressure steam boiler and steam heating plant at the Lucien Moss Memorial Hospital, and a low pressure cast iron boiler and heating system in the green house, for the Jewish Hospital Association, at York and Olney road.

Plans have been submitted to the Bureau of Building Inspection by Contractor Jacob Myers & Sons for a new floor and additional supports to the stage of the Chestnut Street Opera House, 1025 Chestnut street; and by B.
F. Erwin for a four-story factory addition,

Plans are on the boards at Contractor Charles McCaul's office for a power station, car barn, boiler house and engine room, for the Philadelphia, Morton and Southern Street Railway Company, at Folsom, Delaware county; also for sub station No. 3, at the southeast corner of Fifth and Lombard streets, for the Union Traction Company.

Contractor Lewis Havens has started the work on the Curtis Publishing Company's new printing house, to be built at 421 Cherry street, to cost $125,000, previously noted, and also altering ten windows from circular to square head windows at the Drexel Building, at the southeast corner of Fifth and Chestnut streets. This work will cost $3000.

Plans are on the boards at William R. Dougherty's office for new schoolhouses to be built on the north side of Thompson street, between Thirteenth street and Park avenue, and on the southeast side of Frankford avenue, between Somerset and Rush streets, and a four-room addition to the Bartram School, at Greenway and Cemetery avenues.

Contractor James H. Boone has a contract for the erection of a $12,000 two-and-a-half-story cut Indiana limestone stable, at Roxborough, for J. H. Dearnley. The stable will measure 95.4 x 51.10 feet, and it will contain eleven stalls, three box stalls, carriage room and harness closet on the first floor, and a hay and two rooms for help on the second floor.

James Kinners' Sons have the contract for a $6500 frame dwelling, to be two stories high and measure 32x66 feet, for Russell Thayer. The house will be built on Sunset avenue, west of the Reading pike. It will contain a living room, dining-room, hall, pantry and kitchen on the first floor, and three chambers and two servants' rooms on the second floor.

It is reported that the Pennsylvania R. R. Company will expend about $500,000 for grading and masonry work on 70 miles of its Western Division, this, together with bridge work, track laying, ballasting and culverts for double track system, will make the entire cost about $1,000,000. Thos. Rodd, chief engineer, Pittsburg, has the work in charge.

It is current in Baltimore that Harrisburg real estate parties, E. R. Sponsler & J. Mosser, representing Philadelphia and Baltimore capital, have bought 1773 acres near Baltimore, at a cost of $619,300, for town purposes. The tract will be cut up, graded, streets opened and paved, and a large number of modern houses built from plans by a Philadelphia architect.

George F. Payne & Co. have commenced work on alterations at the Union Traction Company's car barn, at the southeast corner of Forty-second and Chestnut streets. The work will consist of changing the roof and floor construction by the introduction of trusses. Same contractor will remodel the property at the southeast corner of Thirteenth and Chestnut streets, throughout, adding new stories, elevators, steam heat, new office rooms, stairways, electric work and ornamentation, and all general conveniences, etc.

Plans have been made for the new stone church, to be erected at Kensington avenue and Venango street, for the congregation of the Third Moravian Church. The drawings were made by Architect J. Cather Newsom, 1001 Chestnut street, and they show a handsome two-story edifice. There will be lobbies on either side of the alcove on the first floor, and a library closet, Sunday-school room, three class rooms, infants' class room and kitchen. There will be an alcove, and above, a main auditorium, 32x69 feet, a choir loft, organ and study on the second floor.

George F. Payne & Co., 401 E. Juniper street, will erect a new factory for the Charles Scott Spring Works, whose plant at Germantown avenue and Newmarket street was burned out several months ago. The new building is irregular in shape, and will have a frontage of 185 feet on Newmarket street, 130 feet on Germantown avenue, 285 feet on Hancock street, and 159 feet on the rear end. Wilson Bros. & Co., architects, Drexel Building, draw the plans. Work will be started as soon as the permit is granted. The cost of construction will be about $56,000.

Contractors J. E. & A. L. Pennock, 305 Walnut street, who were awarded the contract some time ago for the erection of the $50,000 combination police station, patrol and fire house, at the northwest corner of Seventh and Carpenter streets, have taken out a permit for the work. The police station will measure 70.2 x 58 feet, and the patrol and fire house 48 x 69 feet, and the buildings will be three stories high. Architects Hazlehurst & Huckel made the plans, and the work was fully described in these columns when the drawings were put out for estimates.

The contract for about $250,000 worth of improvements for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, at Baltimore, Md., for the convenience of the Northern Central Railroad Company, has been awarded to Roydhouse, Arty & Co., of this city. The work will include the erection of a four-story steel and brick warehouse, 300x100 feet. It will be built on pile foundations. The wharf improvements to be made will bring the cost up to the amount stated above. The warehouse will be erected at Bond and Thames streets. Architect William H. Barnes made the plans.

The work of restoring St. John's Roman Catholic Church, Thirteenth street, below Market, which was damaged by fire some time ago, has been started by Contractor C. Klej. The interior will be remodeled, new iron columns and beams will be put in place, a new stairway and stone windows will be built, and new plumbing, tile and millwork will be installed. The church will have a new slate roof, and a steam heating apparatus will be put in. The work will cost $50,000. Architect Frank R. Watson made the plans. Previously noted in full in these columns.

Improvements to cost upwards of $8,000,000 are suggested for the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Captain Chadwick's report includes a number of piers 400 feet long. These are evidently for the vessels out of commission. It would seem from this that the United States Government will ignore the advantages of the fresh water facilities of our own League Island Navy Yard. Iron boats laid up at League Island for 30 years and found fit for active service when the emergency needed them is a non-important factor in political economy as against political influence and the pull of the New York coterie.

Extensive improvements, to cost $3000, are being made at C. E. Morgan's residence, on the north side of Church lane, near Cedar lane, Twenty-second ward, by Contractor William J. Gruhler. The work will be done according to drawings made by Architect M. F. Fielding, and it will consist of two-story stone extension and interior alterations. Same contractor has the contract for alterations and a three-story rear addition at C. H. Clark, Jr.'s, residence, 438 Spruce street, to cost $8000. The work will include a new brick bay window, interior alterations and new interior wood work.

Builder John J. Brown, of Germantown, started to build four three-story pebble-dashed houses, with stone trimmings, porches and bay windows on the east side of Underhill street, 145 feet south of Chelton avenue, for David McMahon, owner. The houses will each measure 20x64 feet, and each will contain a parlor, large hall, with an open stairway, dining-room, kitchen, and laundry on the first floor; three chambers, hall and bath room on the second floor, and two chambers, hall and store room on the third floor. The structures will be fitted up with hard woods, tile work, electric work, etc., and the estimated cost is $16,000.

The much talked over new iron bridge, at Manayunk, for the benefit of Lower Merion Township as well as the residents of this place, will probably be built. Mr. Geo. W. Hancock, the civil engineer and real estate expert, at Fortieth and Lancaster avenue, West Philadelphia, at a recent session of the jury appointed to report upon the question of the new bridge and the valuation of Lighter's Ferry and West river roads, estimated the cost of the bridge at between $70,000 and $80,000. He demonstrated that it could be constructed without difficulty from a bluff in West Laurel Cemetery to a point in Main street, near Osborne. The grade would be about four per cent, and the bridge would be 250 feet long. The jury will hold its final meeting on September 25th.

William B. Lawall has let a contract to Builder J. Kenton White for the erection of a handsome $10,000 stone residence at the southeast corner of Sixty-ninth street and Lawnton avenue, Oak Lane. The house will measure 48x68 feet, and it will be built on a lot measuring 120x175 feet. It will have piazzas on the front and sides, and a peaked slate roof. The drawings show a library, dining-room, large hall, parlor, pantry, kitchen and laundry on the first floor; four chambers on the second floor, four chambers, card room, bath room and hall on the third floor. The house will be fitted up with hard woods, tile work, electric and gas lighting and hot-air heating. The sides and walls of the bath rooms will be tiled, and the plumbing will be of the most improved pattern.

The heads of the different municipal departments and bureaus are busily engaged in considering and preparing their estimates of expense for maintaining the same during next year. These will be submitted to the City Controller to be incorporated in his annual report to Councils, upon which the tax rate for 1900 will be based. Mayor Ashbridge, Director Haddock, Assistant Director Quirk, and Chief Brooke, of the Bureau of Highways, held a conference at the former official's office last week considering the estimates of the various bureaus in the Department of Public Works. The principal estimate considered was the Bureau of Highways, owing to the large amount of work that is being performed this year and will extend over until the latter part of 1900, under the big loan bills, it is not likely that much money will be asked for this character of work.

Four storage battery plants are about to be installed by the Union Traction Company to absorb the excess of electric power during those hours of the day when traffic is light, in order to distribute it again when traffic is heavy. The new storage plants will be located as follows: Fifth and Lombard streets, Germantown avenue, near Erie street; Thirty-second and Dauphin streets; Ninth street, above Dauphin. The structures will be two stories in height, and will be of brick, with terra cotta and granite trimmings. The largest plant, which will be at Fifth and Lombard streets, will have a storage battery of 250 large cells, the total capacity of which will be equivalent to 500 horse-power. The Germantown avenue plant will be nearly as large, and the other two of about three-fifths the capacity. The new storage plants will furnish needed links between the power houses.

Chester, Pa., is about to have a new industry added to its Delaware river front enterprises. A company has been organized for the purpose of manufacturing iron and steel that will employ over 600 men, and that will be backed by capital to the extent of about half a million dollars. Application has been made for a charter to Harrisburg, through John G. Johnson and Francis F. Pritchard, of Philadelphia, who are the attorneys. The present incorporators of the concern are Captain W. S. McManus, Lawrence W. Tucker, Joseph M. Bell, John A. Hook, and John M. Callanan, but it is said a number of prominent New York and Philadelphia capitalists are behind the gentlemen, and will give the enterprise financial support and business influence. The works will be located on the river front at the foot of Harwick street, where the necessary buildings and machinery will be erected as soon as the necessary arrangements can be completed. Engineers are now at work preparing plans and details.

Christ Church congregation at Sixth and Ritner streets, Rev. Jarvis Worden, rector in charge, intend to erect at an early day a parish building on the lot at that point of 185x65 feet, which has been secured, and on which it is ultimately the object to place a handsome church edifice. All that is now sought is funds sufficient to rear a parish building, which can be done for $5000, a very considerable portion of which has already been secured. This building will be 40x66 feet, constructed of stone, and two stories in height, with a basement. On the first floor will be the audience room, with accommodation for from 300 to 400 persons. On each side will be vestry rooms and stalls for the choir, with accommodation for thirty. On the second floor will be a reception room, with a seating capacity of 250, and three rooms for a day school. On this floor are also a room for the pastor's study, a reading-room, and library. In the basement will be a well-fitted up gymnasium, baths, and kitchen.

Litigation, growing out of the construction of the new apartment hotel, at Fifteenth and Walnut streets, begun last week when G. Jason Waters, the owner of the building, brought suit in Common Pleas Court No. 2, against the National Surety Company to recover the sum of $84,655.70. It is related that on May 21, 1898, Mr. Waters entered into an agreement with the firm of J. W. Mercier & Co., under which the latter contracted to build the apartment hotel, and have it completed on December 15, 1898. They were unable to finish the building within the required time, but on the day it was to be turned over to its owner they failed in business. The National Surety Company had bound itself jointly with J. W. Mercier & Co., in the sum of $95,000, to guarantee that the terms of the contract would be complied with. After the failure of the contractors Mr. Waters was obliged to undertake the work of finishing the building, which he has now accomplished at the expense of $84,657.70, which amount he sues to recover on the bond.

Councils' Committee on School's and the Board of Education Committee on Property jointly last week opened bids at the latter's rooms, on Filbert street, for the erection of three new schoolhouses, but no awards were made, owing to the fact that the amounts named by even the lowest contractors were in excess of the amount appropriated by Councils. The matter was finally left in the hands of the chairmen of the two committees to adjust. Besides the three new buildings, which are to be located at Frankford avenue and Somerset street, in the Twenty-fifth section; Twelfth and Allegheny avenue, Thirty-seventh section, and Thirtieth and Thompson streets, Twentieth section, bids were received for a four-room addition to the Barm School, Fortieth section, and for repairs to schools in the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Eighth, Twelfth, Thirtieth, Thirty-sixth and Thirty-eighth sections, and the Girls' High School. The summer work was all awarded. The lowest bidders on the erection of the three schools, the limit for which had been placed by Councils at $70,000 each, were: Frankford avenue and Somerset, J. E. & A. L. Pennoek, $73,573; Twelfth and Allegheny avenue, S. Gourley, Jr., $75,325; Thirtieth and Thompson, George W. Pearson, $76,318. The lowest bid on the addition to the Barm School was $11,220.

Bidders must be skilled and regularly engaged in the class of work bid for. Wm C. Haddock, director.

Architect Notes.

David Knickerbacker Boyd, architect, Harrison Building, 15th and Market, has finished the drawings and specifications for one hundred and sixteen houses and four stores, to be erected at Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth and Huntingdon streets, this city, for Horace G. Fetterolf, owner, and H. H. Markley, builder. Estimates are being made in the office of the latter. Twenty houses will be erected on Huntingdon street, and the same number on the north side of Sargent street. These will be built in pairs, 18 feet each, with porch fronts, and at each corner of Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, will be first-class store. There will be eighteen houses, 16 feet each, on the south side of Sargent street; the same number on the north side of Fifth street, and twenty houses, 14 feet each, on the south side of Fifth street, as well as ten houses, 16 feet each, on Twenty-fourth and on Twenty-fifth streets. In style the buildings will resemble the English Domestic, or semi-suburban house, being built of red or brown bricks, and brick gables, terra-cotta and moulded brick copings and cornices, green slate roofs, natural yellow pines, and buff-painted outside woodwork. Each house will contain an open hall with a fireplace, stairway seat, etc., in addition to reception room, dining room, kitchen, sub-kitchen, etc. Many of the houses will have pantries, rear stairs, bay windows, etc., and all will have large front sitting rooms, and an ample number of bed rooms on second story, with large closets, linen closets, etc., and all will be finished in hardwoods throughout. The sidewalks, portions of yards, etc., will be of cement, with sodded yards and sodded spaces in front of houses. All dividing and other fences will be of open iron work. All plumbing work will be modern, mantles, grates, etc., in various rooms. Also finished drawings and specifications, now being estimated on, for a new brown stone (Hummelstown stone) front and interior alterations for the residence of George Zaum, Esq., 1918 Girard avenue. All interior and exterior wood work will be walnut. It will contain a large copper bay window, copper cornice, plate glass throughout, etc.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

As we go to press, the Board of Education have awarded contracts as follows for school buildings in the city: Sherman school, Frankford avenue and Somerset street, Twenty-fifth section, to J. E. and A. L. Pennock, $73,573. Building at Twelfth street, Allegheny and Germantown avenues, Thirty-seventh section, to Samuel Gourley, Jr., $75,325. Building at Thirtieth and Thompson streets, Twentieth section, to G. W. Pierson, $76,318. Addition to Bartram school, Cemetery lane, Fortieth ward, to Samuel Gourley, Jr., $11,320.

Miscellaneous.

At Fern Bank (near Cincinnati, O.), the Addyston pipe and steel foundry plant has been destroyed by fire. Loss, about $75,000.

At Waltham, Mass., the Board of Aldermen, have appropriated $30,000 for a new high school, $10,000 for a new manual training school, $20,000 in addition for new public library. The Mayor will no doubt approve.

There seems to be a boom in the wool industries. The sale of 10,000,000 pounds of this staple product in a single week in Boston, and that, too, on a rising scale of prices, should indicate that the industries in this line are rapidly approaching an era of prosperity.

At Chicago, Ill., Architect F. L. Haney, 115 Monroe street, is at work on plans for a hospital, to be built corner Dearborne and Twenty-fifth street, for the Wesley Hospital Association, six stories and basement. Cost $300,000.—Architect Henry K. Holsman, 152 La Salle street, has made plans for an apartment house at corner Fifty-fifth street, Boulevard and Indiana avenue, for A. V. Mulvey, 310 Ashland Block, owner; cost $75,000. It will be four stories and basement, pressed brick, stone and terra cotta trimmings.

At New York City, Architects Lord, Hennett and Hull have filed plans for a three-story brick and stone office building at the southeast corner of Fifth avenue and Fifth street, to cost $70,000. It will be 100 x 75 feet, and will be erected by the John Jacob Astor estate.—Architects Benson & Brockway, 55 Broadway, have plans for a one-story limestone and terra cotta building at east side of St. Nicholas avenue, north of 155th street, for the Washington Heights Free Circulation Library. It will be 40x93 feet and will cost about $30,000. Mr. E. S. Whitman, 311 W. Seventeenth street, is president of the library company.—Fredk. C. Browne, 148 W. 125th street, is the architect for a six-story brick and stone flat to be built for Sylvester L. Mitchell, owner, 290 Third avenue, at the corner of St.

Nicholas avenue and 113th street. Cost, $150,000.—Ole H. Olson will erect a ten-story brick and stone store and lofts, 25x99 feet, at No. 25 Washington place. Cost, $190,000. John Woolley, architect, Olson's address, 2312 Southern Boulevard.—The Hyne Construction Company, 803 Boulevard, owner, will erect a seven-story brick flat and bachelor apartments, 95x130 feet, on corner Manhattan avenue and 117th street; to cost $250,000. Architects, Neville & Bagge.—Patrick H. Lynch, owner, 118 Convent avenue, will erect a seven-story brick and stone flat, corner Hamilton Place and 142d street; cost $75,000. The owner is the architect.—Hugo F. Hoefler will erect a seven-story brick and stone flat, 95x95 feet, at corner Seventh avenue and 114th street; to cost $250,000. Mr. H. Rahman, 146 W. 23d street, architect.—Daniel Cohen, 54 Thatford avenue, Brooklyn, will erect nine five-story brick flats, 25x88 feet each, at 113th street, 100 feet west of First avenue; cost $225,000. Rudolph Werner architect.—Architects Bruce, Price, Geo. Kramer Thompson and Geo. B. Post are making competitive plans for a new office building, to be erected on Broad, New and Wall streets, for the New York Stock Exchange Building Company, of which Donald Mackay is president.

—The New York Board of Education will erect a public school building on One Hundred and Sixteenth and One Hundred and Seventeenth streets, between Fifth and Lenox avenues. It will be of brick and stone. C. B. J. Snyder, 585 Broadway, architect.—The Edison Electric Light Company, 53 Duane street, President Spencer Frasier will erect four brick stations, one at 32 Horatio street, one at 211 West Eighty-fourth street, one at 128 West One Hundred and Twenty-first street and one at 258 East One Hundred and Twenty-fourth street. Plans by the company's architect.

Frank R. Watson, architect, 1208 Chestnut street, has on boards plans for alterations to the store, 926 Market street, for Henry F. Miller. The work will consist of interior work entirely. Also plans for extension and addition to the Convent of the Holy Child, at Sharon Hill, Pa. The work will be of brick, stone and general interior work which will cover all kinds of labor and material. Each of the above are to be estimated on at once.

Estimates are being taken in the office of Architects Collins & Autenreith, 410 Walnut street, on a new store building, to be erected at 112-14 North Seventh Street, for Henry C. Lea, owner. The structure is to be of brick and stone, store front, plate glass windows, six stories in height. The interior will be iron columns, wood girders and beams, fitted with steam power and heat, elevators, lifts,

E. Congregation of St. John the Divine who owns a lot 150 x 101 feet at that place. Messrs. Nattress & Sons have just completed drawings for a parish building, to be erected at once and will be of brick and stone, and constructed so as to improve with a new front in the future. It will contain class rooms, library, etc.

Frank P. Milburn, architect, Charlotte, N. C., has completed plans for an S. R. Station, to be erected at Richmond Va. It will be a two-story structure of brick, stone and iron, with a slate and Spanish tile roof, tower at one corner, with large clock room, ornamental and plate as well as plain glass windows and doors, iron grille, fancy work, interior to have hardwood finish, electric work, decoration, in work, marble work, concrete and cement work. The minor items are quite elaborate in specifications, which, with the drawings are on boards for estimates in the office of J. E. and A. C. Pennock, 305 Walnut street.

Mr. Guy King, architect, 431 Walnut street, this city, has been retained to prepare plans for a general hospital, to be erected in Matanzas, Cuba, and will in capacity hold about one hundred patients. It will be of stone, one-story high and entirely up-to-date in sanitary arrangements. Mr. King will in person supervise the work of construction, having previously selected the site. Same architect has made plans for a large power house to be erected on Crum Creek, Springfield, Pa., for water company at that place. It will be of stone and furnished with power machinery, etc. Other work in preparation by Mr. King will be noted later in these columns.

The building is to be one-story in height, of Holmesburg granite, with peak stone roof. It will have a width of 80 feet and a depth of 64 feet. The cost is to be $20,000. Field & Medary, architects, 1414 South Penn Square, made the plans which have been fully noted in these columns. It is intended to soon erect a parish house and sabbath school adjoining, at least as soon as the financial condition of the congregation will warrant the endeavor.

Are about as far apart as human agencies can make them; they represent the extremes of human nature as well as human possibilities.

Impractical philanthropists argue that this difference is the natural result of environment, and that, under the same conditions, men would be alike as to their social and moral status.

If this assumption is correct, why are not horses alike? There is little difference as to environments in the early life of horses.

Why are manufacturers not alike? Why do some of these bring to bear upon their products the in ineluctable stamp of honest worth and business integrity, an absolute and conscientious adherence to the highest possible standard of excellence.

No flattery; no quibbling; nothing for expediency's sake; no hedging or dodging; no flimsy excuse or false subterfuge. No! No! No! A thousand times no! Nothing but the best that can be made by mortal man. These are strong phrases, but every single one of them applies to the pre-eminent good

It is simply wonderful what the head work of a single man can accomplish in a short time. It seems but a few weeks ago when we announced that the contract for the Commercial Museum Exposition buildings had been given to Allen B. Rorke, as a fact it was in our issue of March 22d that such an announcement was made. In a little over four months Mr. Rorke has accomplished his task to a degree that, now only a few finishing strokes are necessary and the buildings which Mr. Rorke contracted to erect before August 15th next will be ready for delivery.

To the American such a task as Mr. Rorke has accomplished seems but an every-day event, such is the wonderful resources of our builders and contractors when under the pressure of necessity, but to the European with his slow and plodding methods these little episodes would appear as a nine days' wonder.

The next thing to be heard of will be the advent of the American builder in England or on the Continent as a competitor for the erection of big buildings, and why not? We have at least a dozen builders in Philadelphia to whom the erection of these massive structures in one tenth the time now taken by the foreigners would be but "nuts to crack," not hard ones either.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

It is highly probable that the Lehigh Valley Railway Company will build a branch from Oak Tree, on the main line, to Plainfield, N. J.

Doyle & Doak, 1509 Sansom street, have plans on the boards at their office for alterations at 1714 Spruce street for Mrs. Milne, and alterations and additions at 2102 North Broad street, for W. H. Whitaker.

The Delaware Construction Company, of this city, has taken the contract for the construction of a dry dock, 125 x 680 feet, at Belt and Corp streets, Baltimore, Md., for $300,000.

The big barn on the John C. Lindsay estate near the scene of the Sharpless murder, at Waterville, Delaware county, has been destroyed by fire. Its cost was about $1000. It will be rebuilt. The barn was burned at the time of the murder, no doubt with the view of covering the tracks of the murderer.

A one-story Sunday school building, 26 by 32 feet, will be erected in the rear of the Market Square Presbyterian Church, Germantown. The cost will be $2000, and the contract has been awarded to George A. Serber.

R. F. Erwin has the contract to put up a four-story addition, 40 x 111 feet, with an annex at the end, 44 by 22.4 feet, at the southeast corner of Seventeenth street and Indiana avenue, for John Adams. The cost will probably reach $5000.

Mr. Chas. Shaeffer, owner, Wissinoming, will erect two two-story brick dwellings on County street. Mr. H. Snowden has the contract. It is rumored that S. S. Wilnermay will soon start an operation in the neighborhood of Jackson and County streets.

DeLong & Betts have started to excavate for the twenty-four three-story stone houses, which they will erect on the south side of Walnut lane, west of Herman street, Germantown, at a cost of about $120,000. They will be built in pairs and have porches and bay windows.

Frank T. Maguire, contractor, of Wayne, Delaware county, Pa., will at once begin the alterations and addition to the car barn at Forty-first and Haverford streets, which will include a clere story, truss and timber roof and other details. Noted previously in these columns.

Stacey, Reeves & Sons, 1611 Filbert street, have a contract to make addition and alteration to 810 Filbert street, for Strawbridge & Clothier. The work will consist of a new story and other enlargement, with some minor detail work, costing $12,000. Work to start at once.

Joseph Bird, contractor, is building a model six-story and basement brick factory building on Spring street, corner Clifton street, with fireproof elevator and stairway, stationary marble washstands and toilet-rooms on each floor, the interior all to be finished in hardwood, with all the latest modern conveniences.

W. B. Purdy, contractor, 3905 Filbert street, has a contract to improve the front of Dr. Jos. Beren's house, at 1500 Green street. The work will consist of new foundation and granite work, window sills and a border of stone on side wall, and new brick walls to fourth story, interior detail work as well. Cost about $8000.

S. R. Riley, contractor, 627 Filbert street, has received a contract to build for Miss L. J. Russell a fine three-story brick and stone house, 20x74 feet, at 1517 Mt. Vernon street. It will have a mansard roof, Spanish tile, hardwood interior, hot air heat, electric work, and furnished with all latest comforts, conveniences, etc.

It is reported that the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company will erect a new station at Lansdale. Also repairs to the station at Sillersville, unless an effort on the part of the citizens to secure a new and handsome station fails. One thousand dollars, it is stated, has already been subscribed for that purpose.

Contractor Charles McCaul, 10 North Eleventh street, will start at once to build the one-story engine house, 97.4 x 155.5 feet, at Delaware avenue and Robbins street, in the Thirty-fifth ward, to cost $50,000. This work will be done for the Pennsylvania Heat Light and Power Company and it has been noted previously in this journal.

Stacey Reeves & Sons, 1611 Filbert street, have a contract to alter the front building and erect an addition to the residence of Mrs. A. H. Smith, at the southwest corner of Twenty-second and Pine streets. The rear will be 20x30 feet, three-story, brick and stone, with every modern comfort and convenience on interior. Cost, front and rear work, about $5000.

Adolf Phillip, a well-known German actor and manager of New York, has leased the old Arch Street Theatre, and will, it is understood, at once set about the work of making it entirely modern on the interior. The galleries will be remodelled, the seating renewed, decorations and other work upon a large scale, so as to be ready for the coming fall season.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company will shortly reconstruct the platforms, erect safety fences between the north bound and south bound tracks, and re-locate the tracks at the Cheltenham Avenue and Armat street stations, in Germantown. These improvements have been contemplated for some time and they are made necessary by the large suburban travel. They will be of an extensive character.

George C. Deltrich, contractor, 839 North Seventh street, will at once begin the improvements previously noted in this journal, to the Midvale Steel Works. This includes a one-story brick building, 60x112 feet, a two-story extension, 30x60 feet, and one 50x135 feet, one story high, all of brick, stone and iron, as well as cement work. Also, corrugated iron closets and a one-story office building.

The Board of Managers of the Pennsylvania Hospital have awarded a contract to Alexander Ewing, 1940 De Lancey Place, to make alterations to the dwelling at 1411 North Sixteenth street, to cost $3000. The work will consist of alterations to the back stairway, making a new bath room, new windows, move present heating system and put in a hot water heating plant, new cement floor in the cellar, and general repairs to the interior woodwork.

Owner and Builder John Crawford will commence work at once on the erection of $53,500 worth of houses in the Twenty-seventh ward. One store and dwelling, 19 x 53 feet, will be erected at the northwest corner of Fifty-second street and Cedar avenue, and thirty-two two-story houses, each 16x60 feet, fifteen of which will be put up on the west side of Fifty-second street, north of Cedar avenue, and the remaining seventeen on the north side of Cedar avenue, west of Fifty-second street.

said last week that the new Central High School structure at Broad and Green streets could not be made ready for occupancy until January 1st next. There had been some hope that the school could move into its new home in September or October; but it has been learned that the machinery and electrical appliances, as well as other apparatus, cannot be in place before the end of this year. Changes made at the request of members of the faculty will cause some delay.

Herman Wendell, 14 South Broad street, will have two three-story stone, brick and pebble-dash dwellings, erected on the north and south sides of Woodbine avenue, 500 feet east of Sixtieth street, Overbrook, to cost $13,000. The houses will be built on lots measuring 60x197 feet, and each house will measure 29.6x53.6 feet. They will have front and side porches, leaded glass windows, and be heated by steam. The first floors of each structure will contain a large hall and an open stairway running to the third floor, parlor, dining-room, with a bay window; kitchen, pantry, and laundry; second floors, three bedrooms, sitting room, hall, closets and bath room; third floors, three bedrooms, storeroom, hall and closets. Architect David Knickerbocker Boyd made the plans, which have been noted some time ago in these columns.

The corner stone of the new First Baptist Church, now being erected at Seventeenth and Sansom streets, was laid on the 28th inst., with quiet but appropriate service. The church, when completed, will be 95 x 100 feet. The style of architecture will be Byzantine, and the exterior will be of Holmesburg granite, for which Vollmer & Register are agents in this city, with trimmings of sandstone. The main entrance will be on the northwest street and there will be towers at the northwest and southwest corners. The auditorium will comfortably seat 1250 persons. The rear building will contain a lecture room, 40x95 feet. The main basement will be occu-

PHILADELPHIA, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 9, 1899.

$5.00 PER YEAR.

Architect Notes.

At Williamsport, Pa., David K. Dean has prepared plans, and is ready for bids until August 15th, for the construction of a building for F. B. Thrall. It will be 70x160 feet, three stories high, iron construction. Also, for the same, a large stable.

Plans have been filed at the Bureau of Building Inspection providing for the erection of a four-story stone and brick store building, 77x31.6 feet, on Main street, below Levering street, Manayunk for Forster Bros. Architect Herman Miller made the drawings.

Albert Ellis Yarnall, architect, 14 South Broad street, is engaged on plans for a building, 75x75 feet and 45 feet high, for the State of Virginia. Of course it will be a temporary structure, but quite ornamental in design. Other work by same architect will be noted soon.

Robert Cammerer, architect, 241 South Fifth street, has plans on boards for a four-story factory to be erected at Twenty-second and Master streets for Henry Troemner. It will be of brick, with stone trimmings, and fitted with steam, electric work, elevators, plumbing, etc.

Architects Dull & Coates, 1205 Walnut street, have finished plans, and estimates are now being made for a two-story brick stable, 28x29.10 feet, which will be built at 4710 Chester avenue, for Robert F. Whitmer. It will contain all late conveniences on interior. Previously noted.

Architect W. L. Plack, 1405 Filbert street, has made plans for a two-story stone church for the congregation of the Trinity Baptist Church. The new edifice will measure about 50x80 feet, and it will be erected at Poplar and Pennock streets. The Sunday School will be located on the first floor and the main auditorium on the second floor.

Kennedy, Hayes and Kelsey, architects, 931 Chestnut street, have made plans for an addition and considerable alteration to the dwelling, 1733 Walnut street. The contract has been awarded to E. O. Ensinger, contractor, 876 Holly street. Work will include, beside the addition, all detail comforts and conveniences on the interior.

A limited number of architects are about to be invited to make plans for the new Wylie-Chambers Memorial Presbyterian Church, to be erected on Broad below Spruce street, for the joint congregation which recently collected their interests for the future. When completed the new structure will be a feature of great interest on that thoroughfare.

Architects Schermerhorn & Reinhold, 437 Walnut street, have awarded the contract for the large colonial stone house to be erected on Stauberis avenue, Bala, Pa., for Miss Jane B. Reychner, to Contractor Albert L. Fretz, of Cayway. The house will contain eighteen rooms, built of Holmesburg granite, interior finish oak and chestnut, slate roof; cost, $10,000. Fully noted previously.

Some weeks ago we noted that the site of the Chambers Presbyterian Church would be cleared at once, and the publication house erected thereon for Thomas B. Wanamaker. The plans are now completed by Rankin & Kellogg, architects, 1024 Walnut street, and call for a fire-proof seven-story structure of brick, stone and terra cotta work, iron skeleton, and fitted with steam heat and power, elevators and lifts, electric work, and every modern convenience. The drawings are to be placed for estimate at once.

Adin B. Lacey, architect, 1020 Chestnut street, has made plans for an apartment house for Max Levy, to be erected at the northwest corner of Thirtieth and Spruce streets. The building is to be of brick, terra cotta and stone, four stories high, tin roof. Interior will contain all the latest and best comforts and conveniences, electric work, plumbing of the best, iron grille work steel skeleton and fireproof material, steam heat, elevator and lift. Estimates being made in office of W. R. Dougherty, 1694 Sansom street.

Mantle Fielding, architect, 110 South Fourth street, has finished plans, and estimates are now being made for the erection of a handsome three-story house on West Walnut lane, Germantown, for Howard Middleton, owner. There will be a front porch and a porch entrance on the side of the house, and the first floor will contain a living room, reception hall, dining room, pantry, kitchen and out kitchen. The second floor will contain two chambers, guests' chamber, nursery and bath room; third floor, two chambers, guests' chamber, linen and store room and bath room. A billiard room and laundry will be located in the basement. Previously noted.

Willis G. Hale, architect, 1524 Chestnut street, has now in course of preparation drawings for a very fine structure to be erected for William Weightman at 931-33-35-37 Market street. The building will be eight stories high with a highly ornamental front of iron, glass and terra cotta work, the walls of brick, and the whole covering an area of 69x300 feet, extending to Commerce street in the rear. Electric work, elevators and freight lifts, ventilators, fine system of steam heat and power, plumbing and all general conveniences will be introduced on the interior. Details are now almost completed and the estimates are to be made within a short time for the work of construction.

Architect Joseph W. Anshutz, of the Board of Education, has made plans for three new school houses and an addition to a school house. One of the new schools will be located at the southeast corner of Twelfth street and Allegheny avenue, in the Twenty-seventh section. It will be three stories and a basement high and measure 165x52.6 feet, general dimensions. It will be built of stone with a granite base, and contain five class rooms, seven coat rooms and a teachers' and toilet room on each floor. Another school is to go up at the northwest corner of Thirtieth and Thompson streets, in the Twentieth section. It will measure 124 2x 94.6 feet, and be three stories and a basement high. It will be built of stone and contain six class rooms, seven coat rooms and a teachers' and toilet room on each floor. The third new school will be three stories high with a basement and measure 125.2x61.5 feet. It will be erected at Frankford avenue and Somerset street. This building will contain five class rooms, seven coats rooms and a teachers' and toilet room on each floor. The addition to the Bartram School, previously noted, at Greenway and Cemetery avenues, in the Fortieth section, will be two-stories high. It will measure 27x51.6 feet, and contain two class rooms on each floor.

Architects Heacock & Hokanson, 931 Chestnut street, were awarded contracts last week for the erection of four houses, to be built in pairs, at Wyncote, Pa., for H. K. Walt, owner, and also for the construction of a frame parsonage at Beverly, N. J., for the Baptist congregation at that place. The houses will be three-story structures, built of stone and half-timber work, with bay windows and front porches. The first floor of each dwelling will contain a parlor, open stairway and reception hall, dining room, with a bay window, kitchen, pantry and back hall and stairway; second floor, four bedrooms and bath-room; third, two bedrooms, store and bath-rooms, with a laundry and a vegetable cellar in the basement. The houses will be heated by hot air, and fitted up with hardwoods. The parsonage will have a covered porch in front, and contain a hall, parlor, sitting-room, dining-room, kitchen and pantry on the first floor, and four bedrooms, a study-hall and bath-room on 2d floor.—Same architects have drawings for alterations and additions to W. G. Brinton's residence at Oxford, Pa. The addition will contain a dining room, two bed rooms, a kitchen and bath room. A new vestibule and porch will be built. The same architects are at work on plans for an addition to the Oxford Press press room. It will measure 50x24 feet.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

Work will be commenced at once by Contractor Joseph F. Myers on extensive improvements at the apartment house at 1934 Chestnut street for J. H. Paterson, agent. The work will consist of the erection of a four-story brick back addition, 22x46 feet, a new bay window on the front on the second story, installing a new heating plant, interior alterations and putting up a fire escape. The estimated cost is $10,800.

Are about as far apart as human agencies can make them; they represent the extremes of human nature as well as human possibilities.

Impractical philanthropists argue that this difference is the natural result of environment, and that, under the same conditions, men would be alike as to their social and moral status.

If this assumption is correct, why are not horses alike? There is little difference as to environments in the early life of horses.

Why are manufacturers not alike? Why do some of these bring to bear upon their products the inexcusable stamp of honest worth and business integrity, an absolute and conscientious adherence to the highest possible standard of excellence.

No flattery; no quibbling; nothing for expediency's sake; no hedging or dodging; no flimsy excuse or false subterfuge. No! No! No! A thousand times no! Nothing but the best that can be made by mortal man. These are strong phrases, but every single one of them applies to the pre-eminent good

THE business building which will be erected by Mr. Wm. Weightman, on the site now occupied by buildings, 931-33-35-37 Market street, will be a great improvement to that section of the city. Mr. Weightman, it seems, has, according to report, held the erection of this building in abeyance for years, because he cherished the hope of securing the corner property, now occupied by Thomas Martindale & Company, as well as those on Tenth street to Commerce. It is to be regretted that Mr. Weightman did not succeed, as such an acquisition to his present site would have given room for one of the handsomest business structures in the city. As it is, however, the new building will be in keeping with Mr. Weightman's tasteful and progressive ideas, examples of which are plenty enough and costly enough to be a credit to any city.

AN ordinance has just gone into effect in Washington, D. C., which aims to suppress the smoke nuisance, arising from the use of bituminous or soft coal. Of course, the use of such coal cannot be prohibited, but the law can require, and in this instance does require, that chimneys shall be smokeless.

The Capitol City has already realized that its handsome buildings are a marked and distinguished feature to tourists, and that if the smoke nuisance was longer tolerated, it would mean the loss of much beauty to them, as well as an infliction in other respects upon its citizens.

If it is possible for Washington to suppress the smoke nuisance through an ordinance requiring smokeless chimneys on buildings, why cannot our own City Councils suppress the nuisance caused by the locomotives in use by the different steam railroad companies, by requiring the use of smokeless smoke stacks. The factories will eventually come under the ban of such a law, but the locomotive nuisance in some neighborhoods cuts a wide swath in the value of real estate, as well as being an insufferable nuisance to the residents, and should be abated.

ON Saturday last, the Navy Department at Washington, D. C., opened bids for the construction of the proposed dry dock at the League Island Navy Yard, under an act of Congress, limiting its cost to $825,000. The bidders were: Fairwell & Hopper, New York, $1,182,600; McGaw & Roosevelt Philadelphia, $1,220,000; McIlvain & Unkelfer Company, Pittsburg $1,143,563; Curtis and Driscoll, Springfield, Mass., $750,000; George Pierce, Bangor, Me., $949,973; Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Company, of New York $749,000, and $5.50 per square foot for steel approaches; Dagnon-MacLean Construction Company, New York, $957,000.

No award has been made, as the Navy authorities are opposed to the construction of wooden docks, and a wise provision in the act makes it possible for the next Congress to change to masonry.

If such a change is made, a board of officers, of which three shall be civil engineers, shall determine the increased price, including a 10 per cent. profit. The Philadelphia delegation in Congress and the senators from Pennsylvania are expected to make a strong effort to bring about this change, and the reservation in the contract is made at their initiative.

The general dimensions of the League Island dock are: length over all, 750 feet; width on top, 144 feet; width on floor, 80 feet; entrance width, 101 feet; depth from top to floor, 40 feet; draft at mean high water, 30 feet. These dimensions will make the dock of sufficient size to accommodate the largest battle ship in the navy. Long leaf yellow pine is used in the construction, if made of wood.

The contract covers engines, boilers, cofferdam gate, worked by electricity; pumping plant, steel caissons and the various houses, wharfs, etc., required for such an extensive structure.

Wilson B. Ker, builder, Bourse Building, is receiving estimates for work and materials for fifty-seven two-and-a-half story houses he intends erecting at Ashland avenue and Fifty-ninth street, near Angola station. Bids will be received up to and including to-day.

Work will consist of taking out the party wall, putting in beams and columns, stairways, and changing the bulk windows. The estimated cost of the work is $3000. Frank R. Watson, 1208 Chestnut street, made the plans which have been noted in this journal.

three story brick dwellings built. Each house will measure 16x50 feet, and be built on lots measuring 16x115 feet. William Smith has the contract.

R. Wilson, owner, has signed a contract with Alexander Ferguson to build sixteen two-story brick dwellings, to cost $25,800, on the west side of Fifty-third street, north of Market street, in the Thirty-fourth ward. The houses will each measure 15x42 feet. G. W. Fettus made the plans.

J. M. Stiteler, owner, is about to build seven two-story dwellings, each 16 by 50 feet, on the south side of Haverford street, east of Sixtieth, and a two-story store and dwelling, at the southeast corner of Sixtieth and Haverford streets, for himself, adjoining his present operation, nearly completed.

The high prices prevailing in lumber and builders' hardware have had an interesting tone in building operations in Boston. Permits for brick and stone structures during the month of June were increased 50 per cent. over last year, while those for frame building were materially decreased.—Exchange.

The Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, now owns the site 1013 Chestnut street, for which they paid $172,500, or $7000 a foot, and it is the intention of the company to erect a one-story structure at an early day, so as to secure light to the large building now standing on the east of the above number.

The drawings for a cold storage house, 100x15 feet, to be built at Robbins street and the Delaware River, for the Suburban Electric Light Company, have been submitted to the Bureau of Building Inspection for approval. The building will be constructed of iron frame, and covered with corrugated iron. The estimated cost is $7800.

G. D. Liddell, 168 West Franklin street, Germantown, has been awarded the contract for the erection of the handsome dwelling and stable, at Wayne avenue and Lincoln

C. B. Prettyman, Broad and Catharine streets, has started excavations for a new church at Hicks and McKean streets, and he will begin work on the erection of six houses on McKean street in a few days. Dull & Coates are the architects for the church. It has been fully noted in these columns.

Machin & Brown, contractors, 147 North Seventh street, have a contract to build a seventh story on the Ivins, Deitz & Magee stores, at 1220-22 Market street; also, a freight elevator and a new truss roof and brick fire tower. The cost will be $12,800. Work to start at once.

On the southeast side of Logan street, 265.9 feet southeast of Germantown avenue, J. B. Berger, of Baltimore, Md., is having four drive, Germantown, for Mrs. H. D. Plumber. The drawings were made by Architects Duhring, Okie & Zeigler, 1420 Chestnut street, and the work was fully described some time ago.

Henry T. Lea, of this city, has donated $8000 to the Pennsylvania Hospital for Epileptics, at Oakbourne, for the erection of an industrial building, work upon which was commenced last week, and has been previously noted. It was largely through Mr. Lea's generosity that this charity was established, he having previously donated $50,000 toward the erection of the buildings.

John W. Fritzinger, of Roxborough, has been awarded the contract to make the additions to the upholstery plant for Hoyle, Harrison & Kaye, at A street and Indiana avenue by Architects Hales & Ballinger. The fifth-story addition, 62'x42'3" feet, to the present mill will be built at once, and subsequently a five-story office building, 60'x62'4" feet, will be erected. The work will be completed by the middle of November.

Franklin M. Harris & Co. were given a contract to remove the two buildings of the former brickyard on Twenty-seventh street, below Lombard, at a cost of $200. Architects Frank Miles Day & Bro., 925 Chestnut street, are making drawings for several new buildings for the De La Vergne Refrigerator Manufacturing Company, represented by Theodore Kolicher, who will occupy the site, and these have been noted previously in these columns.

Contractor William F. Ingham, 846 North Sixteenth street, has plans and specifications, and is asking estimates for the construction of a new hospital building for the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital, to be erected at the northeast corner of Eighteenth and Cherry streets. The structure will be fireproof, four stories high, about 43'x44' feet, with a fine front of brick and stone. Two dwellings now occupying the site are to be torn down. Architect Herman Miller made the plans.

Owing to the great demand for dwellings, the Phoenixville Industrial Association is making arrangements, it is reported, with a firm to erect 100 dwellings in Phoenixville at once. One hundred workmen with their families will move there with the Heine Safety Boiler Company's plant from Germantown, and they will all need houses by September 1. The Logan Manufacturing Company, which is erecting a large steel plant there, will also need, it is said, twenty-five or thirty houses for the families of its employees.

A handsome school building, to cost about $65,000, has been voted for by the residents of Glen Ridge, N. J., and it will be located at Bloomfield and Ridge avenues. No architect has yet been selected for the work, but a stone and granite building, two and one-half stories, with basement, will be erected, containing the latest improvements in school furniture, sliding doors, partitions, desks and seating. Electric lighting, steam heating and ventilation, plumbing and marble work will be included in the general contract.

Mr. James Arthur, builder, 1230 Arch street, speaks encouragingly of building prospects at New Orange, N. J., where he has erected quite an operation of dwellings and will continue to do so in the future. We noted some months ago the purchase of ground at this place by Mr. Arthur, and his intention to construct a large operation, of which his present work is but a part. Many of these houses are sold on mortgage to Hebrews and others on terms of easy payment, and the work will be continued as demand occurs.

Plans have been placed for estimate in the Builders' Exchange for engine and boiler house, also, chimney, at the Frankford high-service pumping station; also, for the engine house and boiler house and intake for the Roxborough station. The drawings are prepared by the engineers' department of the city, and call for one-story structures of stone and brick, with an open iron truss roof; plumbing, hardware, an electric traveling crane, painting and glazing, etc., are among the items in the specifications mentioned. Bids are to be made to the Director of Public Works, William C. Haddock.

Messrs. Steele & Sons, contractors, 506 Walnut street, have started work on two new jobs, for which they have the contracts, and which have been so noted in these columns previously. These are the new Oldham Mills, at Allegheny avenue and Boudinot street, which are to be of stone, brick, and galvanized iron work, with all necessary adjuncts; cost, about $65,000. The other is the factory and business building at Twelfth and Cherry streets, for the Young estate, which is to be a seven-story structure of granite, brick and terra cotta work, steam heat and power, electric work, elevators and lifts, plumbing, and all conveniences. Same contractors are about to start a small building at the National Export Exhibition grounds for the Gillerder-Ivins glass exhibit, which will be 60'x113' feet, one story high, and will be in staff work chiefly.

Plans for the improvement of Peter's Island, in the Schuylkill, a short distance north of the Columbia avenue bridge, have been prepared by Chief Engineer Vogdes, of the Fairmount Park Commission, and proposals will be opened in a few days for the erection of a river wall around the tract, for which purpose $3000 is available. It is the intention of the Commissioners after the wall is completed, to raise the grade of the island, with the idea of establishing a Japanese tea garden there in the future. Proposals will also be opened soon for the laying of conduits on the east drive from the Philadelphia & Reading Railway bridge to Wissahickon entrance. In these conduits all the unsightly telephone, telegraph and electric light wires, which are now strung along the drive, will be placed.

There remains no longer any doubt about the proposed erection of a twelve-story building on the present site of John Wana-maker's grand depot. The plans are now in course of preparation, and it will, as we have previously noted, be constructed by Mr. Charles McCaull, as general contractor. Robert C. Clarkson, engineer, Drexel Building, will supervise much of the preparation of drawings, sanitary work, and general detail of heating space, etc. The work will be done in quarters, so as to cause no interference with business. A basement and sub-basement are to be features of special engineering, the latter containing all the general machinery and storage vaults, shops, etc. It will be a fire-proof building, and furnished throughout with every modern convenience and comfort for salespeople and the public in general. New and commodious elevators, lifts, electric work from an individual plant, floors in mosaic, marble and tile work. Special ornamentation throughout the structure; ventilation upon the most approved system. The massive steel skeleton for interior is now in course of construction, to be delivered as needed. Investigation is being made for the best mode of heating, lighting, drainage and other scientific appliances that are to be introduced.

The Navy Department opened bids on August 5th, for the new timber dock at the United States Navy Yard, League Island, Philadelphia, to cost not exceeding $850,000, according to the provision made by Congress, and to be one of the most spacious docks on the Atlantic coast, for the accommodation of warships. The bidders were Farrell & Hopper, New York, $1,182,600; McGaw & Roosevelt, Philadelphia, $1,220,000; McIlvain, Ukefer Company, Pittsburg, $1,143,569; Curtis & Driscoll, Springfield, Mass., $750,000; George Pierce, Bangor, Me., $949,973; Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Company, of New York, $749,000, and $3.50 per square foot for steel approaches; Diagon-MacLean Construction Company, New York, $957,000. The League Island dry dock is to be of timber, but provision is made for a change to stone in case the next Congress desires to substitute masonry for wood. If such change is made a board of officers, of which three shall be civil engineers, shall determine the increased price, including a 10 per cent. profit. The Philadelphia delegation in Congress and the senators from Pennsylvania are expected to make a strong effort to bring about this change and the reservation in the contract is made at their initiative. Besides the dock proper, the contract covers engines, boilers, cofferdam gates worked by electricity, pumping plane, steel caissons and the various houses, wharfs, etc., required for such an extensive structure. The general dimensions of the dock are: length over all, 750 feet; width on top, 144 feet; width on floor, 80 feet; entrance width, 101 feet; depth from top to floor, 40 feet; draught at mean high water, 30 feet.

A Remedy for City Glare.

When our nation assumed the responsibility of managing its own affairs, less than three in the hundred of our people lived in cities. In the latter censuses the proportion is shown to have risen above twenty in the hundred.

The more moving life of the city, its abundance of cheap amusements, and its supposed facilities for making money easily draw the people from the country districts of both our own country and Europe. We have not got to the Australian condition, in which the majority of the people linger in the cities to be near the music halls and similar attractions, and cannot be bribed even by the offer of free land, to leave them. But the question of constructing and managing cities with due regard to the best interests of the growing city population is very much upon us, and it cannot be said that we have shown our usual adaptability in solving it.

A growing evil in our modern cities is the absence of vegetable life over large areas of brick and mortar. Man is made to live in close fellowship with the plant world. Its leaf surface is required to keep the air pure, moist and cool for his respiration. Formerly this was achieved by planting trees along our city streets, and when I first knew Philadelphia her streets were not only named after the trees of the forest, but were lined with them.

In forty years there has been a constant diminution of these. Some have died and have not been replaced. Others have been either entirely cut down to suit the needs of the telegraph companies, or have been first maimed and then allowed to die of their wounds, in that service. Many have perished from asphalt pavements depriving their roots of moisture and air. Others have been sacrificed to new grading. As a result, the "sylvan city" is rapidly losing its right to that name, and is growing hotter and more disagreeable with every summer.

The force of the sun on the pavements is no longer broken by the tree. To the direct force of his rays is added the reflection of his strength from unmasked walls on one or both sides. The cooling influence of the constant diffusion of moisture from leaf surface is lost. The absorption of carbonic oxide and the supply of oxygen from the leaf is lost to us. We are trying to live in isolation from plant life, and the result is seen in the pale, anemic faces which abound in our streets.

A partial remedy for the loss of our trees is offered us in the ampelopsis vine, which can be grown easily and quickly on any wall surface, with a minimum of supply from the soil. It would be possible to cover miles of glare-reflecting brick walls with the delicate green of this Japanese stranger in the course of a few months, and the result would be most refreshing to those who have to traverse our hot streets. Then we would have to endure only the sun's direct rays without the reflection from lines of masonry.

Then, also, a leaf surface even greater than would be furnished by a row of trees would freshen and purify the air. And as the leaves of the ampelopsis fall in autumn, the objection to ivy, that it makes the walls damp in winter, would not apply. Let us glorify our brick and mortar with verdure!—ROBERT ELLIS THOMPSON, Saturday Evening Post.

Back Alleys.

This scheme of a back alley has never been adopted in New York. It is known in Boston and is not uncommon in Philadelphia. The advantages of the plan are obvious, but it is urged that a city or a quarter so arranged is more difficult to police. As for the space required, if the passageways and front entrances with their approaches be reckoned up for all the houses in a block, it will perhaps be found that an alley through the centre of the block would be a saving. On the other hand the arrangement which has been made in some parts of London, by which all the ground in the heart of the block, upon which the back windows look, is turned into one continuous garden—the adoption of this admirable scheme would bar out the back alley, as also our American system of doing the washing in the house. London has its washing, and therefore its drying, done far away in the country, out of reach of the "blocks."—Harper's Magazine.

The Oldest Brick in Existence.

At one of the recent meetings of the Academy des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres, in Paris, the keeper of the Louvre, Mr. Hensy, showed a brick which is undoubtedly the oldest in existence, dating, it is estimated, from the fourth century, B. C. The brick in question was discovered by the French savant and antiquarian, de Sarze, during recent excavations at Tello, the ancient Sirlupo in Chaldea. The brick was somewhat curved and had been baked, but was of such crude form that it evidently had never been put in a press nor moulded. The mark of the maker was simply the imprint of the thumb. It was clearly made very soon after the discovery of the art of brickmaking, which art, as is universally admitted, marks the dawn of civilization. Other bricks of a much more recent date were shown. Some of them bore the mark of the coat of arms of Sirlupo, an eagle with the head of a lion. Others again were inscribed with the name of the reigning monarch.

Architect Notes.

Architects Dixon & Rockwood, 19 Court street, Buffalo, N. Y., are making plans for overhauling and addition to frame residence at Lancaster, Pa., for Walter D. Moore.

Architects Chequier & May, 227 St. Paul street, Baltimore, Md., are preparing plans for a church at Gettysburg, Pa., for the Memorial Church of the Prince of Peace, Rev. J. W. Ashmead, pastor. Granite, slate roof, marble work, tiling, stained glass and furnace heat, etc.

Henry Troemer is about to erect a four-story factory at the northwest corner of Twenty-second and Master streets. It will be built of brick, with stone trimmings. Robert Cammerer, 241 South Sixth street, is the architect and bids are being asked. Mr. Cammerer will supervise the work, which we have noted in these columns before.

Frank R. Watson, architect, 1208 Chestnut street, has on boards plans for a large factory building to be erected in Frankford. It will be three stories high, or brick, stone and iron, cement work, electric work, steam power and heat, freight lift and all modern conveniences introduced. Mr. Watson has other plans in course of preparation which will be noted at an early day in these columns.

Three drawings by architects for the Department of Justice Building to be erected at Washington, D. C., have been selected from the ten offered, and one of these will be chosen by the Attorney General at an early day and the work, for which $1,000,000 has been appropriated, be proceeded with. The successful architects are Geo. B. Post, Warren Wetmore and Price & Aiken, all of New York City.

Thomas P. Lonsdale, architect, Manhattan Life Building, Fourth and Walnut streets, has completed the drawings, begun some time ago, for the alterations and additions to the Infirmary of the Pennsylvania Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, at Erie, Pa. The work is quite extensive and includes brick and stone work, electric work, iron work, plaster and cement work, paint, glazing and heating. All the latest improvements will be placed for comfort and benefit of the aged and sick. See "Wants" in another column for further information.

Samuel Hall Day and F. Allen Wilson, associate architects, 410 Land Title Building, Broad and Chestnut streets, have completed plans for alteration to 1235-40-42-44-46 Callowhill street, for William B. Hackenberg, 323 North Thirteenth street. The work will include grading, masonry, cut stone work, iron work, lumber, carpenter and mill work, painting and glazing, gasfitting, heating and plumbing. Also repairs and general work on 329-31-33-35-37 North Thirteenth street for same owner. Estimates being made in office of William R. Dougherty, 1804 Sansom street.

Architect Edw. Overman, Portsmouth, Va., has plans for remodeling and enlarging building for the Merchants' & Farmers' Bank. There will be a new front of granite, with limestone trimmings, an extension of the rear, 40x50 feet and three stories, rough brick, stone and terra cotta, gravel roof, new tile floors, iron or steel framed skylight and light shaft, 12x36 feet, hot water heater, fire-proof vault, plate and chipped glass, electric light, gas and electric fixtures, steel girders, electric wiring, bathroom outfits, water closet fixtures and hardwood mantels. Cost about $12,000. Bids will be received about August 10th.

Architects Mowbray & Uffinger, 49 Liberty street, New York City, N. Y., are preparing plans for a bank building, 44x95 feet and one story, for the Trenton Savings Fund Society, State street, Trenton, N. J. Granite, fire-proof construction, composition roof, electric light, steam heat, marble work, tiling, plate glass, iron work, safety vaults, etc. Cost, $60,000. Address architects. Same architects will soon have plans ready for bids on the brick and stone bank building which the Trust Company, of New Jersey, Wm. C. Heppenheimer, president, Newark and Washington streets, will erect on Hudson place, Hoboken. Cost, $75,000.

Mantle Fellding, architect, 110 South Fourth street, has given the contract for the house in Germantown for Mrs. La Rue King to Howard Rue, contractor, 6353 McCallum street. The house will be erected on the east side of Boyer street, 280 feet south of Gowen avenue. It will measure 48 x 51 feet and stand on a lot measuring 60 x 250 feet. It will be heated by hot air, fitted up with all conveniences and have a peaked shingle roof. The residence will be constructed of stone, and there will be two bay windows and an entrance porch on the front, side and rear porches. The first floor will contain a reception hall, reception room, stair hall, living room, dining room, pantry and laundry; second floor, three chambers, boys' bath, hall and closets, and a balcony on the side; third floor, three chambers, hall and closets.

Herbert D. Hale, architect, 13 Exchange Building, Boston, Mass., has completed plans for a large office and executive building for the New York Shipbuilding Company, of Camden, N. J. The structure will be two stories and a basement, brick, stone and cement work, limestone and granite used to some extent; slate roof, skylights, iron work, steam heat, electric work and telephone system, wood office fittings and partitions, grille work, brass and iron and all the latest conveniences will be introduced. Drawings on boards of Doyle & Doak, contractors, 1509 Sansom street. Also on the same boards are drawings for a new valve house, for the Twenty-fifth Ward Gas Works, for the United Gas Improvement Company, by Wilson Bros., architects, Drexel Building. The specifications call for a two-story building, of brick, stone, terra cotta work and iron, considerable cement work, ornate work with plate glass window, structural work of steel, slate roof, plumbing and gasfitting, etc., all called for in bids.

At Mahanoy City, Pa., Architect H. K. Christ has on boards plans for the erection of four double dwellings for the Schuylkill Haven Improvement Company, at Schuylkill Haven. The buildings, which will be of beautiful design, will have many conveniences and improvements. Bids are solicited, and contract will be awarded about August 20th. Carey's magnesia flexible cement roofing will be used throughout. At Minersville, Schuylkill county, same architect will make extensive alterations and additions to the large coal breaker operated and owned by the Albright Coal Company. New machinery will be introduced, together with improved designs in breaker construction. Work will commence in two weeks and fifty carpenters will be employed. At Ocadoo, the large Hungarian church that was being erected by John Boyle was blown down during a heavy rain storm the other evening. At Girardville, Schuylkill county, H. K. Christ was awarded the contract for the erection of a large scraper line, 2800 feet in length, for the Maderia Hill Coal Company, of Philadelphia. Same architect and contractor is erecting a large coal washer for the Wm. R. McTurk Coal Company, of Philadelphia.

During the last week Contractors Stacy Reeves & Sons, 1611 Filbert street, have been receiving bids for a range of dormitory buildings for the University of Pennsylvania, to be erected on Spruce street, between Thirtieth and Thirty-seventh, forming a portion of the present dormitory buildings, which they will resemble in appearance. They are to be four stories high, built of stretcher brick, with black beading and Indiana limestone trimmings, and measuring 87.6 feet on Spruce street, by a depth of 244 feet. There will be a tower at each end, with ornamental limestone trimmings, and fire proof construction will be the rule throughout. The buildings will contain about 125 rooms, divided up into sleeping apartments, toilet and study rooms, with open fireplaces, etc. Included in the plans is a memorial tower building six stories high, with four turrets, one at each end, 96 feet high, and of elaborate design. Cope & Stewardson, 320 Walnut street, are the architects for the work, which will probably cost $200,000. They are also receiving sub-bids for the erection of a five-story addition, 131x41 feet to the present building of Wyeth & Bros., manufacturing chemists, Eleventh street and Washington avenue.

Are about as far apart as human agencies can make them; they represent the extremes of human nature as well as human possibilities.

Impartial philanthropists argue that this difference is the natural result of environment, and that, under the same conditions, men would be alike as to their social and moral status.

If this assumption is correct, why are not horses alike? There is little difference as to environments in the early life of horses.

Why are manufacturers not alike? Why do some of these bring to bear upon their products the invincible stamp of honest worth and business integrity, an absolute and conscientious adherence to the highest possible standard of excellence.

While Philadelphia can build bridges quicker and better than foreign competitors, even for the necessities of their old customers in Egypt, the Soudan or Siberia, an immense amount of missionary work is needed to let the world know that Philadelphia's builders and constructors are capable of constructing anything that is needed on earth and under the most rigid restrictions as to time and cost about as well as any other city in this or any other country.

The French Consul in New York has advertised for proposals for the construction of sixty postal cars for the French mail service, and it is stated that if these are satisfactory, five hundred more will be needed. Messrs. Brill & Co., car builders, of this city, we understand, will submit bids.

The statement was made by those in high authority, as well as by the most scientific and experienced financiers in our country, during Mr. Cleveland's administration, that were it not for the United States Treasury gold certificates the wholesale depletion of the United States Treasury of its gold could not have occurred.

This depletion, it will be remembered, became so serious that the country was driven to the verge of bankruptcy and such a catastrophe was only avoided through Mr. Cleveland's deal with Wall Street, known as the Cleveland bond issue.

The patriotic and conservative men of both parties were, perhaps, divided as to the wisdom or unfairness of the conditions of that issue of bonds, were a unit in the sentiment that the gold certificates were a pernicious factor in the nation's finances, and should be called in. It will also be remembered that the banks were quite as loud in declaiming against the system as any of the government officials, high or low.

Congress has met and adjourned since the sickening experience of those eventful times, and the law authorizing the issue of treasury certificates was not repealed, and while we do not keep a tab upon Congressional legislation or the recommendations to Congress, we cannot recall a single effort to secure its repeal.

With a plethora of gold in the nation's treasury, as a result of natural forces, and notwithstanding the country's drastic experience of the past, the Secretary of the Treasury has commenced the distribution of allotments of these self-same gold certificates to New York banks, aggregating $3,600,000.

While this is only the beginning—for applications are already in from over forty banks—it is fair to assume that Mr. Gage is being worked and will continue to be worked for all there is in the little game until the future financial destiny of the country, for good or bad, is again placed in the hands of the gold speculators—the self same gentlemen who depleted the treasury of its gold through the power of these self-same gold certificates, almost to the verge of ruin.

The Secretary has stated that the moving of the crops compels this issue of treasury notes. If this is the fact, then, the statement as to the superabundance of money in the banks is greatly exaggerated, but right or wrong it was the duty of the Treasurer to provide other means, if needed, than the issue of treasury notes; and the fact that gold must be paid for such notes, when issued, does not help the situation in the least, for the demand for the payment of these treasury notes with gold, at a time when there is little or no gold in the Treasury—and we are not strangers to such a condition—is a thing to be avoided if our experience during the last half decade is worth anything.

It is poor judgment, we think, to put one's hand in the mouth of a biting animal, knowing that it will bite and bite seriously.

Stamps on Deeds in Partition not Necessary.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has ruled that no stamps are necessary on deeds conveying real estate to heirs in partition as tenants in common. The Commissioner says that in such cases there is no sale; it is simply a division of property already belonging to them. He is of the opinion that no stamp tax accrues upon such conveyances; that the land in such cases is not sold. That the word "sold" is not the controlling word relating to conveyances, but that in all cases where a deed or conveyance vests title not formerly vested the grantees in the instrument is a purchaser and the deed is subject to taxation whether the property is sold or not. Where tenants in common partition land equally among themselves no title is vested by the instrument effecting such partition that was not vested previous to the execution of the instrument. Therefore no taxation accrues. This decision was given July 21st, 1899.

Facts about Fires.

In 1898 there was but a single instance in the classification of buildings in which the fire loss was less than in 1897.

For convenience the insurable buildings are divided into thirteen classes. Churches burned in 1897 were 735 in number, while in 1898 there were only 591. The average loss in 1897 to the insurance companies was $3998, while in 1898 it was $1056.

Defective flues are responsible for 11.23 per cent. of the number of fires. Incendiary fires amounted to 7.33 per cent. Fires arising from fireworks and fire crackers amounted to only eight-tenths of one per cent. Lightning was responsible for 3.70 per cent.

During the year 1898 fires occurred in forty-one electric light stations, in twenty-four factories where electric lights, telephone and telegraph apparatus were made and in twenty electric power houses.

The different kinds of factories and buildings destroyed by fire present some interesting figures. Eleven artificial ice plants were burned, fifty seven hospitals, ninety-four club houses, twelve grand stands, fourteen railroad trains, 223 vessels at their wharves, 147 theatres and ten private and twelve public libraries. During the past twenty-four years the month of December has invariably showed up with greater fire losses than any other month in the year, but not with the largest number of fires.

Tramps were responsible for 755 fires, oil stoves for 397, open fireplaces for 410, sparks for 5891. The further information is given that the chief cause of fires in asylums is defective flues; in bakeries, overheated and defective ovens; incendiarianism accounts for most of the fires in bars, etc.; cigar stubs cause most of the fires in billiard rooms, while defective flues cause most of the boarding-house fires; matches start the fires in bookstores; spontaneous combustion those in button factories; retail clothing stores suffer chiefly from incendiary fires, while clubs are the fire victims of defective flues. Lamp explosions cause the fires in crockery stores, while incendiarianism start most of the theatrical fires. Altogether, incendiarianism is responsible for a very large number of fires.

Simple Colored Mortars for Brick Work.

The common brick of almost any district may be sorted so as to produce contrast in tint or tone—red, yellow or cream color. This tint of the bricks may be preserved and enhanced by using mortar of the same tone or tint. Furnace ashes and lime will produce a dark mortar, pounded red bricks or red tile mixed with lime will give a red tone to mortar, and cheap mineral colors may be added to the mortar for coloring. The color of mortar is sadly neglected, as generally the same white lime and sand are used for all tones of color in bricks; and not infrequently white putty mortar is used for painting the reddest as well as the whitest of colored bricks. When the brick are light colored, white or cream mortar may be in harmony, but for dark red or plimlish colored bricks, the white joints are oppressive to the artistic eye. By a judicious assortment of the bricks, and harmonious changes in the color of the mortar, a skillful bricklayer could so vary the shades of his brick work, that an otherwise plain building would have quite an artistic appearance, and one that would last for ages.

Bricklayers in rural districts, where fancy pressed bricks are almost unattainable, could, by following out some pre-conceived plan in

It is usually supposed that the figures of the building department indicate approximately, though not exactly, the activity of the building industry. Generally that is the case, and clearly if it were the case this year, the New York builder and building material man should be in a state of feverish excitement. New structures should be rising everywhere and the last word we should expect to hear from the trade would be about dullness and lack of orders.

Now it can't be said that the building material market at present is inactive. On the contrary, in certain lines it is brisk. Nevertheless, it is true that actual conditions are a very long way from conforming to the gigantic statistics of the building department. Yet the statistics are correct.

The trouble lies in the fact that a considerable proportion of the new structures planned for in the beginning of the year have been suspended, and in some cases abandoned, in consequence of the unexpected advance in the cost of building materials and labor. In one architect's office, in this city, seven out of nine jobs have been "held up." Probably there is not an active office in the city which would not report a somewhat similar state of affairs. Speculative building, and that now forms the major part of all the work done in New York City, has been arrested in an especial degree. This sort of operations, being conducted mostly on borrowed money is simply rendered impossible by any serious sudden advance in prices. One of our busy architects has given up a case that is typical of general conditions. About three months ago, he drew plans for an eight-story mercantile building, the cost of which, estimated upon then current prices, was to be $45,000. His client proceeded to finance the operation upon that basis, and three months later, that is, the other day, concluded to begin work. Actual estimates were then received, and it was found, to the confusion of every one, that prices had advanced about one-third.

the way of varying the colors of bricks and mortars on the same surface, make reputations for themselves that would have a money value when contracting for work.

The German, English and Hollanders take great pride in their brick work, and from materials not nearly so well adapted for ornamentation as can be secured from our brick yards, succeed in building some of the finest and most artistic cottages in the world. It is true, the old country bricklayer does not do so much work in a day as ours does, but his results are satisfactory, from an artistic point of view.—Exchange.

The Advance in Cost of Building.

The statistics of projected buildings for the current year form a remarkable record. In Manhattan and the Bronx alone, plans have been filed for over $82,000,000 of new work. In Brooklyn, plans were filed for about $16,000,000 worth of building. These are very large figures, almost unprecedented figures. We have had nothing like them for a great many years. They are almost twice as large as the corresponding figures for last year.

We are speaking now of the lowest estimates obtainable. Instead of costing $45,000, nearly $60,000 were needed to complete the building. As illuminating the subject, we append a few of the actual estimates received, comparing them with those of three months ago:

Plumbing	1,280	1,975
Steam heat	2,400	3,600
Roofing, etc.	1,800	2,800
Mason work, labor, 10 per cent. advance.
Hardware, 100 per cent. advance.

It is hardly necessary to complete the story by the statement that this particular eight-story mercantile building will not be built, although it figures in the "record," and, clearly, if the record were purged of the scores and scores of cases of this sort there would be no need to explain why building operations are not so active as statistics make them. There are other reasons for the conditions prevailing at present, but the one we have given is important enough to stand alone.

Exactly in what way the matter will work itself out, it is not easy to see. Some people are inclined to think that a great many of these "suspended" operations will only be temporarily delayed. Investors and operators will wait for a time, but when they find that the advance in prices is not a merely temporary circumstance they will adjust themselves to the situation and get to business. Work must go on. Prices may even go higher and each advance will frighten a certain number of people into doing something from fear of finding themselves in a worse position by and by. We are inclined to think that the builder will be wisest who accepts the present market as being as favorable as anything he will get for at least a year or two to come.

Prices that have ruled of recent years, have been ruinously low, and the man who did not take advantage of them, has missed his chance for the present. The prosperity of the country must have its due effect on the building material market and on real estate, and the facts which we have just been discussing indicate that the "marking up" process has commenced in earnest.

Real estate investors and owners should note these facts.—New York Record and Guide.

Architect Notes.

Architect George H. Griebel, 247 West 125th street, N. Y., has plans for three tenement buildings, with stores, for Heine & Co., 5 Beekman street. Light brick and brown stone, iron beams, tin roofs, skylights, plate glass, tiling and forty-two sets of plumbing; cost $48,000.

Architect George Palliser, 32 Park place, N. Y., has plans for a residence for Thomas H. Brush, 73 Vernon avenue, Borough of Brooklyn. Brick and stone, tin roof, tiling, plate glass, cabinet mantels, enameled bath tubs, marble work, dumb waiter and steam heat; cost $85,000.

Architect George F. Pelham, 503 Fifth avenue, flat building for Henry Kaufman, 54 Columbia street. Light brick, limestone and terra cotta, iron beam, tin roof, skylight, plate glass, tiling, wood mantels, grille work, marble washstands, dumb waiters and steam heat; cost $40,000.

A large steel and iron bridge will probably be erected across the Schuylkill, connecting West Laurel Hill cemetery to Manayunk. It is to be 250 feet long, and plans for the same are being prepared under the supervision of Engineer George W. Hancock, Fortieth street and Lancaster avenue; cost about $50,000.

William J. Gruher, Germantown, has been awarded the contract for the erection of the $10,500 residence at the southwest corner of Walnut lane and McCallom street, Germantown, for Howard Middleton, owner. The house will measure 28x78 feet. It was planned by Mantel Feilding, architect, 110 South Fourth street, and fully noted previously in these columns.

Feld & Medary, architects, 1414 South Penn Square, have been retained to prepare plans for a new gymnasium building for Haverford College, Montgomery county, Pa. It will be two stories high, 80x90 feet, stone and brick construction, swimming pool, bowling alleys, and all general equipments will be introduced. Drawings in detail will be started at once.

Building and Real Estate Notes.

Last week the J. H. Michner & Co., meat plant, at 956 North Front street, was badly damaged by fire. Loss $25,000, and will be rebuilt at once.

Transfers show a heavy falling off, as last week there were but 170 against 244 for the week ending August 5th. This is a falling off of over 10 per cent. in a single week.

The National Eggett Coal Company, Philadelphia, Pa., is erecting a plant at Portsmouth, R. I., for the manufacture of fuel from the anthracite deposits of Rhode Island.

The Cramp shipbuilders have just bought a large piece of property adjoining their present holdings and will increase their works at once by the construction of another necessary shop, etc.

Hillyer & Dilks, builders, are about to start seven three-story dwellings on Collom street, east of Germantown avenue, all to be of fancy press brick, porches, and all the latest comforts introduced on the interior.

Roydhouse, Arey & Co., contractors, will make interior alterations to the store of Fritz & Larue, on Chestnut street, above Twelfth. The work will consist of a new corridor, and other details of minor character.

Extensive interior alterations, to cost about $3,000, are to be made to the parochial school of the Church of the Gesu, located at Seventeenth and Stiles streets, in order to form club rooms for members. Thomas Reilly has the contract, and will begin work at once.

The Board of Port Wardens held a special meeting on the 14th inst. to hear an application from the Cramps shipbuilding firm for permission to erect a wharf just south of a lately acquired piece of property. The application was referred to a committee for report.

Charles McCaul, 10 North Eleventh street, has the contract to build the two-story brick sub-station, at 3643 Germantown avenue, for the Union Traction Company. The building will measure 38.6x75 feet, and the work will cost $11,000. The work will be started at once.

Charles J. Heckler, 1540 Lehigh avenue, will at once begin the erection of fifty two-story houses at Twentieth street and Indiana avenue. All to be brick, stone trimmings and best comforts on the interiors. Mr. Heckler is taking bids on the different schedules for the work.

E. Sturo & Son have accepted plans drawn by Edwin F. Bertolett, architect, 1215 Filbert street, for a large cistern, pump-house and fire walls at their hosiery mills, on Clementine street, between Thompson and Edgemont streets. A two-story mill and sorting-room will also be erected, at a cost of $40,000.

The Rittenhouse Quarry, of Germantown, Wm. M. Watson, agent, is running to its full capacity and has started on the cut stone work for the new public school at Thirteenth and Thompson streets; George Pierson, builder. The Rittenhouse blue granite is certainly making a name for itself with architects and builders, and sustaining its working motto "stone for every purpose."

W. A. Hurlock & Son have secured the contract to build a cart-shed of iron, slate, wood and terra cotta, at Ninth and Diamond streets, for the United Gas Improvement Company. These plans, which were drawn by Wilson Brothers & Co., architects and engineers, call for a building 20 x 110 feet, which will cost $12,700 to construct. They have been noted previously in this journal.

J. Lowber Welsh has awarded a contract to C. F. Sharp, for extensive alterations and repairs at 1415 Spruce street, to cost $2500. The work will consist of underpinning the cellar walls, excavating for a sub-cellar, putting new joists and floor, cutting an opening to the vault under the pavement, setting a new heater and pipes, a new range, and an open fire place in the parlor and general interior repairs.

The Bureau of Building Inspection has approved the plans drawn by Hales & Ballinger, for the new mill and office building to be erected at the north west corner of Indiana avenue and A street, for Hoyle, Harrison & Kaye. John W. Fritzingher has the contract at a figure said to be about $42,000, and will start work at once. One building will be 61 x 62 feet and five stories high. Previously noted in full.

W. A. Margerum, builder, 403 Drexel Building, has prepared to erect an operation consisting of eighty-one houses in the vicinity of Twenty-ninth and Reed streets, at a cost of $115,000 for construction. There will be a row of twenty-five on the east side of Twenty-ninth street, from Reed to Dickinson, the two corner properties being stores. The other fifty-six houses will be on the east and west side of Dover street, between Reed and Dickinson streets.

W. W. Rea & Sons, 1815 Francis street, contractors, have been awarded the contract for the George F. Lasher printing house, to be erected at Juniper and Cherry streets, from plans by Charles Balderston, architect, 411 and 413 Walnut street. These drawings have been noted previously in full in this journal. It will be eight stories high, 60x100 feet in area, and of brick, stone and iron construction, elevators, lifts, steam power and heat, electric work, etc.

Bids were opened in the office of the Fairmount Park Commission, on the 10th inst., for the construction of steps and a retaining wall at the east end of the trolley bridge across the Schuylkill, at Strawberry Mansion, an electric conduit and a river wall around Peters' Island, in the Schuylkill. The bidders for the electric conduits were, T. F. Riley & Co., and Delaplaine & West. For the river wall around Peters' Island, the bidders were C. M. Camm, Leonard Foley and T. F. Riley & Co. The award was made to T. F. Riley & Co.

On Friday next Stacy, Reeves & Sons will give their employees an outing which will extend to Monday, the 21st inst. Arrangements have been made for a fishing trip to Bogan's Island, in the Great Bay, about twelve miles above Atlantic City. The party will go by the way of Leeds' Point, via Absecon, thence by boats to the island. While the fishing at this point is excellent, the biting is insignificantly small when compared to that of the ubiquitous mosquito, which will welcome the party with demonstrations of genuine affection.

A large strip of property, at Wissahickon, has just been purchased by the A. & P. Roberts Company, of the Pencoyd Iron Works, for the extension of their already massive plant in Montgomery county. Having utilized all of the available land on the west bank of the Schuylkill for a distance of a mile and a half opposite Manayunk and Wissahickon,
